ECONOMY AIM MAY HALT ALL SUPPLY BILLS

Treasury-Postal Slash Sought By Tydings.

PARTY PARLEY CALLED TODAY

Measures Might Not Win Favor Before Short Session.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Free of filibuster shackles for the first time in weeks, the Senate last night was at grips with a new economy onslaught that may send every appropriation bill back to committee for cuts totaling millions.

The new issue, which threatens to throw virtually all of the big supply measures into the special session of Congress, was injected by Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland. He moved to recommit the Treasury-Post-office measure, first of the huge appropriation bills.

Democratic floor support developed at once and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, Democratic leader, called a party conference for 9:30 this morning to sound out opinion and organize a united front. He said he thought the Tydings motion would be approved.

Would Cut Figures.

The Marylander's motion is in line with his resolution introduced 10 days ago. It would order a horizontal cut under budget figures of $492,000,000 in all appropriation bills, confining Federal expenditures in 1934 to estimated revenues. This would require the Senate Appropriations Committee to trim supply bills down to a $2,919,100,000 total, and suspend all provisions for any appropriation.

The Democratic conference was summoned on suggestion of Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, following an explosive speech by Senator Tydings, who declared the only reason Congress does not make further cuts is because of "political fear."

"If I can't vote my own sentiments here," Tydings shouted, "to hell with this job."

Held Vital Question.

Senator Walsh said he thought the issue raised by the Maryland senator is the most vital question before Congress.

"If we adopt the motion it means we have chosen this course (appropriation cuts rather than taxes as a means of balancing the budget," Walsh added.

Following recess, Senator Robinson said his only doubt about the proposal is that the Senate might start out enthusiastically, as it did last year, but not go through with it. He said he is thoroughly in sympat'

Tax Returns Publicity Urged in Senate Bill

(Associated Press.)

Publicity for all income, war and excess profits tax returns is called for in a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, as an outgrowth of the stock exchange investigation of the Senate Banking Committee.

"We find so many forms of tax-dodging practiced, and I am convinced the tax evasions are enormous," he said, "I believe it would be much more difficult for tax-dodgers to operate if the record is a public one."

A laughing campaign against technocracy was launched last night at the meeting of the Maryland Society of Washington at the Washington Club with an address by William B. Gross, featuring such puns as "some people do not know whether an erg is made or laid."

Musical entertainment was furnished by a quartet composed of William, Flora and Lynch Gross and Mrs. Joseph Payne; vocal solos by Mrs. Payne, piano solos by Mrs. Julia Conway and readings by Katherine Manor.

MOLEY AND STIMSON SCAN BRITISH REPLY

President-Elect's Adviser Has Long Conference on Debt Negotiation.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

A heavy pall of secrecy descended on the intergovernmental debt negotiations yesterday which stretched all the way from Warm Springs to Washington. The sole rift in the screen of silence was the visit of Prof. Raymond I. Moley, confidential adviser to President-elect Roosevelt, who arrived in the office of Col. Stimson at 4 o'clock yesterday and remained in deep discussion with the Secretary of State more than an hour. Prof. Moley came down from New York yesterday and will go back today, presumably after he has conferred again with the State Department.

The visit of the President-elect's economic adviser to the Secretary of State started a train of conjecture that another note, in reply to the British response received here on Tuesday, might be in process of preparation by Mr. Roosevelt at Warm Springs. Prof. Moley declined to throw any light on this possibility, and his general attitude on questions of newspapermen after the State Department visit was a negative one.

Since the British reply was communicated to the President-elect there has been no formal action by him. The visit of Prof. Moley is believed to have been in response to a request from Warm Springs for additional information on the debt outlook.

While newspapermen were hemming in the professor after his call on the Secretary of State, Col. Stimson himself issued from the elevator and admitted that "no note is going forward tonight." He hurried on before any more queries could be addressed.

An authoritative source that has had access to the Roosevelt group admitted that the use of the words "concurrent with and conditional upon" indicated that a distinction has been made in the Roosevelt invitation between the war debts and the economic problems allied to them. As phrased in the White House com-

Chinese Trade Pact Is Denied by Soviet

Moscow Spikes Tientsin Rumor as False and Provocative.

Moscow, (Friday) Jan. 27 (A.P.).—An official communique today officially denied charges, said to have emanated from the Tientsin correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi, that the Soviet government and China have entered into a secret trade agreement at Peiping, "aimed at strengthening the anti-Japanese boycott."

Describing the report as "a provocative invention from beginning to end," the statement declared that there was no Soviet trade representative at Peiping and that no negotiations whatsoever regarding a trade agreement with China had been entered into anywhere.

"This report," the communication continued, "emanates from the same source as those broadcast January 15 by the Japanese War Ministry, as a result of which the Soviet government entered an official protest."

Four Children Slain; Father Is Arrested

St. Perpetue, Quebec, Jan. 26 (A.P.). Four children, the eldest 4 years old, were found dead tonight in a farm house on the outskirts of this village. Police arrested Lucien Gerard, their father.

A fifth child was in critical condition from injuries. The police said Gerard became suddenly demented and attempted to wipe out his family.

SINGLE TRAFFIC AUTHORITY NEW ROOSEVELT AIM

Transportation by Land, Sea and Air May Be Unified.

ST. LAWRENCE PACT ATTACKED BY HINES

Reorganized I. C. C. Would Be Able to Improve Service and Save Money.

Warm Springs, Ga., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Unification of the scattered Federal agencies dealing with transportation—land, sea and air—under one authority is being studied by President-elect Roosevelt in his governmental economy drive.

It became known authoritatively here today that long strides already have been made in this phase of the tremendous reorganization program contemplated by the President-elect.

A similar grouping of the Federal forces directing radio, telephone and telegraph, into a communications unit, also is a part of the plan.

Hines Presents Views.

In drafting his economy campaign in the "Little White House" on Pine Mountain, Mr. Roosevelt went over things at some length last night and today with Walker D. Hines, former director general of the Railway Administration, and Swager Sherley, of Kentucky, former chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Speaking later for himself, Hines advocated that the Government close the Treasury doors to support of inland waterways, voiced opposition to the St. Lawrence waterway project and urged elimination of the recapture clause in the transportation act, which limits railroad profits.

It is Mr. Roosevelt's idea that the new transportation unit be a Reconstructed Interstate Commerce Commission. It is contemplated that it be given executive, semijudicial and regulatory powers. But that feature, together with many other complications, remains to be worked out.

The constant series of Roosevelt conferences, dealing with this and every other phase of the Government which he takes over on March 4, will be continued into next week.

Youth Is Acquitted In Police Slaying

Varner Corry, Who Once Got 18-Year Term, Wins Liberty.

Chicago, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Varner Corry, 17, was acquitted tonight by a jury of murder for the slaying of Policeman Edward Smith, on Memorial Day, 1931. The jury deliberated 4½ hours.

Corry was once sentenced to 18 years' imprisonment, but the Illinois Supreme Court granted him a new trial.

Smith was shot to death when he ordered Corry and two other youths from a swimming pool in a high school building, which they had entered through a window on the holiday.

Skipper Who Saved 22 From Sea Timid Hero

Capt. Stedman Remains in Cabin When His Ship Docks, Refusing Credit and Noisy Thanks of New York City.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—A hero of the sea came to port today with 22 men he had saved from a sinking British freighter in mid-Atlantic, but he would have none of the credit for the feat which old seamen had hailed as "remarkable."

The slim young master of the American Merchant, 36-year-old Giles Chester Stedman, stayed in his cabin while harbor craft of all kinds set up a cacaphony of noise—New York's welcome of whistles.

He went about his routine duties while the ship headed toward a pier loaded with cheering crowds.

He talked quietly of the rescue, but he insisted the credit belonged to others.

It was the accuracy of a radio direction finder, he said, that enabled the American Merchant last Friday to locate the battered Exeter City, after her bridge had been carried away, and her skipper, third mate and two members of the crew had been swept overboard by a 50-foot wave.

And it was the pouring of 85 tons of oil onto the turbulent sea, 1,575 miles east of New York, that enabled the American ship to get close enough to the floundering freighter to shoot a line across, send over an

DEATH RIDES STORM ON ATLANTIC COAST

Akron Flees Inland Over Ohio Until Winds Abate; Three Sea Pilots Missing.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Ships of the sea and one ship of the air felt the fury of a storm that swept up the Atlantic seaboard today.

Three steamship pilots were believed to have drowned when their yawl was upset off Monmouth, N. J. Sixteen men were forced to abandon the Coast Guard station on a tiny island off Beach Haven, N. J. Several vessels reported themselves in difficulty and numerous other advices were received of storm damage all along the coast.

The Navy dirigible Akron nosed through the fog and arrived at her home port at Lakehurst, N. J., after a forced flight to escape the storm. The wind, accompanied by rain squalls, roared up in North Carolina just as the Akron was about to come down at Lakehurst last night after a short training cruise.

Capt. F. C. McCord, in command of the 82 officers and men aboard, decided to seek safety farther inland and sent the ship cruising over Ohio and Lake Erie for the night. Much of the night was spent dodging the regular air lanes to avoid a possible collision in the fog.

In New York harbor, where the wind reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour, the yawl in which three men were returning to their pilot

Bride Killed by Ax For $23 Plunder

Dadeville, Ala., Jan. 26 (U.P.).—Mrs. Ira B. Marable, bride of one month, was found hacked to death in her home here late today by her husband and stepchildren. Tonight a posse with bloodhounds from Kilby Prison, Montgomery, was searching nearby hills for the slayer.

The bloodhounds picked up the trail of the killer at a spring near the house where a hatchet supposedly used in the killing was found in the spring. Bloodstains were found on the hatchet despite its washing in the waters of the spring.

A trunk in the house had been ransacked and $23 was missing.

ALL FORD FACTORIES CLOSE INDEFINITELY

100,000 Men Lose Employment as Outcome of Body Plant Strike.

Detroit, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—A recent walkout of a number of body plant workers resulted today in announcement by the Ford Motor Co. that its factories throughout the United States, employing an aggregate of approximately 100,000 men, would be shut down indefinitely.

The walkout occurred early this week in the two plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Co., finally resulting in the shutting down of the plants, where about 6,000 men were employed. Although Briggs officials said there was no disorder, police were ordered to guard the plants, where demonstrators paraded in the streets.

Ford officials explained that they could not continue operation without bodies furnished by the Briggs Co.

At the same time Clarence W. Avery, president of the Murray Corporation of America, manufacturers of automobile bodies, said that because of the Ford shutdown from 1,200 to 2,000 men, half the company's roster, would be laid off. The men, Avery said, have been engaged in production for the Ford company.

Employes of the Briggs company declared the walkout was due not to a reduction in wages but to deductions made by the company for "dead time" when workers move from one part of the plant to another or when breakdowns in machinery occur. The minimum wage for nonproductive workers, company officials said, is 25 cents an hour and from 60 cents to $1 an hour in the expert trades.

Some workers in the automobile plants said they feared other shutdowns, if the walkout should continue. The Briggs company, they said, manufactures bodies for several other automobile companies. Most of these companies, however, reported a surplus on hand, although some reported the supply would be exhausted by Monday.

Most of the 40,000 men employed locally at the Ford plant have been working three days a week, while officials said that the time of employment in the body plants varied with the amount of orders on hand. Practically all the automotive labor is unorganized.

Four Boys Confess Wrecking of Train

Too Young to Be Handled by Court, so Parents Get Them Back.

Norton, Va., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Four boys, whose ages range from 8 to 10 years, today confessed before Judge J. T. Hamilton that they were responsible for the wreck on the Interstate Railroad last December.

The wreck was fatal to Frank Moneyhun, fireman, and resulted in serious injury to John Henry Jervis, engineer.

Because they are under the statutory age of 14, Judge Hamilton paroled them to their parents, with instructions to report to him monthly.

Robber Hides and Later Loots Bank of $12,000

Kennett, Mo., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The Citizens' Bank of Senath, Mo., was looted of between $12,000 and $15,000 in currency late today by a robber who had hidden in the directors' room before the bank closed for the day.

Emerging from his hiding place after the front doors had been locked, the robber forced W. H. Hutchins, cashier, to remove the money from a safe and pile it on a table. Then Hutchins and Miss Myrtle Johnson, bookkeeper, were locked in a vault, where they remained until released two hours later.

Brooklyn Parents in Terror After Third Child Murder

Six-Year-Old Girl Found Strangled in Vacant Cellar; Suspect Arrested When Seen Leading Weeping Little One.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Brooklyn mothers either accompanied their daughters to and from school or refused to allow them out of the house today as 150 picked detectives and policemen searched the neighborhood of 6-year-old Helen Sterler's home for her slayer.

The girl's body was found in a vacant cellar a few doors from her home last night, the third child victim in that area within a year. She had been attacked and strangled to death with a sash cord. Nearby lay a half-eaten lollypop, with which, the police said, she probably was lured into the cellar.

While the search was going on, William Way, 60, was arrested when Policeman Samuel Kohn said he found him leading a 5-year-old girl, Muriel Clark, toward a vacant store.

Kohn said he was summoned by two women who became suspicious when they saw the girl start crying. Way was booked on an assault charge and turned over to detectives of the homicide squad for questioning.

Another man, about 40 years old, was being questioned in connection with the Sterler killing. Three other men were questioned and released earlier in the day.

The Sterler girl, youngest of seven children of Louis Sterler, an unemployed peddler, was found by the medical examiner to have died from asphyxiation induced by strangulation. Her jaw had been fractured, apparently by a blow from an Indian club.

She last was seen alive about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when she went into a neighborhood store to buy the lollypop. The penny she had must have been given to her by the person who later killed her, police said.

When she failed to come home for supper police were notified, and the body was found shortly before midnight.

FILMS WORTH $50,000 FOUND BY EXPLOSION

TWO BOYS ARRESTED FOR INVESTIGATION

Motion Pictures Taken From Theaters Over Period of Two Years.

Working on clews obtained by fire inspectors who investigated the motion picture film explosion at the Flannery home at 707 Second street northwest, in which John J. Flannery was seriously burned, police announced last night that they had recovered 200 rolls of motion picture films valued by the film companies at $50,000.

The investigation of the blast was made by Fire Inspectors Raymond C. Roberts, I. C. Kepler and J. R. Gray. Thomas Flannery, 14 years old, who had the films which his father inadvertenly placed in the furnace of their home, told the inspectors that he got his films from some other boys.

Two Boys Arrested.

Police were told about what had been learned, and Policemen Leroy Murray and H. E Brody yesterday recovered the 200 rolls of films in the attic of a house at 487 Maryland avenue southwest. They also arrested Henry Long, 16, and Earl Jones, 16, of that address, for investigation.

The films recovered included several new films, one of them being "Suicide Fleet," but most of them were old. All had been stolen from Warner Bros and RKO-Keiths theaters, and had been taken over a period of two years.

Men Seriously Burned.

The film companies said the celluloid was stolen from various theaters.

The explosion at the Flannery home occurred when the father in cleaning up the basement tossed several rolls in the furnace. In the blast Flannery was seriously burned about the face and arms, and the home was damaged.

At the time the boy's possession of the films was explained by his penchant for accumulating them, and a desire to perfect a means of projecting them. The story was exclusively reported in The Washington Post on Wednesday.

Tupper Lake, N. Y., Jan. 26 (A.P.). Two hundred patients were forced to leave their beds in the Veterans' Administration Building here last night when fire of undertermined orgin threatened to destroy the building. Six patients had to be carried down ladders by firemen. Gerald Mackey, a firemen, suffered a broken leg when a ladder buckled, hurling him to the ground.

Hays, Kans., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Miss Mabel Holzapfel, 28, was shot to death today in the vault of the Farmers State Bank at Oakley where she had been a bookeeper for the last ten years.

The coroner, who described her death as suicide, did not divulge the contents of the notes written by Miss Holzapfel or say to whom they were addressed.

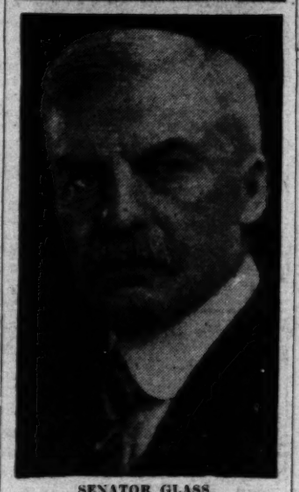
GLASS TAKES CABINET POST OF TREASURY



SENATOR GLASS. SENATOR WALSH.

Informs Roosevelt He Will Accept His Offer.

WALSH TO GET JUSTICE PLACE

Selections Designed to Allay Political Disturbance.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, has formally signified to President-elect Roosevelt his acceptance of the proffered Cabinet appointment as Secretary of the Treasury, and official announcement of the selection is expected from Warm Springs during the next few days.

In extending congratulations to Mr. Glass yesterday, Senate colleagues were informed emphatically that there would be no public comment on the decision until the appointment is formally announced.

At the same time, it was disclosed informally on Capitol Hill yesterday that Senator Thomas J. Walsh has been offered, and has signified his acceptance of, the office of Attorney General. Announcement of this appointment also is expected from Warm Springs in the near future.

Like his colleague from Virginia, Senator Walsh has declined to discuss the decision pending Mr. Roosevelt's public announcement.

Confirmation Surprise.

Although both of these appointments have figured prominently in the Cabinet discussions since the President-elect's visit here last week, authoritative confirmation of them yesterday came as something of a surprise to official Washington. During his Mayflower conferences last week, Mr. Roosevelt told several of his party leaders he did not anticipate any Cabinet decisions until mid-February, at the earliest.

The changes in plans, it was suggested yesterday by some of Mr. Roosevelt's Senate advisers, may have been occasioned by a desire on the part of the President-elect to hasten announcement of his key selections with a view to stabilizing the turbulent political situation throughout the country.

The appointment of Senator Glass is interpreted widely as a most reassuring declaration against currency inflation in the prospective special session of Congress in April, for the fiery Virginian is recognized throughout the financial and business community as among the most militant defenders of sound money in American public life today.

Glass Foe of Inflation.

His appointment is heralded as an omen that inflationary proposals have been put on the high shelf by Mr. Roosevelt. Friends of Senator Glass were informed weeks ago that the possibility of inflation was one of the major factors involved in his consideration of the Treasury offer. There has been no intimation, of course, that Senator Glass fixed no inflation as a condition of his ac-

Fleet pursuit ships, basic training planes to be used in flight instructional work and huge transports and bombers were included in the list of ships ordered.

One contract for the construction of 111 single-seater low-wing monoplane pursuit ships was awarded to the Boeing Airplane Co., of Seattle, Wash. Experimental models of this type ship have survived extended service tests in competition with other planes before being adopted as standard by the Air Corps. Banker Is Robbed Of Auto and $1.36

2 Men Tell Barr They Are Doing Him Favor; Leave Him His Stick Pin.

Two polite robbers, speaking calmly but firmly and indicating they could enforce their demands, held up and robbed Hugh W. Barr, vice president of the International Exchange Bank, of $1.36 and stole his automobile last night.

When Mr. Barr, who had been visiting friends at LeRoy place, started to get into his car he was accosted by the robbers who told him to "hand over his money." Neither of the men exhibited a gun, but one of them put his hand in his pocket as if he could produce one should it become necessary.

The banker handed them his $1.36, saying that was all he had and asking if it was satisfactory. The men grunted in slight disgust, and motioned for him to get into the car. They got in with him and one of them took the wheel and drove him to California street, where he was told to get out. They also warned him not to report the robbery, saying they were doing him a favor and pointed to his diamond stick pin.

CONGRESS DIVIDED ON R. F. C. INQUIRY

Howard Raps $64,498,000 Loan to San Francisco Bank as "Alien" Aid.

(Associated Press.)

Tentative questions of doubt and assurances that everything was as it should be came from members of Congress yesterday as they considered looking further into the 11,000 loans the Reconstruction Corporation made in the first five months it was at work.

Until the voluminous report could be studied thoroughly, nothing was likely to happen so far as an investigation was concerned. But there was, meanwhile, both criticism and defense of the facts surrounding the $1,195,000,000 the corporation told the House it authorized from February 2 through July 20 last year.

For instance, Representative Howard (Democrat), Nebraska, author of the resolution that brought the report on loans prior to the time they were made public in monthly statements, looked askance at the $64,498,000 that went to the San Francisco Bank of America.

Scores "Alien" Loans.

Said he to newspapermen:

"It seems strange that the corporation should make a $64,000,000 loan to a syndicate of foreigners and want to keep it secret, while a farmer who borrows $200 for crop production is blacklisted and his loan posted throughout his country.

"I still see no reason to make fish of the farmer and beautifully feathered fowls of the big foreign borrowers."

He said he had been "abused" because he insisted that the loans approved in the five months should be made public, instead of being given only to members of Congress. Jesse H. Jones, a corporation director, yesterday asked Howard not to publicize the report on the ground that it would damage the borrowing institutions.

But Howard and Speaker Garner—the latter largely responsible for the fact that loans made after July 21 already have been published—refused to yield. They denied that any harm would result.

Couzens Stands Pat.

Howard said he would not decide whether to carry the investigation further until he saw the country's reaction and had time to study the new report.

In the Senate, though, Couzens (Republican), Michigan, told newspapermen he had not had time to study the report thoroughly, but knew of no reason why he should change his previous opinion that the loans were made in accordance with law.

Couzens was chairman of a special Senate committee that investigated these same loans. It reported that while it could not see the collateral, since that was on deposit at Federal Reserve banks throughout the country, it found nothing to indicate deviations from the law.

"From our superficial examination, it seemed that everything was all right, and I don't yet see reason for taking another attitude," Couzens said.

The corporation's report showed that of the $1,195,000,000 pledged, $722,456,000 had gone to financial institutions and $224,000,000 to railroads. Financial institutions throughout the country up to January 6, 1933, had paid back $228,162,000 and railroads $11,722,000. Total repayments were $267,532,000.

Dawes Bank Got $90,000,000.

Among the larger loans were $90,000,000 to the Dawes Chicago Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., $30,000,000 to the Bank of Italy Mortgaging Co., of San Francisco; $20,000,000 to the Prudence Co., in New York; $27,500,000 to the Pennsylvania Railroad, $25,000,000 to the Baltimore & Ohio and $17,100,000 to the Missouri Pacific.

Along with this special statement, the corporation submitted its regular report for December, showing that in that month it approved loans and allocations of $154,000,000. At the end of the year, the corporation had made loans totaling in all $1,648,622,000.

While members were studying these two reports, the corporation went right ahead with its routine, adding $81,200 for New Mexico to the $100,908,000 it already had granted in relief loans to States.

Senator Malstrom Is Dinner Guest

Woman Leader Is Here to Testify at Congress Currency Hearing.

Mrs. Kathryn Malstrom, only woman Washington State senator, was guest of honor last night at a dinner given by the board of directors of the Business and Professional Women's Club at the American Association of University Women's Club.

Senator Malstrom is here to appear before the House Ways and Means Committee in behalf of the depreciated currency bill introduced by Representative Sam B. Hill, of Washington. She was sent by Gov. Clarence D. Martin.

Noted throughout the West for her political activities, Senator Malstrom is prominently identified with educational affairs in Takoma, Wash., and is a member of the Business and Professional Club of that city.

School to Honor Noonan Is Urged

Conduit Road Citizens Also Decide to Change Name of Association.

A motion to petition the Board of Education to name a District school building in honor of John J. Noonan, projector of the 3-cent car fare for school children, was unanimously adopted last night by the Conduit Road Citizens Association.

The group also adopted a resolution to change its name to one more descriptive inasmuch as the territory embraced by the association has expanded considerably since organization. "Palisades" and "Potomac Heights" are two suggested. The name will be decided upon at the next meeting. Disapproval of a recent request made of the Zoning Commission to give Conduit road between Manning and Norton streets commercial zoning instead of A-1 residential was voted by the association.

3 Washington Men Pass Tests for Foreign Service

MacArthur, Ordway and Caldwell Ready for Appointments.

The names of three young Washingtonians were among those announced yesterday at the State Department as successful candidates in the competitive examinations for appointment in the Foreign Service.

The local men chosen are Douglas MacArthur 2d, of 1854 Kalorama road northwest; John Ordway, of 1710 Thirty-fifth street northwest, and David K. Caldwell.

MacArthur is the son of the late Capt. Arthur MacArthur, of the Navy, and Mrs. MacArthur. He is also a nephew of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, present chief of staff of the Army. He was born in Bryn Mawr, Pa., attended Milton Academy and later Yale University, where he was graduated last June. At the latter school he distinguished himself by playing on the varsity rugby and football teams as well as participating in a number of student activities. He is 23.

Ordway is the son of Col. and Mrs. Godwin Ordway, U. S. A., of 1710 Thirty-fifth street northwest. He was born at Fort Rodman, Mass., is 23 and attended Princeton University, where he was graduated in 1931 cum laude.

David K. Caldwell was born in Tokyo, Japan, March 19, 1909. His father, John Kenneth Caldwell, is consul general of the Foreign Service. GLASS INFORMS ROOSEVELT HE'LL TAKE CABINET POST record say that the assurances on ceptance, but those who know his monetary policy could hardly have been greater had he done so publicly prior to announcement of his acceptance.

Senator Walsh, who has served in the Senate continuously since the beginning of the first Wilson administration in 1913, is recognized as one of the most able lawyers in Congress. He is famous both as an effective prosecutor and an eminent authority on constitutional law. Although he has been identified occasionally with progressive maneuvers in Congress, he is regarded as a man of essentially conservative nature.

In 1924 he won place as an elder statesman of the Democratic party by his fair and skillful presidency over the historic Madison Square Garden convention. Through 103 murderous ballots Senator Walsh so wielded his gavel as to emerge with the respect and esteem of almost all Democrats, and a great many Republicans. Last summer he was again named permanent chairman of the party convention, after the Roosevelt forces had demanded his selection over all other candidates.

Reports that Senator Walsh had been offered the Attorney Generalship were partially confirmed during Mr. Roosevelt's visit here last week, but the matter was generally understood to have been left open, awaiting the senator's choice as between his Senate term, which does not expire until 1937, and the arduous Cabinet berth. Although Senator Walsh celebrated his seventy-third birthday last June, his friends urged him vigorously to accept the Cabinet service.

Senator Glass hinted his acceptance of the Treasury post on the floor of the Senate on Tuesday of this week, when, in an exchange with Senator Huey Long, he suggested the Louisiana firebrand might "begin now" to indict his objections to the appointment. Questioned on the point soon afterward, Senator Glass dismissed the response to Long as merely a parliamentary rejoinder. He declined at the time to go further.

After some 20 years as a member of the House, Senator Glass resigned his seat in the Sixty-sixth Congress in December, 1918, to become Secretary of the Treasury in the Wilson Cabinet. This post he relinquished in February, 1920, to accept appointment to the Senate.

In the House, Mr. Glass won international repute as one of the authors of the Federal Reserve act, and he has since been recognized as the outstanding congressional authority on banking and currency policies.

He is a native of Virginia and was born in 1858.

ECONOMY MOVE MAY DELAY ALL MONEY BILLS IN SENATE

with the Tydings program if senators are in earnest.

But both Senator Robinson and Senator McNary, Oregon, assistant Republican whip, were of the opinion that adoption of the Tydings motion would hold up all the appropriation bills until the special session of Congress in April. Senator Tydings contends it would not.

Early Vote Indicated.

Indications are the motion may be voted on early this afternoon.

The unexpected trend blocked any work on the pending Treasury-Postoffice bill, or the 1 2-3 per cent proposed additional Federal salary cut and other economy provisions tied to it.

In the face of a vigorous appeal by Senator Frederick Hale (Republican), Maine, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, for nonpartisan efforts to get the appropriation bills passed this session, Democratic senators rallied instead to support of the Tydings proposal.

"Never in my fairly long experience in the Senate has a more difficult situation faced the annual appropriation bills," said Senator Hale. "Without the hearty cooperation of the Senate—all of the Senate—the task of enacting into law these bills, all of them necessary to the maintenance of the Government, will be impossible."

Bingham to Explain It.

The pay-cut issue and other economy proposals at stake soon were subordinated to the broader question of whether the Senate would substitute an ax for a knife in pruning appropriations.

Senator Oddie (Republican), Nevada, chairman of the Treasury-Postoffice subcommittee, announced the economy program will not be taken up until other items in the bill have been disposed of. He said Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, chairman of the Senate Economy Committee, will take the floor to explain it.

One of the first to come to the support of Senator Tydings' motion was Senator Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico. He declared the proposal entirely in harmony with the plan to give Franklin D. Roosevelt broad authority to reorganize the Government. Congress, he said, can cut appropriations to conform with revenues, and Mr. Roosevelt can regroup Government agencies to conform with the cuts.

Bratton declared $75,000,000 can be saved by merging the Agriculture Department with the Interior Department. He said he intended to press for this action.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, also joined the Maryland senator in his demand for more drastic appropriation cuts, naming a number of bureaus he thinks are alloted more funds than necessary. He said a President has been elected "who has the courage and ability and fortitude to go through with governmental reorganization."

Tydings took the floor several times to outline the purposes and scope of his resolution.

"If I thought there was a chance for even a fragment of that resolution to survive debate in this chamber, I would filibuster in behalf of it to the extent of my physical power," he said.

In Interest of Taxpayer.

Earlier he had declared he was conducting "a filibuster in the interest of the taxpayer and not against the taxpayer."

He said he was not certain that even the severe appropriation cuts he had recommended would balance the budget and suggested necessary revenues might be raised by a general sales tax, exempting food, clothing and medicine. He was supported in his plea for a sales tax by Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York.

Vandenberg Would Add To Power of Roosevelt

(Associated Press.)

A Republican offered yesterday to propose placing the power in the hands of the new Democratic President to abolish governmental bureaus without congressional veto.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, made the assertion after asking Senator King (Democrat), Utah, if he would favor such a proposal.

"The senator has put me on the spot," replied King.

The Michigan senator observed that he would offer it if the measure did not come from the Democrats.

Senator Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, said the Democrats would initiate it.

Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, observed that he was willing to give the incoming Executive power to abolish Government agencies without giving Congress veto power on the changes. Unless this were done, he said, not much saving would result.

SENATE UNIT FAVORS $500,000,000 RELIEF

Links La Follette-Costigan and Cutting Bills and Has Roosevelt Support.

(Associated Press.)

A broad, two-year program calling for an outlay of $500,000,000 to aid the unemployed is to be placed before the Senate soon with the approval of its manufactures committee.

Giving it even more weight, the measure which the committee decided yesterday to report is generally looked upon by its proponents as in accordance with the views of President-elect Roosevelt.

The relief program, combining the much-talked-of La Follette-Costigan bill and the measure of Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, for $15,000,000 in Federal funds for the States to help them care for needy transients, was agreed on by the committee after an hour's discussion and without a record vote.

The legislation would be in effect for two years from date of passage.

La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin and Cutting, who supported President-elect Roosevelt for the Presidency and conferred with him at Warm Springs over the week-end, declined to say what portions of the composite bill were suggested by him.

After their visit with the incoming Chief Executive, they got together with Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, to discuss a combined measure, and the program evolved differs in several major provisions from the original La Follette-Costigan $500,000,000 relief bill on which extensive hearings were completed recently.

One of these changes is that authority for issuing a half billion in bonds for popular subscription to finance relief was eliminated, and a section substituted providing that the money come from the Reconstruction Corporation, which was empowered to expand its security issues that much. Another eliminates the chief of the Children's Bureau as executive officer.

The bill sets up a Federal emergency relief board of three to be appointed by the President, but receive no pay other than expenses and $25 per diem while at work, which would allocate relief funds, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation acting only as a fiscal agent for the board.

Forty per cent of the funds would be given to the States on a basis of population, the balance, except for the transient relief sum and $350,000 for administrative costs, to be held as a reserve for allocation on the basis of needs. Grants on the basis of population would be limited to two-thirds of the State's public and private relief expenditures.

House Member's "No" Louder Than 24 "Ayes"

(Associated Press.)

One lusty "no," shouted by Representative Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, in the House yesterday sounded louder than a chorus of subdued "ayes" to Representative Oliver (Democrat), of New York, who was presiding.

Oliver said an amendment by Representative Goss (Republican), Connecticut, to the Commerce Department supply bill which would prevent purchase of airplane motors made before July 1, 1930, by the department, had "apparently been defeated."

Goss demanded a standing vote.

AIDS TO ROOSEVELT HOLD PARLEYS HERE

Advisers Confer Upon War Debt and Railroad Problems.

(Associated Press.)

Several leading Democrats associated with President-elect Roosevelt during and after the presidential campaign began a series of conferences yesterday with congressional chieftains that will extend over the week-end.

Robert S. Jackson, secretary, and Frank C. Walker, treasurer, of the Democratic national committee, talked with congressional leaders, but declined to divulge the purpose of their missions. Walker was reported to be here to devise some plan whereby funds may be raised to meet the deficit of the Democratic national committee.

Jackson, who comes from New Hampshire, said, "I can't discuss my mission." However, he introduced Senator-elect Fred Brown, Democratic successor to Senator Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, to leaders on both sides of the Capitol. Brown said he was here for the purpose of "checking up on some things I want to learn."

James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is to meet Jackson and Walker here Saturday. Later they will go to Warm Springs, Ga., to see President-elect Roosevelt before going to Miami, Fla., for a vacation. Farley also plans to confer with John J. Curry, chief of Tammany Hall, who is now in Miami for a rest.

Bernard N. Baruch, of New York, acting chairman of the national transportation committee since the death of Calvin Coolidge, also has an appointment Saturday with Rayburn, to discuss railroad legislation.

Rayburn said that while no railroad legislation, except the bankruptcy revision bill pending in the House, could be enacted at this session, the question would be given major consideration in the next Congress.

waterways and shipping would be grouped into the all-inclusive transportation agency.

Several Government agencies, under as many different department executives, now direct America's transportation regulations in Washington.

The President-elect realizes that congressional approval of such a broad reorganization is necessary. He also must get Federal control over motorbus and trucks to include them in the transportation unit.

He believes efficiency as well as economy will be promoted by the reorganization. There is no intention of creating a new Cabinet office for the transportation job.

Henry Morganthau, jr., of New York, the Roosevelt liaison officer with Congress on farm relief, is expected here tomorrow. A close eye on the agricultural legislation is being kept by Roosevelt and he is standing firm for legislation along the lines of the bill now in the Senate in time for the 1933 crop.

The empty yawl was washed ashore, but no trace was found of its three occupants, Hugh A. McIntyre, 47; Albert Strandberg, 21, and Charles M. Peterson, 21. The New York Pilots' Association gave them up as lost after a futile search.

Another pilot, C. Onasch, was forced to continue on to Europe aboard the liner New York when his pilot boat found the sea running too high to take him off.

Pilots are employed to take over the helms of big vessels during the passage in and out of the harbor.

At Beach Haven, N. J., the 16 members of the crew of the Sea Haven Coast Guard station, on Little Egg Island, put out for shore when the wind threatened to blow their frame station house into the sea. All reached the mainland safely in power boats.

Shortly after noon a Coast Guard cutter was dispatched to the aid of the tug Menominee, which wirelessed it was unable to handle its tow of three barges off Barnegat, N. J.

A convict mess hall was blown down at Hanover Courthouse, Va., trapping 100 Negro prisoners chained to their bunks. All were extricated unharmed except one, who was injured.

Coast Guardsmen rescued five men from the fishing sloop Maude E., after it was driven ashore at Lewes, Del., and pounded to pieces.

The rising tide also invaded Norfolk streets and threatened to wash out cottages at Virginia Beach.

BERRY CLARK TRIAL JURORS LOCKED UP

Are Apparently Deadlocked After Being Given Case Earlier in Night.

Apparently hopelessly deadlocked, the jury trying Berry E. Clark, former clerk to the Montgomery County Commissioners, on a charge of embezzling $426 in county funds, was locked up at 11:40 o'clock last night.

When the jurymen reported there was no prospect of a verdict, Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judge Arthur D. Willard ordered them locked up for the night, and left for their homes.

The jurymen had deliberated about three hours. The case, which opened Monday morning, was given to them at 9 o'clock.

The jury left the courtroom after State's Attorney Stedman Prescott declared:

"I have done my duty, an unpleasant one, I admit. It now is up to you to do your duty in accordance with the oath you took and with the dictates of your conscience. Remember, you will have to live with that conscience the rest of your life." The State's attorney told the jurors it was their duty to find Berry Clark guilty not to demand retribution, but that the younger generation should be warned that it could not unlawfully take funds with impunity in Montgomery County.

Plea for Release.

Just before the State's attorney began his closing argument, Thomas L. Dawson, of the defense, had addressed a moving argument that this man's last few years should not be blighted by a trip to the penitentiary. He traced Clark's life since the time he left the farm to serve his country in the Spanish-American War, through the early days of his service in the county until he became an official. He pointed out that the State apparently had not had trouble in obtaining the checks which had been adduced by the prosecution. He declared this was not the act of a "sneaking thief" to leave such evidence loose where it could be used to confound him. Alternating from booming tones to softly whispered words, Mr. Dawson asked the jury to return this man to his invalid wife and the daughter whose birthday coincided with the hearing.

F. Barnard Welsh, E. Barrett Prettyman and Albert M. Bouic, for the defense, also played on what the meaning of the loss of his liberty would mean to Clark and his family.

Produces Two Charts.

State's Attorney Prescott had produced two charts, one showing the bank balance sheet of the Berry E. Clark, clerk, account, and the other the balance sheet of the Berry E. Clark, personal account. He traced on the chart with a long pointer the various transactions which he alleged proved that Clark had converted to his own use money belonging to the county.

The charts bespoke the careful, painstaking work that had preceded the trial for the State's attorney, and other members of the bar complimented his work in the case.

High dramatic point in the case was the entrance to the courtroom of Mrs. Clark, wife of the defendant, as one of the defense witnesses. Supported on the arm of her brother, S. M. Hamilton, and walking with difficulty with the aid of a cane, she walked to the chair which had been placed for her beside the witness stand so that she would not have to climb up.

Denies Extravagance.

Mrs. Clark said she had been married 29 years and denied that she and her husband had ever been extravagant. She said they owned their own home save for a mortgage of $5,700 and that the car they owned was of the 1927 vintage. She said Clark never had left home on trips save a few business ones. She told the court that their daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Prettyman, was 28 years old. "Today is her birthday," she whispered. Mr. Prescott did not cross-examine her. Aided again by her brother, she walked to the side of her husband, where she sat until the close of the defense and part way through the argument of the State's attorney, which was interrupted that she might hobble from the room.

The defense placed several character witnesses on the stand, all old residents of the county, who testified to the good repute of Clark prior to his dismissal.

Denied Shoes, Men Seize Donor's Gift

Slash Him With Knife as He Arrives to Make Contribution.

Having repeatedly called on the Old Woman in the Shoe without getting shoes, several colored men yesterday resented her inability to supply their needs and attempted to do something about it.

After being turned away without shoes, they waited outside the Old Woman in the Shoe headquarters at 727 Seventeenth street northwest, until a donor arrived with shoes. They seized his package, and a scuffle enaued. George Emerson, manager of the headquarters, came to the assistance of his contributor, but in the melee was slashed with a knife and a tendon in his arm severed. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

In commenting on the affray, officials stated that 10,000 requests had been received and they had been able to supply half of them.

LABOR MAN CHARGES BANKS CHOKE TRADE

(Associated Press.)

The possibility of a Senate inquiry hung last night in the background of charges by a labor leader that New York banks have obtained a "stranglehold" on American industry, that has brought it to a condition "bordering upon servitude."

Chairman Norris, of the Judiciary Committee, demanded the investigation shortly after John P. Frey, secretary-treasurer of the Metal Trades Department of the Federation of Labor, had assailed at a hearing the domination which he said the banks hold over corporations.

"The bankers' control of credit now makes it impossible for employers to do what they can to improve conditions," Frey said.

Frey, testifying before Senate and House committees studying proposals for a 30-hour work week that Federal regulation is necessary to improve labor conditions, said the heart of the situation was interlocking directorates.

He presented the results of a nine-month independent inquiry into directorates held by New York bankers, which Norris said "shows a condition which is intolerable in a free country."

Frey was asked by Norris to appear before the committee today and name the bankers he contends are blocking improvement in working conditions.

Frey said his survey showed the partners in 16 large private banking houses in New York, including J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn-Loeb & Co., held 1,067 directorships in other banks and industrial concerns throughout the country.

Directors in the eight leading commercial banks in New York City, he asserted, hold memberships on the boards of 3,741 banks, utility companies and other concerns.

The Chase National Bank, of New York, was said by Frey to have "coerced" an employer into reducing wages and laying off employes.

Norris said the evidence collected by Frey should be given publicity, and warranted an investigation by the Senate, but said he doubted whether his committee had authority to make such an inquiry.

One Slain, Friend Beaten After Woman Annoyed

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Robert Richardson, Negro, was shot and killed and another Negro reported beaten today when a group of West Feliciana Parish citizens headed by a deputy sheriff went to their home to question them about a reported attempt to annoy a young white woman.

The sheriff's office declined to give out details, but Mayor J. R. Matthews of St. Francisville, nearby, said Deputy Ted Martin shot Richardson when he resisted arrest and attempted to run away. The mayor said he was informed the band of men, numbering about 25, whipped the other Negro when he was slow in answering questions.

Grace Brinkley Bares Marriage to Lawyer

Baltimore, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Grace Brinkley, the Diana Deveraux of the musical satire, "Of Thee I Sing," which is playing here this week, announced today she was married yesterday to Joseph T. P. Sullivan, New York attorney. A few hours after the ceremony the bride was on the stage at Ford's Theater, playing the role of "the most beautiful flower of all the Southland."

The actress recently announced she would retire from the stage after playing next week in Washington and the following week in Philadelphia.

AID BILL REVAMPED TO AVOID NEW VETO

$28,000,000 Tax Refunds, to Which Hoover Objected, Left Out of Measure.

A revamped first deficiency bill, providing $625,000 for local unemployment relief, but eliminating $28,000,000 in tax refunds, around which the President's veto hinged, yesterday was made ready for early Congress action by the House Deficiencies Appropriations Subcommittee.

With the controversial refund obstacles out of the way, there is every possibility the new bill may be passed by both House and Senate and receive White House approval by tomorrow, providing funds to meet the acute local relief situation.

House Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns plans to call his full appropriations committee together this morning and get their approval of the measure drafted by his special committee yesterday. Immediately afterward, it may be taken up in the House, passed and dispatched to the Senate.

The original bill appropriated $31,000,000. It was vetoed by Mr. Hoover because it provided for congressional review of all tax refunds over $20,000. The new bill provides only $3,756,000, including the $625,000 for local relief, which will come entirely out of District revenues.

This leaves the measure exactly as it passed House and Senate before, except that the $28,000,000 of refunds has been deleted, and left for appropriation in the second deficiency bill.

Pauline Frederick Sued After Collision of Cars

Los Angeles, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Pauline Frederick, stage and screen actress, was sued for $38,350 in Superior Court today by three minors, who said they were injured in an accident last December 20, involving Miss Frederick's motor car.

The plaintiffs, suing through their father, E. C. McKinney, were Alice, 19; Robert, 17, and Dorothy McKinney, 9. They charged that while riding in a machine driven by Miss Alice McKinney, a collision occurred at Van Nuys when Miss Frederick drove negligently in entering an intersection.

MURDERED WOMAN IS FOUND BURNING

Police Hunt for Truck Seen Near Where Body Was Found in New York.

Spring Valley, N. Y., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The body of an unidentified woman who appeared to have been between 35 and 40 years old was found partly destroyed by fire today near a roadway leading from the Rockland County Welfare Home to the Nyack turnpike.

The body, still burning when discovered by Alonzo Osborne, was concealed behind a big boulder about 75 feet from the roadway, a lonely thoroughfare.

Osborn, after attempting to extinguish the flames with snow, hurried home and notified police. He and his brother, Louis, then returned to the body and put out the fire.

Police began a search for a man whose truck was seen mired near the scene about a half hour before the body was discovered.

The truck, a 1-ton affair, carrying New Jersey license plates, proceeded in the general direction of the New Jersey line, Harry Fredericks, a coal dealer, of Pomona, reported. He helped the man release the truck, he said, and recalled having seen smoke curling up from behind the boulder, but thought it was from a brush fire.

Charred garments indicated the woman had been clothed in a black velvet coat and had been wearing three pairs of stockings, one of wool and two of silk. The feet were shod in black velvet shoes.

Authorities said they found a man's footprints following a semicircular course back to the roadway. In the snow was an imprint that may have been made by a 5-gallon can, leading to a theory the woman's body had been soaked with kerosene or gasoline.

Home Installment Tax Hearing Is Tomorrow

Hearings on a bill to authorize payment of taxes and assessments on family dwelling houses in the District in quarterly installments will be held before the House District fiscal affairs subcommittee tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, Chairman Ralph Gilbert announced yesterday.

No family dwelling occupied by the owner could be sold for delinquent taxes as assessments without 30 days' notice, under the measure, which is sponsored by the Home Owners' Protective Enterprise. District Commissioners have approved the bill, providing the authorization to pay taxes in quarterly installments be limited definitely to houses.

Lifeboat Inventor Dead in Bay State

Charles H. McClellan, 92, Former Commander of Cutter Service.

Newburyport, Mass., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Charles H. McLellan, 92, retired commander of the United States Coast Guard and said to have been the inventor of the self-bailing lifeboat which has been credited with reducing loss of life in shipwrecks by 50 per cent, died here today.

During the Civil War McLellan served on President Lincoln's yacht, the Lady Sterling. Later he served on square riggers and then joined the Revenue Cutter Service, as the Coast Guard was formerly known, retiring in 1906 as a commander.

By order of President Roosevelt, however, he was kept on the active list until 1915, and during the World War served the Navy in an advisory capacity on various shipbuilding projects.

INAUGURAL SEAL OVERSIGHT

Too much economy. The inaugural committee learned yesterday to its surprise that in using the last inaugural seal, it bore the words "Hoover" and "Curtis." Letters bearing the seal which had been sent out to Democrats brought prompt protests. Now the seal has been changed and all is quiet in Democratic ranks.

Three Inaugural Parade Division Marshals Named

Maj. Gen. Malone, James A. Farley and Louis A. Johnson Selected; Contract for Presidential Reviewing Stand Awarded; Railroads Assisting.

Appointment of Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, as divisional marshals of the Roosevelt inaugural parade was announced yesterday by Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the Roosevelt inaugural committee. Only one marshal, who will head the fourth division, remains to be named.

Gen. Malone, commander of the Third Corps Area, which embraces Washington, but of which Baltimore is the headquarters, will be marshal of the first division. This division includes the Third Corps Area and staff, Army bands, massed colors, regular Army, Marine Corps, Navy, Coast Guard, National Guard and R. O. T. C. units. Gen. Malone is a native of New York, where he was born May 8, 1872. He graduated from West Point in 1894. He is an honor graduate from Leavenworth and a graduate of the War College. During the World War he commanded the Twenty-third Infantry, Second Division, at Belleau Wood. Later he commanded a brigade in the Fifteenth Division. His decorations include the D. S. C., D. S. M. and S. S. C. He was appointed a brigadier general April 27, 1922, and a major general June 27, 1928.

Mr. Farley, in his capacity of chairman of the Democratic national committee, will lead the second division, which will consist of governors of States and their escorts and especial representatives designated by the governors. Mr. Farley's participation in the parade is similar to that of Dr. Hubert C. Work four years ago.

All Patriotic Organizations.

The division, headed by Mr. Johnson, will embrace all patriotic organizations, veterans and fraternal organizations to be included in the line of march.

The fourth division will include all other marching groups or units grouped by States.

The contract for the President's stand in the court of honor—first unit of the downtown grandstands to be constructed—was awarded yesterday by Waddy D. Wood, chairman of the inaugural committee on grandstands and decorations, to Skinker & Garrett. Permit for erection has been given by the office of Col. U. S. Grant 3d, superintendent of buildings and grounds, under whose jurisdiction this portion of Pennsylvania avenue falls. The contract price was $13,067. Work is expected to begin before the end of the week.

The task of erecting the Presidential court of honor in front of the White House, which will be followed rapidly by the construction of additional Avenue stands, is by far the most arduous. Plans for the court of honor call for a reproduction of Federal Hall, the building in New York from the portico of which George Washington first took the oath of office, in the center portion. It is here that President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Vice President John N. Garner and the immediate personal guests of the President will review the inaugural parade. Flanking it on either side will be two large stands, which with the President's stand will accommodate about 1,800 persons.

Two Adjoining Stands.

The two adjoining stands will be occupied almost entirely by distinguished guests, who will either be invited by the President, or through the committee on distinguished guests, of which Ray Baker is chairman. There are two additional units of the stands for which contracts were let today, which will bring it to East and West Executive avenues on either side. All of these stands and virtually all of those which will be constructed at other points will be covered. Announcement was made today by the committee on housing and hospitality, of which Mrs. Blair Banister is chairman, that the committee had obtained the cooperation of all the railroads entering Washington in connection with its activities.

The service which the housing committee is prepared to offer will be emphasized in all the publicity which the railroads are using in advance of the inaugural. In addition time tables effective between now and March 4 will make known the desire of the housing committee to assist visitors in finding accommodations. The Pennsylvania Railroad has placed its facilities at Union Station at the disposal of the house committee for the purpose of routing visitors to Washington at the time of the inauguration to their rooms.

Details of the work to be undertaken by the Inaugural Committee on Public Order were discussed at the first meeting of the committee held yesterday in the Washington Building, Melvin C. Hazen, chairman, presiding.

Arthur I. Vorys, 76, Is Dead at Columbus

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Arthur I. Vorys, 76, nationally known Republican political figure and prominent in international insurance circles, died here today. He had been in failing health for nearly a year.

He was a member of the Republican national committee from 1908 to 1912, and was Ohio manager for William Howard Taft in his first campaign for the Presidency.

D. C. Lawyer Held On Larceny Count

John W. Staggers' Bond Is Fixed at $5,000 by New York Court.

Norwich, N. Y., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—John W. Staggers, attorney, of Washington, D. C., arrested at Marlboro, Md., last Tuesday on a Chenango County warrant charging larceny, first degree, pleaded not guilty today. He was arraigned in county court before Judge Hubert L. Brown, who fixed bail at $5,000.

The Chenango County indictment against Staggers charged that he obtained $12,200 from Thomas B. Parker, a merchant doing business near Norwich, with the understanding that this sum was to be used toward development of property of the Staggers Oil Co., of McKean County, Pa.

Instead, the indictment charged, the money was used to pay off a mortgage held by Henline & Johnson, a Pennsylvania concern.

EDITH RANSOME DIES IN SEATTLE HOSPITAL

Actress Who Gained Fame as Star of "White Cargo" Is Drug Victim.

Seattle, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Edith Ransome, 28, once leading lady of the stage play, "White Cargo," died at a hospital today. Police said she took an overdose of sleeping powder.

In the last act of her dramatic life, she was revealed as friendless and almost penniless in her shabby one-room apartment, the walls of which were plastered with theatrical photographs. Apparently, officers said, she had been living on bread and potatoes.

Police said they found several notes in her room indicating she planned suicide. One requested that her body be taken to Baltimore, Md., for burial in the family plot.

Hospital attendants said Miss Ransome had three sisters and a brother in the East.

Coroner's deputies, meanwhile, awaited word from two of them, a sister, Mrs. Elaine Peer, of Washington, D. C., and the brother, Robert Ransome, of Richmond, Va.

One note Miss Ransome left asked that her trunk and its contents be sent to a friend, Mrs. N. W. Sauders, of Bethesda, Md.

Mrs. A. Wickersham, First Presbyterian Church welfare worker, notified authorities that members of her church would arrange for a funeral.

Edith Ransome a few years ago arrived in Seattle aboard the President Taft from Yokohama, ill and penniless. She became ill in Honolulu, escaped from a hospital and was discovered on the liner Malolo, a stowaway, 24 hours after the vessel left port.

She was taken off at Yokohama and placed aboard the President Taft, where she was cared for by two nurses on the way over. Steamship company officials then said she would be turned over to some charitable organization to be cared for.

MRS. BELMONT DIES AT HOME IN FRANCE

National Woman's Party of U. S. Pays Its Tribute; New York Rites.

Paris, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, for many years leader of New York society, died at 6:50 a. m. today at her home, 9 Rue Monsieur.

Mrs. Belmont, who was 80 years old, had lived in France since 1923.

Dr. Edmund Gros, head of the American Hospital, said the cause of death was a gradual weakening which followed paralytic stroke. Mrs. Belmont suffered one stroke last May and another last November.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday at the American Cathedral. The body will be taken to the United States on the Berengaria, sailing February 4. After a second service in New York, burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery there.

At the bedside when Mrs. Belmont died was her daughter, Mrs. Jacques Balsan, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt. W. K. Vanderbilt, a son, was in New York, and Harold Vanderbilt, a second son, was understood to be on a yachting cruise. Mrs. Balsan and her husband, Col. Balsan, will accompany the body to America.

Messages of sympathy and devotion from leading feminists were received at the Belmont home today. One was from the National Woman's Party in the United States, and another was from Alice Paul, feminist leader, who is in Geneva.

(Associated Press.)

Tribute to Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont was voiced yesterday at headquarters of the National Woman's Party, of which she was an active leader, and the flag there was at half staff.

"All true feminists mourn her loss," said Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, national chairman of the party. "Her assistance in the fight for equal suffrage is well known to all suffrage workers, both State and National."

"In the history of the long, tragic struggle for women's freedom, Mrs. Belmont will have a shining place," said her close friend, Doris Stevens.

A gift from Mrs. Belmont made possible the National Woman's Party headquarters, and it is named for her.

CONCERT MANAGER DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Mrs. Wilson-Greene Will Be Buried Tomorrow in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Washington's realm of music is mourning the death of Mrs. Katie Wilson-Greene, 70, who died yesterday of pneumonia at the home of her niece, Mrs. Dorothy Hodgkin Dorsey, her associate in the Wilson-Greene Concert Bureau, at 1829 Irving street northwest. She had been ill for the last six months.

Mrs. Wilson-Greene, responsible for the appearance of famous musical artists in Washington during the last 25 years, had been identified with Washington music for about 50 years.

Giving up her own career as a singer, she started her managerial work with student recitals. Her first professional venture was the presentation to Washington audiences of Nordica, famous singer.

Sponsored Many Artists.

During her concerts, which have averaged 25 or 30 during the last few years, she has brought to Washington such artists as Calve, Emma Eames, Eugene Ysaye, Jan Kubelik, Paderewski, Caruso and many others.

She also had presented the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera Companies for several seasons, bringing the Metropolitan here for the first time for a week's festival in 1913.

She also had sponsored a series of concerts in Baltimore and Richmond for several seasons.

Mrs. Wilson-Greene is credited with attributing to the success of Grace Moore, famous Metropolitan star. She was one of Mrs. Wilson-Greene's pupils at the time she and her husband were conducting the Wilson-Greene School of Music at 2601 Connecticut avenue before the World War. During a concert in which Martinelli was appearing, Mrs. Wilson-Greene induced the artist to hear Miss Moore sing. From that time on Miss Moore was a hit and soon graduated to the Metropolitan.

Lost in Opera Venture.

The only unsuccessful concert project undertaken by Mrs. Wilson-Greene was the failure of Washington to support the six-year series of Metropolitan Opera productions, which she introduced in 1925. After the second year, management of the series was taken over by a citizen's committee, after a heavy loss to Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

This year she had scheduled sixteen presentations for Washington. Two were canceled and only four remain to be presented.

She was the widow of Thomas Evans Greene, well-known operatic and concert tenor, who died five years ago. They were married in 1910. She was the daughter of Leander G. and Amanda R. (Miles) Wilson and had lived in Washington all her life.

Will Continue Business.

She was a sister of Edwin L. Wilson, prominent attorney, who died here about 18 months ago. She is survived by another brother, J. M. Wilson, of Washington, and a number of nieces, in addition to Mrs. Dorsey, who plans to continue the business pending settlement of her aunt's estate.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow from the funeral parlors of Joseph Gawler Sons, 1754 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Active pallbearers will include Edward H. Droop, Carl A. Droop, Edwin L. Hillyear, Fred E. Hand, Robert C. Handwerk and James E. Barnes.

Lieut. J. H. Davis Retired.

Retirement of John H. Davis, a Sixth Precinct police lieutenant, was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners because of physical disability incurred in line of duty.

Mills May Halt "Padding" Of Treasury Bill Requests

Declares Oversubscription 31 Times of February 1 Issue Is False Picture of Actual Bank Funds Available in U. S. for Investment.

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury's February 1 offering of 5-year 2½ per cent notes was oversubscribed 31 times in the one day that the books were open, and something may be done to prevent "padding" in the future.

Secretary Mills announced yesterday that the subscriptions for the notes offered last Monday amounted to $7,800,000,000. The Treasury had asked for $250,000,000 to meet maturing securities amounting to $145,000,000, and interest of $13,000,000, and to furnish funds for the Reconstruction Corporation.

Of the total subscriptions $123,920,000 represented exchange subscriptions in payment for which Treasury certificates maturing February 1 were tendered. Such subscriptions were allotted 62 per cent.

The Treasury explained that the large oversubscription for this and other Treasury offerings should not be regarded as an indication that idle funds are available in an amount even remotely approaching the total subscribed for. The great volume of subscriptions, it said, was due in a large measure to the fact that many subscribers "are deliberately applying for amounts far in excess of their requirements, anticipating that under the Treasury's percentage allotment they will receive a reduced amount approximating their actual needs."

"This practice of padding has steadily increased," it added, "until it has now reached such proportions that the department must consider measures to deal with it in the interest both of subscribers and of the Treasury."

The large oversubscription ascribed to the padding of the amounts applied for became noticeable first a year ago last June, when the Treasury offered $300,000,000 in bonds and received subscriptions totaling $6,500,000,000. Since then it was explained, the demand for Government securities has been so great from banks and others that subscribers wishing to get a portion of the issue padded their accounts enormously in hope of getting the amount they wished.

Long Has Slump Program; Would Quit Job If It Fails

Says His Plan Would End Depression in Six Months; Would Make Production on Permit Basis Only and Cut Work Hours.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Huey Long, on a day's vacation after his Senate filibuster, came to Manhattan today with this proposal:

"If I can't end the depression in six months, providing Congress adopts my program, I'll get out of public life for good."

"It's plain horseback philosophy," explained the Democratic senator as he outlined this program:

"1. Take an estimate of foodstuffs on hand today. If there's enough wheat to last next year, prohibit the raising of any wheat next year. And the same with all other commodities.

"How would the farmer live?" By one of two processes:

"(a) By the Government taking over the surplus commodities and paying the farmer the increase in price; or

"(a) By building the necessary and needed public improvements—such as inland waterways, irrigation projects, flood control—which would give work to every needy farmer.

"2. As regards the laborer:

"I propose cutting the hours of labor, until all surplus has been consumed, down to four hours a day."

During the coming year and henceforth the Louisiana senator said he would make production on a permit basis only. He also said that laborers could be used in public improvements.

"3. I would get the money for the public improvements by one of three processes:

"(a) A $10,000,000,000 bond issue, to be retired in seven or eight years out of vastly increased inheritance taxes.

"(b) Drastically higher income taxes.

"(c) A capital levy."

Some one asked the senator:

"Why aren't you a Socialist?"

"Hell," he shouted, "I want to be in office! That's where I can do good. So I run on either the Democratic or Republican tickets. I'm the only man running for office that's got the right to seek office as a true follower of Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln."

The senator was interrupted by the telephone:

With much quotation from the Scriptures, Senator Long hastened through his favoritism for an inflation of the currency, "if no other way, by remonetization of silver;" expounded his views that inherited estates should be limited to $5,000,000 at first, then gradually trimmed down to $1,000,000.

"We've got to make our choice," he said. "We'll have either evolution or revolution, whether we like it or not. Whenever the people get tired of existing government, they've the right to change it. That's the theory on which this Government was founded. And there ain't no such thing as half the people consenting to go starving and naked and homeless in a land of too much."

HOME FINANCE HELP IS AIM OF REALTORS

Special Group Named to Devise Steps to Alleviate Stringency.

Steps toward alleviation of the present stringency in home financing were taken yesterday at the first general session of the National Association of Real Estate Boards assembled at the Willard Hotel in a four-day business meeting.

A special committee was appointed to consider recommendations presented by the housing committee of the association dealing with the present crisis in the mortgage situation and given instructions to make a report on them at tomorrow's session.

The committee is composed of Leonard P. Reaume, Detroit; Walter S. Schmidt, Cincinnati; W. C. Miller, Washington, D. C.; Newton Farr, Chicago; Samuel Kane, Philadelphia; Gavin Payne, Indianapolis; Hugh Potter, Houston, Tex., and Edward A. MacDougall, New York. The last named is chairman of the housing committee and presented its report and recommendations.

The assembly also approved unanimously proposals constituting a national program of tax relief for real estate, submitted by Herbert U. Nelson, Chicago, executive secretary of the association, and which will serve as a guide to State associations and local boards in arranging their tax relief programs.

Six Proposals Drafted.

The proposals, six in number, deal with control of local expenditures and bond issues; constitutional limitation for property tax; equalization of school costs; suitable distribution of highway funds, restriction of special assessments and fair assessment of property.

The proposals were drafted at the request of the board of directors and were formulated from all available sources. They are the results of several years' study of the tax situation by the association and were prepared after consultation with real estate bodies, tax officials, governors of States and other national groups interested in the problem.

Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, a speaker at the session, urged an opening of the door to young couples seeking homes, making it easy for them to have a center for the growth of children and the development of parenthood. Assuring the association that no nation of responsible parents will permit itself to be destroyed by malign forces of economic fantasies or demagogic will o' the wisps, he warned that a loose, unattached population is a dangerous one. He asked the body to assist in securing stability for the American home in these days of uncertainty, saying homes, parents and children form the trinity of lasting governments.

Stevenson's Forecast.

L. T. Stevenson, Pittsburgh, president of the association, summarizing present prospects for real estate, expressed belief that the Federal Home Loan Bank System, as it gets into full operation, not only should give relief to home mortgages, but be a definite factor in reduction of interest on them.

Leonard P. Reaume, Detroit, a past president of the association and property management expert, said that most owners of investment property can not advantageously manage their own properties, though many of them think so. This is primarily because most owners of real estate are engaged in other business activities, he said. Successful management of investment property, he reminded, can not be conducted as a side line.

J. C. Nichols, Kansas City, member of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, told of the worth of city planning, not with regard to beautification, but through its beneficial effect on real estate and business values. He recounted the savings effected for Washington by the national commission and urged service of realtors on the planning commissions of cities, all of which should have them.

Commercial real estate today is confronted by a dangerous condition, according to Frank S. Slosson, chairman of the national committee on commercial leasing policies, formed to protect business property owners against an assault of rent reductions, in some cases unjustified, and voluntary bankruptcies of lessees. He described the problem as a mutual one and suggested its solution should be reached, where possible, with this idea.

Rental Stabilization.

Declaring that rental values must be equalized and stabilized or there will be none, he asked the support of affected property owners and real estate boards for the work of the committee. Philip W. Kniskern, president, American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, described its objectives and development.

The session opened with the singing of "America" and "God Save the King." The invocation was delivered by the Rev. C. T. Warner, St. Alban's Parish. H. Clifford Bangs, president, Washington Real Estate Board, welcomed the delegates. J. F. M. Bowie, past president and chairman of the general convention committee; Gen. Nathan William MacChesney, counsel for the national association, and its newly elected directors, were presented to the assemblage. Secretary of the Interior Wilbur was escorted to the speakers' stand by two past presidents of the national association, John L. Weaver, of this city, and Henry G. Zander, of Chicago.

Today the convention divides itself into ten simultaneous conferences of the association's various divisions representing specialized branches of the business of real estate; the property owners' division, representing local groups of property owners cooperating with local member boards, and the States Council, which is concerned with matters of State legislation affecting real estate and which was formed to bring to the national association the viewpoints of the various real estate groups, as such. Tomorrow all delegates will reassemble in the closing general session, followed by a meeting of the association's directorate for the new administrative year.

Culbertson and Reith Seek Nonpartisan Plan

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Ely Culbertson and George Reith, long rivals in methods of bidding at contract bridge, are cooperating in a plan for non-partisan championships.

Reith announced he had resigned from the executive committee of the American Bridge League and had become executive vice president of the United States Bridge Association, formed last fall by Culbertson and Milton Work.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

"AND you ask me if we have any bears at the zoo?

"Why, we have the finest collection of bears in the country!" Dr. William Mann speaking.

All of which we knew before.

And we knew how Dr. Mann prized the collection.

So we watched him closely as we asked:

"Doctor, have you any bears out your way?" (Tongue in cheek.)

RILEY.

It really got a rise.

"Come out some time and see for yourself."

"But, doctor, aren't they hibernating now?".

"Oh, we'll get them out for you to see."

And we did.

And he did.

The bears stirred around.

Bears like honey.

And don't humans, too?

Bears like bread, too.

They look so docile—at times.

One little bear is restless.

His cage floor is renewed yearly.

White bears and brown and cinnamon.

And Malay and Russian and Blue.

And you name the rest.

WE THANK YOU.

THAT was too bad.

Just as Swarmi was in the act of handing the note to his friend, the wind suddenly added a gratuitous puff to its own strength. The note took wings, fluttered from Swarmi's hands into the sea.

To this day we wonder just what was in Swarmi's note.

IT didn't take long for all the tickets to the Federal Dairy grand ball at the Shoreham, February 2, to go. And while the ball is almost a week off, Swarmi Fedd has a lot of polishing up to do. First, he polishes the ballroom floor, for what is a dance without polish?

Then the music rehearsal. You see there is going to be special music for the guests and it must be good. Then Underwood & Underwood have to get a good focus on the big ballroom, with the gay colors and soft lights. And that's a job in itself, taking good pictures. And then—perhaps we'd better not tell about everything to be at the ball. We must keep back something for surprises.

Sorry we couldn't fill all requests for tickets. The race was to the speedy and when the 250 pairs were gone, they were all.

BUT there are many other good things in store for Federal Diary readers. Swarmi Fedd is staying up late every night (and as a consequence gets up late the next day) thinking up new things for Government employes. There are a lot of fine people, all worth knowing, in Federal service.

Here are the names to whom the last tickets to the ball were mailed yesterday:

Miss Christine Friel, Treasury; Mrs. Sadie C. Scott, Internal Revenue; Miss Edith M. Cooper, War; Mrs. Lillian O. Miner, Interior; Mrs. Sybil L. Will, Engraving; Mrs. Marion L. Brown, Treasury; Celeste Hill Budman, Justice; Miss Evelyn Brock, Internal Revenue; Miss Cora May Westcott, War, and Miss Agnes Kearon, Veterans Administration.

KENOSHA, Wis., Jan. 26 (Special). Aided by a strong tail wind, Washka, the homing dog, en route from Sitka, Alaska, to Washington, trying to arrive in time for the Federal Diary Ball at the Shoreham, February 2, was making tracks in sands of time near the lake front at the witching hour tonight.

Washka has traversed the entire State of Wisconsin in the last 24 hours. Sleepless and dog-tired, Washka sprinted on. Traffic lights have been in his favor at all crossroads. He slows down as he spies a stop-go signal and coasts to the corners. Seldom has he used his brakes, well-toughened by the pit-a-pat on the hard pavements. One scribe was moved to send these lines to his paper in England, apropos to Washka's night-and-day trek:

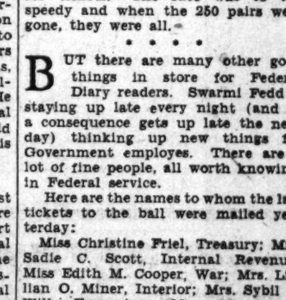
Camermen in every large town have tried to snap Washka as he dashed past. The best they could do was to photograph him in sections. Here is section No. 2 of the jigsaw puzzle:



Able to flop around and take liquid nourishment, thank you, is Mr. Alligator Gar, "kingfish," Commerce Aquarium, after breaking his hunger strike. Mr. Gar has been a lazy cuss. They've almost pampered the scales off him, heating the water and tendering titbits. In the days of the suffragettes in England authorities used to resort to forcible feeding when the ladies adopted hunger-strike tactics. Mr. Gar gets his that way.

Reports are being received indicating that many postmasters, supervisors, and other employes handling or responsible for Government funds are unaware of or indifferent to the fact that what they usually endeavor to excuse as the borrowing of such money is in fact embezzlement, Arch Coleman, first Assistant Postmaster General, warns.

This is a warning that the department will not countenance or condone the conversion of Government funds to personal uses by borrowing, substitution of personal checks or due bills, or in any manner or amount or under any circumstances whatsoever. Those found guilty of violating this law will not only be removed from the service but will suffer the penalties imposed by law.

THAT Federal employes may trace much of the attacks on their efficiency and value of their services to their failure to inform the country properly was told Postoffice Department Lodge No. 27 by National President John Arthur Shaw at a meeting yesterday at the department.

"I believe the successful attacks on Federal employes during the last year and a half," said Mr. Shaw, "are due primarily to their own attitude during the preceding 10 or 15 years. They should have been building confidence throughout the country in their work and themselves.

"They have more than ordinary qualifications, have passed strict examinations and must face keen competition to enter the service. Instead of impressing these facts on the public mind, they allowed the people to gain the impression during prosperous years that Federal employes are not particularly competent or necessary and are somewhat overpaid for what they do. They should have known attacks would be made on them and they should have begun an offensive. Instead, they have allowed themselves to be placed on the defensive."

* * * *

THE policy of the American Federation of Government Employes, Mr. Shaw promised, will be an offensive rather than a defensive one.

The following lodge officers were installed by Mr. Shaw: Thomas O. Fee, president; Paul A. Hines, vice president; William N. Lochnane, treasurer; Frank E. Gorely, secretary, and Edward J. Mahoney, sergeant at arms.

President Fee appointed the following sociability committee: Miss G. E. Waters, Mr. Hines, Mr. Gorely and Miss Henrietta M. Snyder. A sick committee appointed includes the following: Mr. Fee, Miss Waters, Harry T. Kendrick and Miss Snyder.

Miss Lottie L. Anderson, president Agriculture Department Branch, N. F. F. E. Union, No. 2, announces appointment of the nominating committee: Arthur H. Howell, biological survey; A. C. Edwards, Agriculture Economics; Earl Leveridge, Forest Service; Miss Blanche B. Clark, Secretary's Office, and Joseph McKericher, Bureau of Chemistry and Soils. This committee will nominate officers to be presented at the meeting February 23.

Miss Anderson also announced appointment of the membership committee, which has started work: H. H. T. Jackson, Biological Survey, chairman; W. N. Rehleander, Office of Personnel and Business Administration; Elmer Thompson, Office of Information; Miss E. G. Hopper, Library; Dr. J. T. Jardine, Experiment Stations; C. B. Smith, Extension Service; Everett E. Edwards, Agricultural Economics; M. C. Betts, Agricultural Engineering; Dr. Benjamin Schwartz, Animal Industry; Dr. Frank G. Ashbrook, Biological Survey; J. W. McKericher, Chemistry and Soils; J. C. Winkjor and F. C. Craighead, Dairy Industry; G. L. Bidwell, Food and Drugs Administration; E. W. Loveridge, Forest Service; Mrs. Lennah C. Zens, Home Economics; Dr. R. G. Pierce, Plant Industry; David Lumsden, Plant Quarantine and Control; Capt. C. D. Curtiss, Public Roads, and Dr. C. O. Clark, Weather Bureau.

Earle Hoage, Western organizer at present here doing legislative work, addressed the Wednesday meeting, expressed his gratification at the activity in the way of membership. He complimented the Forest Service for excellent work last summer resulting in formation of a number of locals, adding materially to the federation membership.

Mr. Hoage outlined educational work being done in counteracting propaganda being circulated over the whole country and requested cooperation of employes in Agriculture in work being done. He particularly outlined attacks being made on Federal employes by the National Chamber of Commerce and economy leagues.

He dwelt upon legislative work of the organization and said he is optimistic as to the organization's future, pointing out that it is one of the few growing organizations in this period, having added 82 new and reinstated locals and a 10,000 net gain in membership during the last year.

Miss Matilda Lindsey and John D. Cloud, two other national organizers, addressed the meeting.

Two pictures were shown which had been made by the office of motion pictures of the department. One showed a "Cougar Hunt" in one of the Western grazing States, and depicted work of the Biological Survey saving stock raisers' large losses from attacks by predatory animals.

GOLDSBOROUGH RAPS GLASS BANKING BILL

Marylander Would Wipe Out Branch Clause and Add Inflation Rider.

(Associated Press.)

When the Glass banking bill is taken up by the House Banking and Currency Committee, Representative Goldsborough (Democrat), Maryland, will move not only to strike out its provision for branch banking, but to add an amendment prohibiting any new branch, chain or group banking operations, he said yesterday.

He will move also, he said, to have his inflation bill passed by the House at the last session tacked on the Glass bill as an amendment.

"The best way to defend is to attack," Goldsborough said. "I am not merely going to endeavor to have the committee strike out the bill's provision for branch banking, but to add a provision absolutely prohibiting any further extension of branch, chain or group banking, either by national or State banks."

His proposed amendment, he said, will follow the lines of a bill he introduced in 1931.

Predicts Rural Subjugation.

Commenting on his purpose of moving for the inclusion of provisions of the Goldsborough inflation bill in the Glass bill, he said:

"The pressure is much greater now than when the Goldsborough bill was passed last year. If the Glass bill is returned to the Senate with the dollar stabilization bill as an amendment, I feel confident it will be accepted by the Senate."

Outlining his opposition to branch banking, Goldsborough said:

"Suppose in the county where I live the banks were merely branches of a larger institution in Baltimore, Philadelphia or New York. Suppose they simply had an agent in my county, with a certain amount of currency to cash checks, receive deposits and send applications for loans to the home institution.

"Give me control of the credit of a community, and I will control every activity in it—it makes no difference what it is.

He said under branch banking the large metropolitan banks "will suck the money out of the smaller communities—suck it into the big cities for investment there instead of in the community of the small bank."

Slight possibility of enactment of the Glass bill was seen last night after after a statement by Chairman Steagall, of the House banking committee, that the measure involves highly controversial provisions and would require much consideration.

Speaker Garner said the measure would be referred to the Steagall committee, and added: "If we can get a report from the Banking Committee on the Glass bill, we may possibly get it before the House." He stressed that "it is worthy of very careful consideration."

After a conference with Garner, Steagall in a formal statement said: "Of course, the Banking and Currency Committee can not report such a measure without giving it the consideration which its importance demands. It involves provisions that are highly controversial and embodies far-reaching changes in our banking laws." He added the committee hoped to give it consideration "as soon as practicable under existing conditions."

KEEP OUT OF LETICIA, LEAGUE WARNS PERU

Another Message Requests Colombia to Avoid Violation of Neighbor Land.

Geneva, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The League of Nations council today warned Peru not to interfere with Colombia in the latter's efforts to restore order at the border city of Leticia, over which the two countries are at odds.

At the same time another message was sent to Colombia asking that nation to take precautions to avoid a "violation" of Peruvian territory, to make this intention clear to Peruvian authorities and informing them of the message to Peru.

In the telegram to Peru the council said that it "draws attention of the Peruvian government to the fact that it is duty of Peru, as a member of the league, to refrain from any intervention by force on Colombian territory and to insure that instructions are given Peruvian commanders that military forces of Peru will take no action beyond defense of Peruvian territory and not to hinder Colombian authorities from the exercise of full sovereignty and jurisdiction in the territory recognized by treaty to belong to Colombia."

(Colombia claims the right to Leticia through a treaty of 1922, but the city now is under the control of the Peruvian Nationalists, who seized it.)

Respect for Treaties Is Demanded.

France, Poland and Czechoslovakia in indorsing today's move of the council took occasion to emphasize the principle of respect of treaties. Germany, Italy and Japan as well as Great Britain remained silent during this debate, exciting new discussion upon the big questions of European and Far Eastern observation of existing multilateral treaties.

The league's firm position regarding Leticia was viewed by staunch supporters of the league covenant as having value and significance for dealing with later international quarrels and perhaps for treatment of the Manchurian conflict itself.

(Secretary Stimson in Washington expressed complete satisfaction with the league's note to Peru and held conferences on the subject with Ambassador Claudel of France and Sir Roland Lindsay, the British ambassador. The British Ambassador told the State Department his country took the same position as the United States in the Leticia dispute. Claudel said that France probably would act jointly with other members of the league on the question, and that the nation also was in accord with the American position.)

(Associated Press.)

At least two world powers joined the United States yesterday in applying the Briand-Kellogg antiwar treaty to warn Peru against fighting with Colombia over possession of the Amazon port of Leticia.

Great Britain and France sent notes to Peru similar in meaning to Secretary Stimson's communication of Wednesday recognizing the justice of Colombia's case and urging acceptance of a peaceful settlement.

Although Peru has announced her compliance with a Brazilian formula for returning Leticia to Colombian sovereignty, she insisted on reservations and Peruvian nationals continued today in control of the town. They seized it last September in defiance of the 1922 treaty by which Peru acknowledged Colombia's ownership of the tiny Amazon port, before which Colombian forces reportedly have arrived prepared to oust the invaders.

Defeat of Repeal Seen if Postponed

Schafer Wants House to Take Another Vote at This Session.

(Associated Press.)

The prediction that prohibition repeal will be long delayed if Congress fails to approve it this session was made yesterday in the House by Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin.

Schafer, who said failure of Democrats to support the repeal proposal in the House had resulted in its defeat. He has filed a petition seeking another House vote.

Before a vote can be had, 145 members must sign. "I invite you Democrats to put your name on it," Schafer shouted.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Demonstrating again what imposing dimensions can be lent a simple story of murder, trial and sentence by tricking it out with the grandiose verbiage of classic drama, and the purling cadences of sheerest romance, Walter Hampden last evening revived the bumptious melodrama with which his name alone is associated in the American theater for a curtailed engagement of three evenings at the National.

The flashing color and fiery action that Washington remembers as vital characteristics of "Caponsacchi's" first presentation in the Capital may, in the passing of the years, have become a trifle dimmed and the machinery of the play's development may clank a little more noticeably than formerly, but it nevertheless remains an arresting exhibit among the more pretentious of the Drama's thoughtful enterprises.

It is a sort of D'Artagnan in a cassock that Mr. Hampden impersonates in this free rendering of Browning's "The Ring and the Book"—a canon of the Holy Church, with the soul of a swashbuckling romanticist and the fighting heart of a long line of valiant warriors whose swords were dipped to no superior prowess. It is a role that sometimes glows with the impassioned warmth of "Cyrano," but never approaches the limpid beauty of that imperishable love story.

Mr. Hampden's reading is, of course, expert and sonorous. There are moments when, no doubt from long familiarity with the part, his portrayal seems just a bit perfunctory, but Caponsacchi, after all, is rather more the studied elocutionist than the apostle of turbulent action. It is in the scenes—and they fortunately predominate—that make no pretense to numerously peopled effect that "Caponsacchi" excels. Its ensembles are thin simulations of humanity in the mass at carnival time.

Among the extensive gallery of supporting players, Ernest Rowan, Reynolds Evans, Whitford Kane and Esther Mitchell take on the most impressive dramatic stature. Mr. Rowan's Guido Franceschini is a glowering embodiment of every evil endowment and inclination; a towering monument of villainy to which he contributes an appropriately sinister mien. Miss Mitchell's child wife, Pompilia, on the contrary, is a fragile repository of all the chaste and innocent virtues. Mr. Evans' cavalier and Mr. Kane's Canon Conti are agreeable outlets for the drama's discreetly regulated flow of comedy.

"Caponsacchi" in its dramatic movement, in case you had forgotten, is contrived after the fashion of the cinema's familiar flashback. The law and the church have been able to arrive at no verdict as to whether Caponsacchi or the malignant Guido is guilty of a triple murder. Caponsacchi at length decides to tell the whole story of his relationship with Franceschini's wife, Pompilia. The three acts of the play then visualize the events he discloses. As the prologue sought one, so does the epilogue pronounce a Papal decision in the Rome of 1698.

The settings are in simple line, sufficiently massive to seem to impart an added substance to the episodes they afford background and locale. "Caponsacchi" will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night, with "Hamlet" the bill for Saturday's matinee.

DEMOCRATS IGNORE G. O. P. TARIFF DRIVE

Congress Majority to Leave Roosevelt Free Hand to Solve Problem.

(Associated Press.)

Democrats, securely in control of Congress and determined to await Franklin D. Roosevelt's direction on all matters affecting foreign trade, stood impervious last night to a concentrated Republican drive for higher tariff protection, and gave it no chance for enactment.

The Republican onslaught for legislation to offset the advantage gained by foreign producers on the American market, through the drop in the value of currencies abroad, was reinforced by word that President Hoover was in accord with the plan. Yesterday saw also the opening of hearings before the House Ways and Means Committee, on a bill for automatic tariff increases against countries that have dropped off the gold standard.

But the Democratic leaders made clear they have no intention of embarrassing the President-elect with tariff legislation just before he begins negotiations with other nations for economic recovery, especially since his plan involves a try at lowering trade barriers.

Republicans Helpless.

With absolute control of the House, where all tariff laws must start, and with command of the Senate, through aid of the Republican independents who support Roosevelt, the Democrats were, for the present, letting the Republican drive run its course.

The tariff development was the most pointed in a day full of activity on international economic topics and on war debts. The Republican House leader, Snell, of New York, took his tariff theory to the White House and later said Mr. Hoover had approved it.

At the State Department, Secretary Stimson held a conference with Prof. Raymond Moley, economic adviser to the President-elect. Also he sent official word to the Latvian consul general in New York that his country, having kept up its debt payments, would be given a hearing by the new administration in its turn. Other ambassadors, the British and French, were in to see Stimson, but their mission proved to be connected with the Peru and Colombia troubles rather than debts.

Lindsay Visits Senate.

Ambassador Lindsay of Great Britain, however, created a stir by appearing on the Senate floor for a chat with Senator Robinson, leader of the Democrats. His towering figure, well over 6 feet, is conspicuous anywhere, but on the floor of the Senate, where diplomats appear but rarely, it caused a buzz of talk which immediately sought to link the event with the coming debt discussion.

So far all direct contacts between the new administration and Britain have been through the State Department, both to give them official status and to employ the preparatory continuity of arrangements pledged by the Hoover administration in the recent agreement with Mr. Roosevelt.

Lindsay was uncommunicative about the purpose of his visit, but earlier he had brought the Marquis of Lothian to lunch with Robinson and other senators. Robinson said the visit was entirely social.

Hill Bill Criticized.

The tariff hearings at the Ways and Means Committee were on a bill written and introduced by a Democrat, Hill, of Washington, one of the exceptions to general Democratic sentiment.

The bill itself drew Republican criticism. John J. Hopkins, a special assistant to Secretary Mills, said the automatic tariff increase plan was wrong and the proper approach was through a resolution asking the Tariff Commission to determine the proper rates. He maintained by such procedure the changes could become effective in 60 days.

Also, he pointed out, the new barrier could be dropped as soon as the country affected returns to the gold standard. Hill said Hopkins' plan was too flexible, but later pointed out that the Washingtonian's measure might conflict with favored-nation treaties.

Mills Outlines Views.

Similar views were given to newspapermen by Secretary Mills himself, who did not go before the committee.

A Democrat, Ragon, of Arkansas, questioned the advisability of passing such a bill just before the world economic conference and Hopkins declared that his plan might be an effective "stick" to take to the conference as a means of securing returns to the gold standard.

This appeared to be the general administration view, fitting in with expressions previously attributed to President Hoover.

The ways and means committee obtained from another official, Frank Dow, assistant commissioner of customs, a guess that the loss in tariffs through currency depreciation probably exceeded $100,000,000 a year.

174 PLANES BOUGHT BY ARMY AIR CORPS

River, Md., will build 38 "mid-wing" monoplane bombers, each powered with two radial cooled engines of 550 horsepower. They will cost $2,048,890.51.

Ten single-engined transports will be constructed by the Bellanca Aircraft Corporation of New Castle, Del., as a cost of $275,651. These ships are a military adaptation of the Bellanca "Airbus," used for commercial transport purposes.

Fifteen observation planes for use in the National Guard and purchased with Militia Bureau funds will be built by the Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc., of Santa Monica, Calif. They will cost $174,613.40. These planes are a refinement of the present standard type observation plane now used in the Army Air Corps.

A contract for the construction of 28 Hornet radial-cooled engines to equip the National Guard planes has been awarded to the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Co., of East Hartford, Conn. The contract price is $157,729.12.

War Department officials explained last night that the award of the contracts was a routine matter, the money having been appropriated last year for use this year. During the past several months tests have been flown on experimental models of these ships, and not until now have Air Corps officials been ready to accept them as standard.

Construction work on the ships will start at once, and it is expected that some of them will be ready for delivery within four months.

Ottawa Agreements Would Not Prevent Anglo-American Bargaining to Reach Debt Accord, Is Interpretation Made of Document.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 26.—Competent British opinion holds that when England and the United States get down to economic bargaining there is nothing in the international obligations of either country to prevent their setting up a new system of trade relations with each other.

The Ottawa trade agreements governing commerce within the Empire do not constitute a barrier to possible trade concessions by Great Britain to the United States in return for reduction of the war debt, according to an authoritative interpretation of the document evolved at Ottawa.

There was no intimation here that the recent speech by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in which the British debt policy was outlined was a direct move for such bargaining between this country and America, but one of the fundamental objectives of England's swing from free trade to tariff last year was to be able to use the tariff as a bargaining weapon. In his speech Mr. Chamberlain pointed out how effective this has been.

Twenty nations are at England's doorstep now, waiting to swap trade advantages. Active negotiations are progressing with five of those nations, the chancellor said. There appears to be no reason why the United States could not join the score of other nations. The success of any Anglo-American trade bargaining is likely to be determined by the mutual advantages in prospect for Great Britain and the dominions.

The Ottawa agreement includes a clause to the effect that if the British government and the Dominion government of Canada, for example, consider that variation in the terms of the pacts signed at Ottawa are necessary, the two governments can enter into consultation.

This loophole, in the opinion of well-informed observers here, offers an opportunity for Great Britain, still within the letter of the Ottawa treaties and without violation of most-favored nation clauses England has with foreign governments, to make trade concessions.

JAPANESE CALL OFF PEIPING MANEUVERS

Wire-Stringing in Streets of North China Capital Scares Populace.

Peiping, Jan. 26. (U.P.).—Strong protests from foreign and Chinese officials tonight prevailed upon the Japanese military authorities to cancel night troop maneuvers scheduled from dusk to dawn in the heart of Peiping.

The Japanese gave the legation quarter and Chinese who wanted to celebrate the beginning of their traditional new year's season a bad few hours on the eve of the holidays.

They announced that as part of the local Japanese garrison's defense drills, they intended to hold maneuvers within Peiping all night long. They set out "field telephones" at various points in the ancient capital, stringing wires through the streets and causing general alarm among the natives.

The Japanese force of about 800 are part of their legation guard, permitted under treaty since the Boxer rebellion in 1900. Their military headquarters said this detail intended to maneuver during the night, operating from the diplomatic quarter.

The maneuvers were to start at 8:30 this evening. The sight of Japanese troops stringing wires through the Chinese sections of Peiping aroused fright and consternation. The wire stringers proceeded during the afternoon through the Chinese business section, in which there are numerous theaters, hotels and homes.

The hotels had reservations for the New Year's Eve celebrations, which the Chinese hold in and out of war zones, regardless of fighting all around, but the Japanese preparations caused the merry-making to come to a halt and cancellations poured in until the Japanese agreed to desist.

The commander of their legation guard, Col. Ayebara, ordered the troops to return to their quarters inside the diplomatic area. They took down their telephone wires and the maneuvers were called off. But the colonel advised all concerned that the drill would be held as planned after the holidays.

STIMSON AND MOLEY SCAN BRITISH REPLY

munique, President-elect Roosevelt declared:

"It is, of course, necessary to discuss at the same time the world economic problems in which the United States and Great Britain are mutually interested, and therefore, that representatives should also be sent to discuss ways and means for improving the world situation."

However, the invitation as revealed in London quoted the President-elect as making the debt discussions "concurrent with and conditional upon" discussion of world economic problems.

It was explained yesterday that the phrase, "conditional upon," in reality indicated that there was a distinction between the two problems of debts and economics and that the fact that there were two separate categories of representation, one for the debts and the other for the economic problems, further emphasized the distinction between the two subjects.

The British reply, which was transmitted to Warm Springs soon after its reception here, indicated the satisfaction of the British government to attend a conference on debts, but made all necessary reservations relative to agreements on economic problems growing out of the debt discussions. These agreements, the British note indicated, could only be made after consultation with other nations interested.

The impression was derived after his conversation with newspapermen that Prof. Moley will stay on until today to await further instructions from Warm Springs. The President-elect will have received by that time a more complete picture of the situation that has been created by the British reply, after his first lieutenant has discussed the matter at length with Secretary Stimson.

The renewal of discussions between the incoming administration and the outgoing indicate that the greatest preparations will be made to have everything ready for the opening of the Anglo-American debt conference, here, after March 4. The preliminary stage will be set by Prof. Moley and others delegated by the President-elect, but the negotiations themselves will be handled by the President-elect alone.

SIX ARE SUSPENDED BY STOCK EXCHANGE

Most Severe Punishment in Years Dealt for Paying of Gratuities.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange today suspended six members, one of them for three years, in the most sweeping punishment meted out by that organization in years for infraction of its regulations.

All six were charged with violation of the recently announced edict against giving gratuities to employes of other stock exchange firms or financial institutions without the approval of the exchange. The action was taken to stop efforts to obtain business advantages through means considered unjust.

The member suspended for three years, Alexander J. Robertson, was accused of causing a gratuity to be paid to an employe of another stock exchange firm and also to an employe of a financial institution with which his firm had wire connections. This, it was explained, was considered tantamount to an agreement to split commissions on business turned over to his firm.

Edward V. Georz, a private trader, was suspended for one month. His offense was considered lighter than the others in degree of intent.

Robertson, a partner of Ludwig, Robertson & Co., which announced its dissolution today, has been a member of the exchange since April 4, 1929. Walter F. Seeholzer, of the same firm, was suspended for six months. Seeholzer became a member of the exchange last September.

Three members of the firm of Schmeltzer, Clifford & Co. were suspended for six months apiece. They were H. H. Wurzler, J. R. Schmeltzer and William B. Sagar. Wurzler became a member of the stock exchange in 1921, Smeltzer in 1930 and Sagar only six months ago.

All suspended were members of the stock exchange "bond crowd," or that division of brokers which handles transactions in bonds. Several leading stock exchange houses recently complained that they were not receiving proper service on their orders to buy and sell bonds. Some claimed that the irregularity was shown in giving priority to orders. An investigation was made by the exchange and the sweeping disciplinary action announced today resulted.

Neither Ludwig Robertson & Co. nor Smeltzer, Clifford & Co. had offices outside of New York City.

After the stock exchange punishment, the New York Curb Exchange announced the suspension for three years of Frederick W. Ludwig, of Ludwig, Robertson & Co., for violation of the ban on gratuities.

Press Club Plans Soviet Burlesque

'Pete' Brandt's Adventures to Be "Taken Off" on Tonight's Program.

The Russian experiences of Raymond P. (Pete) Brandt, St. Louis Post-Dispatch correspondent, will be burlesqued in reel and rhetoric at the twenty-fifth annual inaugural ceremonies of the National Press Club in the club auditorium tomorrow night. Open house will be held in conjunction with the club's silver anniversary. There will be a special program by newspapermen and professional talent.

Sir Willmott Lewis of the London Times will describe his three years of relations with one of the greatest deliberative bodies in the world, the National Press Club's board of governors. Bennett C. Clark, of Missouri, who will take his Senate seat February 3, succeeding Senator Harry C. Hawes, resigned, also will speak. Senator-elect Clark is a son of Speaker Champ Clark of "Houn' Dog" and 1912 Democratic convention fame. Candidates for Speaker of the House are expected to be present.

Films dealing with "Pete" Brandt's Soviet tour were actually taken at Fort Myer, Va., with members of his new adminstration donning whiskers and blouses to heighten the effect of this picturization of his own "five-card plan." However, genuine Show Me State "houn' dogs" were used in the spectacular chase down the steppes. George A. Benson, erstwhile thespian, now Minneapolis Journal correspondent, will act as master of ceremonies. The Marine Band will play and there will be dancing to the strains of Strickland's Orchestra.

empty lifeboat, and pull back the 22 surviving sailors.

But those 22 sailors called Stedman a hero, and there were tears in the eyes of some of them as they sang his praise.

Saved 26 Men in 1925.

But Stedman, who in 1925 saved 26 men from a sinking Italian ship, held up a forbidding hand when anyone mentioned the word "hero," and much of his praise was for the "stamina" the "fortitude" of the rescued men—those men who had faced likely death for hours while they scanned the skyline with haggard faces for sight of some rescuer.

As Capt. Stedman, the five passengers on his ship, his own crew and the Exeter City survivors told their stories, they placed the crown of hero on many a man.

There was Henry Victor Lothian, the young British wireless operator, who stuck to his post throughout the "night of terror," as some called it.

Mountainous Waves.

Mountainous waves swept over the ship. Water often stood a foot or more deep in his little room. He had to keep his batteries dry. His aerial had been washed away, but when dawn came he built a new one and then sent the S O S on which 22 lives depended.

There was Joseph Gillis, of Englewood, N. J., second officer of the American Merchant, who pored over figures and finally worked out the position of the Exeter City, several hundred miles from where the freighter's own rough estimate had placed her in messages.

There was Dr. Cyril von Baumann, of Baltimore, Md., the American Merchant's chief surgeon, who, when his ship got alongside the freighter, aimed a little brass cannon and sent his very first shot directly over the ill-fated Exeter City, thus connecting the two ships by 4,800 feet of line—every foot of line the American craft had aboard.

Cabin Boy Is Brave.

There was cabin boy, Raymond Lewis, 15, the youngest of the Exeter City crew, who worked all night bailing water with a bucket—"and he never whimpered once," one of his shipmates said with a chuckle.

Back on the American Merchant there was Chief Steward Frank Flowers, of Boston, who bellowed across the oily water and through the whistling gale directions to the little group huddled on the freighter's pitching deck.

"I was so hoarse I could hardly whisper," Capt. Stedman explained, "so I handed the megaphone to Flowers—you could hear that roar of his above any storm."

Last to See Captain.

Then there was 20-year-old Alfred Howell, able seaman, the last man to see his skipper and the other three victims alive.

He had been cut while pouring oil on the troubled water before the storm reached its greatest fury. Blood poisoning had developed. His arm was in a sling. But he had stood watch from 8 to 10 p. m.

"At six minutes to 11 that Thursday night," he said, "I was putting on my oilskins to go back to the bridge. Suddenly the ship shook as if—as if some giant had tried to push it to the bottom of the sea.

"I struggled up on deck. Everything was darkness. Then a wave lifted the ship up and I saw the silhouette of the superstructure—all a wreck.

Crept Along Deck.

"I crept along the deck with a life line and got the officers out. Then I piped 'Bridge gone. Stand by. All hands on deck.' Then we set to work. For hours—I guess it was about 15 hours—we kept busy. We didn't have time to pray or anything like that."

Capt. Stedman told how the British crew, acting on messages he sent them, found a sextant and, in lieu of navigation instruments helped the American Merchant's navigator settle their exact location.

"Violent squalls were whipping up a long rolling sea," he said. "After we sighted the freighter it took two hours to reach her. We were yawling widely and rolling deeply, about 32 degrees. * * *

Onto Carpet of Oil.

"If the rescue can be credited to any one thing, it was the use of oil. We spent an hour and a half spreading oil over a wide area. Then the Exeter City drifted slowly down onto this carpet of oil.

"Their messages said they didn't know how long they could stay afloat. We had to do something before it was too late. Their boats were unfit for use, so we shot the line over.

"It took them quite a while to get into the lifeboat. For a time we were quite discouraged. They had to do it by leaps. The Exeter City was rising and falling 20 feet. They had to time their leaps. They surely are all brave, fine seamen."

Stedman disclosed that he had gone in as close as 150 feet to the sinking ship, risking his own craft, "but we had to do it; it was the only chance," he added.

7,000 WOMEN MARCH ON ILLINOIS CAPITOL

Tell Governor That Strife Between Two Unions Has Reached Impasse.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Seven thousand women from the Illinois coal fields—old ladies, young mothers and school girls—marched today under a banner that said one word, "Peace."

Their reason for marching, they announced, was to bring public attention to the plight of miners and their families in the war-torn coal mining districts.

Detachments of State and city police stood guard, but they were not needed. There were no disorders.

To Gov. Henry Horner, a delegation of women announced the strife between their union, the Progressive Miners of America, and the United Mine Workers had reached an impasse.

The governor complimented them for their orderly demonstration, advised them to seek mediation, and pledged continued efforts to bring peace to the coal mining industry.

DE VALERA SHORT OF DAIL MAJORITY

Anti-British President Has Lead, However, With Labor Aid.

Dublin, Irish Free State (Friday), Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Election returns from 101 contests for the 153 seats in the Dail Eireann showed early today that President Eamon De Valera's party was running short of an independent majority. In combiation with the Allied Labor party, however, the De Valera supporters were ahead of the opposition.

With 52 seats still undecided, the party standing was: Fianna Fail (De Valera party), 49; Cumann nan Gaedheal (the party of former President William T. Cosgrave), 32; Labor, 6; Center, 6; Independent, 7, and Independent Labor, 1.

At this stage of the tabulation Mr. De Valera and his Labor supporters had a lead of nine over the opposition parties.

In the event of final success of De Valera's party would come the mandate of complete abolition of the oath to the crown, abolition or a reduction in numbers and the serious curtailment of the powers of the Senate; further withholding of land annuities to Great Britain; eventual abolition of the governor generalship, and a continuation of the bitter economic war with England.

De Valera made his campaign on this platform while Cosgrave, a former president of the republic, contended for cooperation with the British Empire.

The Fianna Fail in all parts of the republic polled a much larger vote than in the last election Cosgrave personally lost 4,000 first preferences in the City of Cork from the figures of the election of February a year ago, while De Valera was 6,000 ahead of his last year's poll in Clare.

The counting was slow under the proportional representation system and it was thought that it might be Saturday before the final results would be known. It also was thought that the total vote might be as high as 80 per cent when the final figures were known.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

THEY HAVE FOUND A 3-MINUTE WAY TO RELIEVE SORE THROAT

All Pain And Soreness Eased In Few Minutes This Simple Way

2 GARGLE Thoroughly—Throw Your Head Way Back, Allowing a Little to Trickle Down Your Throat.

3 Repeat Gargle and Do Not Rinse Mouth, Allow Gargle to Remain on Membranes of the Throat for Prolonged Effect.

Proves Only Medicine Helps A Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes.

Results are among the most extraordinary in medical science. On doctors' advice, millions are following this way . . . discarding old-time "washes" and "antiseptics." For it has been found that only medicine can help a sore throat.

Simple To Do. All you do is crush and dissolve three BAYER Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water. Gargle with it twice—as pictured above. If you have any indication of a cold—before gargling take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water. This is to combat any signs of cold that have gone into your system. Keep on taking if cold has a "hold." For Genuine Bayer Aspirin will not harm you. Your doctor will tell you, it does not depress the heart. Get a box of 12 or a bottle of 100 at any drug store.

Reduces Infection, Eases Pain Instantly. Gargling with Bayer Aspirin will do three things: Relieve soreness at once. Allay inflammation. AND—reduce infection; which is the important thing in fighting a sore throat.

It requires medicine—like BAYER ASPIRIN—to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout America are prescribing this BAYER gargle in place of old-time ways. Results are quick and amazing.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles. Watch this when you buy.

Ask your druggist about the recent price reduction on the 100 tablet size Bayer Aspirin.

AID FOR BANKS.

Three weeks were required for passage of the banking bill through the Senate in spite of the fact that it was approved by a vote of 54 to 9. The Senate has been bitterly criticized for wasting time. The bill might have passed in three days in better form than it emerged after three weeks of irrelevant debate. Probably no votes were changed by the filibuster, unless they were swung in favor of the bill.

Even now the banking bill is in danger of being pigeonholed in the House. Representatives in control of the House committee on banking and currency are not anxious to please Senator Glass, author of the banking bill. They have never forgiven him for killing their so-called "rubber dollar" bill at the last session. This personal antagonism between Democratic leaders in the two houses may bring the efforts of the Senate to naught, in spite of the urgent need of legislation to stabilize the banking system.

This bill is the most important banking measure to pass the Senate since the Federal Reserve act. Its branch banking section was localized by an amendment permitting national banks to establish branches only in those States which allow branch banking. For the present, therefore, only nine States can make use of this provision to strengthen their local banks. But this is an important step toward stable banking. When the system is thoroughly established in nine States it may be expected to spread either by liberalization of State laws or a new act of Congress. In hundreds of communities branch banking offers the only hope of reestablishing credit facilities.

The general effect of the bill is to strengthen the influence of the Federal Reserve system over the Nation's banking structure. All member banks are required to report details as to their condition at least three times per year. Federal Reserve banks in all districts are required to keep themselvs informed as to the character of loans and investments made by member banks. If banks persist in making undue use of their credit for speculative purposes they may be denied access to the credit facilities of the Federal Reserve system. Bank officers engaging in unsound practices could be removed.

Member banks would be allowed five years to divorce security affiliates. This provision is also designed to drive a wedge between commercial banks and the stock market.

A provision which is of special importance just now would create a liquidating corporation for closed banks. The freezing of assets in 5,000 banks which have failed in the last three years has aggravated the contraction of credit. It would be the function of this agency to take over assets and pay depositors with a minimum of delay.

Some of the intricate problems involved in the Glass bill were not fully developed in the Senate debate. Most of it was devoted to inflation of the currency, the remonetization of silver and mere filibustering twaddle. In the circumstances constructive deliberation was impossible.

As the bill was passed, however, it would doubtless make far-reaching improvements in the banking system. Since it is probably the only relief measure that can be enacted at this session, the House ought to give it immediate attention. Neither personal grievances nor factional opposition should be allowed to interfere with the effort to buttress the banking system.

FINLAND'S EXPERIENCE.

Post-prohibition problems are already being widely discussed in this country. Inevitably questions of regulation and continued violations may be expected from organizations operating at present to circumvent liquor restrictions. They can be counted on to continue their illicit business. In this connection it is well to be forewarned by the experience of Finland, where prohibition was rescinded last year. The mere repeal of prohibition in Finland has by no means solved its liquor problems. Although nightly arrests for drunkenness in that country have fallen off about one-half, the temperance organizations are still concerned over the number of delinquents.

The large revenues which were expected from the tax levied on alcoholic beverages have not been realized. It is said that illegal sales are largely responsible. Large amounts of liquor are still being smuggled into the country.

The Finnish government is also concerned with the large number of offenders sentenced under the former prohibition law. These prisoners number about 25,000. Of this total 14,000 were convicted of drunkenness. The cost of maintaining these prisoners and the difficulty and expense of collecting their fines in the face of present public opinion has forced the government to appoint a commission to investigate the present situation. Many individual cases will be reviewed, and it is believed that in view of the repeal of the prohibition laws many offenders will be released.

EMBATTLED FARMERS.

The movement in Iowa for a farm holiday last fall which took the form of forcibly stopping the delivery of farm products to the markets of several cities, has greatly expanded in purpose and territorial scope. Not only in Iowa, but in Nebraska, Wisconsin, the Dakotas and other States, farmers are organizing to demand much more than higher prices. Thousands of farmers have joined a somewhat loosely knit organized movement to stop foreclosures of mortgages.

Their demands in this direction are made effective by the assembling of hundreds of farmers at every advertised tax sale to prevent execution by stopping all bids, either by argument or intimidation. The movement is now broadening into a demand that both interest payments and the face of existing mortgages be reduced. The farmers are also demanding the abolition of deficiency judgments and a moratorium of several years on all classes of farm debts.

Reports from these central and northwestern States indicate that the temper of the farmers is very different from that of last year, when some of them began, in rather good-humored fashion, to stop market shipments. Today they are threatening sheriffs, questioning court authority, and intimidating buyers. The law is on the side of the mortgage holders, but in various ways by mere force of numbers farmer gatherings are thwarting the execution of the law. Many tax sales are being postponed in the face of opposition, while general sales often produce only 10 per cent of the usual amount.

Several western State Legislatures are this year controlled by farmers, and radical legislation in their interest is expected. The demands for the relief of farmers take the form of moratoriums on mortgages and tax sales, the shifting of tax burdens from the farmers, governmental economy, and lowering of taxes. In Iowa legislation is proposed to prohibit tax sales for a year. In Wisconsin a bill asks that courts be given authority to scale down mortgages. Minnesota legislators are asked to discontinue farm foreclosures. In Texas a sales tax to replace real property tax is advocated.

Henry Lux, leader of the Farmers' Holiday Movement, was wildly cheered by 2,000 Nebraska farmers when he said: "If we don't get beneficial service from this Legislature 200,000 of us are coming to Lincoln and tear down the new Capitol." The farmers doubtless will do no such thing, and it probably will not be necessary, for in most of the discontented western States sympathetic legislatures are about to give them what they want.

INSTITUTE OF PROBATION.

The Court of General Sessions is the oldest court in New York City. Its department of probation was a pioneer in this branch of social justice, which it is now endeavoring to make even more efficient by its school for probation officers. About 3,000 cases yearly are sent to the probation department of this court for investigation. A little more than half these cases are put on probation, of which 82 per cent make good.

All the officers on the staff of this department are college graduates who have majored in sociology. Many colleges provide such courses, though only Notre Dame gives training in probation work exclusively. The new institute provides a post-graduate course for those already engaged in the work, and gives an opportunity to the men to discuss problems arising from everyday experiences. It is also an aim of the institute, according to the director, Mr. Halpern, to sustain the enthusiasm with which a probation officer begins his work. This must not be allowed to degenerate into mere routine procedure.

Probation, by many persons, is confused with parole. The distinction lies in the fact that parole is granted to an individual who has served part of his sentence and is released on promise of good behavior. Probation is granted persons convicted but not sentenced, who are released in the care of a probation officer to whom they must report at stated intervals. The officer studies the life and environment of his charge in an effort to locate the cause of his downfall. By finding the offender work or arranging to have him trained in some trade, and helping him to solve his problems, a place is found for him, and in more than four-fifths of the cases so treated the individual becomes a law-abiding citizen.

The probation work done today is the outgrowth of the activity of a little shoemaker of Boston. Born in 1785, John Augustus was the first to plead that young first offenders should be treated with leniency. Astonished by this heresy at first, the judges in line decided to let Augustus care for the young boys convicted of a first offense. The results were so satisfactory that this work was finally accepted as a recognized function of the courts, and the foundation was laid for the present probation system.

ADVERTISERS' COURT.

Imagination and dramatic appeal have their place in advertising, but it is now generally recognized that advertisers have an obligation to the public and must not violate good faith or public morals. This statement of modern advertising ethics comes from a representative committee within the business and reflects the demand for advertising integrity. The Better Business Bureau has already made important strides in this field, functioning as a court which passes on advertising problems. A new court is now being formed which will serve as a "court of appeals" in case of disagreements.

The committee will consist of twenty members, five to be appointed by the president of the Association of National Advertisers, five by the president of the Association of Advertising Agencies, five publishers agreed upon by the foregoing groups, and five members, not connected with advertising or publishing, to be named by the first fifteen. This organization is the outcome of study made by a committee which reviewed the situation and found that, in the main, advertised products are honestly promoted, but that a minority, conspicuously in the public eye, through their bold and reckless appeals, give a distorted impression of advertising as a whole. It is believed that bringing this flamboyant publicity into line will enhance confidence in the announcements of advertisers generally.

The code promulgated under which offenders are tried by the advertisers' court includes such offenses as false statements, or misleading exaggerations, indirect misrepresentation through distorted details, pseudo-scientific advertising or claims insufficiently supported by accepted authorities, testimonials which do not reflect the real choice of competent judges, and statements which tend to undermine an industry by attributing to its products, generally, faults which are confined to a few.

CROP-PRODUCTION LOANS.

Both houses of Congress have passed the agricultural crop loan bill and sent it to President Hoover. The bill would reappropriate $90,000,000 of the fund that was set aside by Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to extend credit to small-scale farmers. Last year only $65,000,000 of this fund was lent, and a considerable portion of that has been collected, so that loans can be made again this year without a further drain upon the Treasury.

Federal crop-production loans are made for the benefit of that group which Senator Smith calls "one-horse farmers." In many rural communities credit facilities have entirely disappeared. If farmers could not borrow from the Government they could not buy seed and fertilizer and could not continue to operate their farms. In that event they would become public charges. It is estimated that the 1932 crop-production loans kept 500,000 families from local charity lists.

In each case the Government take a first lien on the borrower's crops. Regional offices are now engaged in collecting the 1932 loans. In some States they have collected as high as 85 per cent of the money advanced. The crop-production loans can not be considered in any sense a dole.

Advice from the Department of Agriculture has gone hand in hand with the crop-production loans. In most instances the department has asked farmers to plant gardens to supply their own food. Thousands of farmers who formerly produced only cash crops have thus been taught the rudiments of independence. Moreover, the law gives the Secretary of Agriculture authority to require acreage of farmers obtaining loans. Surplus crops have been somewhat reduced by this method.

President Hoover will doubtless approve the bill as an emergency measure which is effectively relieving a large group of farmers who would otherwise be dependent upon charity.

How does Pat Harrison expect to get a quorum of economic experts for his investigation of hard times in Washington when they are all running to Warm Springs?

The vote on the Glass bill will inspire senators who have a difficult measure to put over in the future to drum up a quarrel with Huey Long.

It looks as if President de Valera has been given a mandate to create a new Irish empire. Now all he lacks is the empire.

SMALL TALK

From the Boston Transcript.

Somebody has computed that the vocabulary of the average person in his telephonic conversations is "about 50 words." And when you come to think of the substance of most telephonic communications the estimate may bear some relation to the facts. Probably nine out of ten telephone messages have to do with arranging meetings, planning dinner parties, ordering household supplies or calling the doctor, and for these purposes the English vocabulary of a Chinese laundryman is ample. The longest conversations probably are those of lovers and, as everybody knows, a few words from the Funk & Wagnalls list, fondly reiterated, cover all possible demands on the language. Next to lovers the long-time talkers are ladies during those hours of ease when they are expressing their candid sentiments concerning the new scandal just around the corner or telling of their new mark-down discoveries or criticizing the behavior of Mr. Blobbs last night when he was so sharp with Mrs. Blobbs at the bridge table. Strange to say, with all the fluency that goes out over the wires during these colloquies they involve no heavy draft on the reservoirs of speech. Here again a dozen or two of words in various combinations serve as an adequate vehicle of thought.

Even if the estimate made by the "somebody" were fairly accurate we should not hastily accept it as the measure of the average person's vocabulary. Along certain lines, within a certain range, a few different words suffice us, but on occasion we can draw upon a great store of them, some of which lie unused in the backs of our heads for weeks and months together. And then there is the lingo of the office or shop, which most of us drop when we shut the door on business and go home to tell bedtime stories to the children. We couldn't interest them in nolls and warps and cams and differentials. And the housewife, likewise, has one considerable vocabulary for the kitchen and another for the bridge party. We are not so tongue-tied as the experts on language would sometimes scare us into believing.

The Game Begins.

POST HASTE

The Senate passes the Emasculated banking bill, but it still may be too good for the House.

At least, Senator Glass is honored by the promise of opposition to his appointment to a Cabinet position by those who opposed his bill.

Five per cent of the House members showed up for a night session, but there was a good show in town and they get tired of their own.

The United States had its kind of a revolution last November. Echoes are heard in the States where legislatures controlled by farmers will give them what they want, and no need of bullets.

As for framing a giant Federal relief bill for farmers, it must be done without framing the rest of the population.

Banks are always in a better position to protect themselves against inflation, or any kind of monetary change, than others, particularly the laborer whose wages are the last thing to go up.

It looks as though Ireland would sever political and economic ties with England, and no beet sugar barons to blame.

The Peruvian bark is up the wrong tree when it supports a group of citizens in the forcible possession of Leticia, which belongs to Colombia.

Republicans in the House will demand antidumping legislation aimed at countries with depreciated currencies. Well, they have to amuse themselves somehow.

Farm leaders who come to Washington with threats of revolution and fantastic demands should be made to fight it out with labor leaders with the same alarms.

Some mathematical legislator is liable to discover any day that a 5-cent Federal tax on gasoline would produce five times as much as 1 cent—if the goose lived.

Is the new-deal Congress taking warning from the Seventy-second—just shufflin' along and continually making a misdeal?

The percentage change between Senate and House beer is so small they are going to find it difficult to split the difference.

Senate wets do not appreciate Chairman Smoot's dry humor in postponing the beer hearing until next week and reviving the whole show.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

TRUE DELIGHT.

I know no greater joys than these:
The laughter of a child,
The fragrance of the summer breeze,
A home kept undefiled.

Books chosen from the crowds with care;
Friends just as truly made,
The comfort of an earnest prayer,
The games at evening played.

A patch of lawn, a garden small,
And in the evening gloam
As the long twilight shadows fall
A dog to wag you home.

Let great men ride their pompous way,
Still must their souls be glum,
Unless at every close of day
To these true joys they come.

Pet and Cultivate a Weed and All You Have Is a Larger Weed

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MANY people adopt orphans. As a rule they examine many children and end by adopting the prettiest one. If the child is pretty and apparently intelligent, few questions are asked concerning its parents. If they are conveniently dead, or otherwise eliminated as sources of trouble, all interest in them is ended.

But parents are not so easily dismissed. Dead or alive, they continue to exert an influence that no training or environment can wholly overcome. And the child that seems most attractive at the age of 3 or 4 may be influenced by parents long dead and thus made stupid or vicious before it is grown.

Environment and training can develop or handicap a thoroughbred horse, but nothing can transform it into a scrub horse. And no training or environment can transform a scrub into a thoroughbred.

A child whose blood is good may become a criminal. History reeks with the vice and stupidity and dishonor of kings and nobles. But the viciousness and stupidity of individual thoroughbreds do not change the fact that thoroughbreds, as a class, are superior to scrubs.

There are in America three classes: the rich, the middle class and the scum. The children of the rich need not be discussed, for they never are available for adoption.

The scum is composed of the incompetent, the morons, the unlettered, vicious and unwashed. This class remains underfoot because it lacks the mental equipment to lift itself up. Its petty crimes are a result of ignorance. Its character and unfitness are bred in the bone and transmitted from one generation to another without change.

This class is not large in America, but it produces the majority of the homeless children. And these children, however well housed and trained and pampered, never can escape the handicap of their parentage.

Middle-class people—the kind of people who read editorials like this—are the people who adopt children. If they adopt a child of their own class, however poor and unimportant its parents may have been, and whether the child is legitimate or not, they may hope to make it as worthy as themselves.

But if they adopt one from the lower class—the prettiest and brightest one available—they may expect its mind to stop growing at the age of 12. Despite precept and example, it will become what its parents were and shame its benefactors in their old age.

I am not writing this to discourage childless and heart-hungry people. My adopted daughter is my chief pride and joy.

There is no finer human kindness than to adopt a waif and give him a chance. There is no kindness that pays greater dividends.

But it is a business that requires the exercise of common sense. No degree of kindness can transform a pretty yellow pup into a thoroughbred white collie.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Tax Magic and Farm Relief.

New York Journal of Commerce.

One of the great dangers which threatens the country at the present time is the defeatist spirit, which is paralyzing the resistant powers of intelligent citizens who ought to be protesting instead of saying feebly that the domestic allotment plan in its present form is probably no worse than the inevitable alternatives. Even persons who are prepared to admit the administrative defects and the economic unsoundness of the House measure are disposed to let the farmers experiment, on the ground that the cost of a trial would not be prohibitive.

The majority report of the House committee on agriculture dealing with the farm relief bill is cleverly designed to encourage this prevalent apathy.

Fair and Unfair Sales Taxes.

Kansas City Times.

How illogical and unsound are the objections to a general excise or sales tax is shown by President Hoover in his special budget message to Congress. The President asserts that it is a mere "juggling with words" to attempt a distinction between the excise taxes already levied on manufactured goods—many of them essentials—and the general sales tax that has been proposed for the same commodities; food products and the cheaper grades of clothing being excepted.

But more important is the fact that the taxes now imposed on certain commodities are both burdensome and discriminative, whereas, a general sales tax would do neither.

Bad Outlook.

Buffalo Courier-Express.

A Senate that can't distinguish between amending and repealing is as likely as not to give us a water instead of a beer bill.

Things to Worry About.

Louisville Herald-Post.

Will some one coin us a new word for the place where liquor will be drunk when repeal does away with saloons and speakeasies?

Flu and Hooey.

Detroit News.

It is hoped medical science in time will have things so arranged that we shan't have a flue epidemic in the same winter with Huey Long.

British Debt Hopes.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The British find it convenient to forget or ignore several phases of the broader war-debt question. They have all along studiously educated their public in the belief that these obligations are somehow wrong. During recent months this propaganda has been intensified. The press is telling the British people that cancellation is not only the right and proper course, but also that it is going to be accomplished.

British politicians who are asked what compensation can be offered to the United States for revision of the debts are reported to return the uniform answer, "Nothing." The inculcation of this idea may make it extremely difficult for any solution to be reached when the matter comes up for practical negotiations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

American Diplomacy Has Made Good in Far East—Hopes Europe Will Cooperate.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am inclined to think that the predatory development of Japan, covering only the brief period of 40 years, has in the matter of smiling self-assurance never been outdone. Since surprising the world and becoming a world power by defeating China in 1895 she has reached out to gather in islands, peninsulas and slices of the mainland with a hard-headed and masterful readiness which one is tempted to call Napoleonic.

Although from time to time Japan's pertinacious urge to encroach on China has been held in check by jealous rivals, today she stands in armed defiance, her appetite for further expansion sharpened by a harvest of recent spoils. To one who gives thought to what her strength may possibly be in another generation, a precise count of her rapid material enrichment is impressive.

By the peace treaty of Shimonoseki (1895) Formosa (now Taiwan) became a part of her domain. Then in the famous Anglo-Japanese alliance Japan clasped hands with Great Britain to maintain the "status quo in the Far East," with the result that Korea (now Chosen) in 1905 became subject to a Japanese protectorate, her annexation to Japan taking place about five years later, August 23, 1910.

Thus the additions to Japan during the fifteen years from 1895 to 1910 reached in round numbers 25,000,000 in poplation and 113,000 in square miles. This is according to the 1930 census, which gives to Japan proper a population of 64,000,000 and an area of 184,000 square miles, so that the empire's total population is now 90,000,000, with an area of 260,000 square miles.

It is likely that Manchuria will go the way of Korea. And in keeping with the Machiavellian developments of the last four decades, Jehol is listed to follow as a sop to quiet Japan for the time being; that is, unless the Christian nations intervene in a sincere determination to keep the world safe for civilization.

American citizens should be proud of the fact that as early as 1868 the United States Government stood against the nations of Europe in support of China's right to "eminent domain over her own territory." Their pride in America was justified when at the beginning of this century John Hay with his "open door" diplomacy saved China from dismemberment following the Boxer uprising. In view of what it has accomplished so far in our history, there is no occasion to lose faith in American diplomacy.

The idea is a good one that in the British debt discussions, when held, our favorable consideration of debt revision should depend on whether the rest of the world will join us whole-heartedly in a judicious regulation of international armament as well as in adherence to the Hoover-Stimson doctrine relating to military aggrandizement. So perhaps Hay's diplomacy can be carried on to its logical conclusion.

To me it seems unbelievable that as things now stand the European powers will fail to follow the lead of the United States in a civilized settlement of the Far Eastern question. It will be a source of everlasting regret should it be necessary to dim our Government's shining record of diplomacy in the Far East by either the alternative of surrendering our treaty rights or going to war.

Public Employment Service Will Send Workers for Odd Jobs Upon Application.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A recent correspondent of The Post suggests that out-of-work carpenters make the rounds of residential districts looking for small household repair jobs. I wonder whether this writer is aware that the District Public Employment Service fuctions efficiently in sending satisfactory investigated workers for any and all kinds of household jobs, large or small. In my recent experience I have had occasion to apply there for the services of a painter, a carpenter, a window washer and for a sewing woman to make draperies and slip covers. In each case the applicant came promptly, was entirely reliable and satisfactory and grateful for even a small job.

It would be well, I think, if considerable more publicity were given to this very useful public service, administered entirely without charge.

The telephone number is National 3303, or call the District Building, National 6000, and ask for the Public Employment Service.

ANOTHER WOMAN.

Take That, Mr. Congressman, From A Dirt Farmer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Possibly the most remarkable and outstanding surprise of the age is that farm bonus arrangement as published from day to day. These senators and congressmen must be on a jamboree or have lost all their senses. If not, they would not propose to hire farmers to stop farming—in order to make the jobless millions pay more for their bread. Any man with a thimbleful of brains should know this farm howl is largely caused by high rate of interest and being hijacked by crooked politicians into paying double taxes.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

This is the fifth of a series of articles on the all-important subject of Reducing.

READY to exercise and work off those troublesome spots? Let's go. These will be a bit harder than the general ones published yesterday. Start slowly. Do the simpler exercises a few times each. Gradually increase the number of times you execute each and add the harder ones. Soon you'll be so limber you'll go through them all without strain.

Chin and Neck.

We'll go from top to toe. You can do this several times a day while seated or standing. Slowly drop head forward on chest, then bring it backward as far as possible. Feel the muscles pulling and tensing as you do this exercise.

Arms and Shoulders.

The arm flinging exercises given yesterday are very good. Here's another: Fling arms outward, shoulder level. Describe circles with the arms and hands, first small then large, starting by sweeping arms forward. Repeat five times. Then reverse, sweeping arms backward on start.

Stretch arms down and clasp hands behind back. In this position rotate the shoulders. Repeat ten times.

Hands on hips. Move elbows backward until they meet. Then fling arms forward.

Rowing and swimming are excellent for arms and shoulders as well as bust.

Hips—doggone them. Take heart all ye sedentary ladies. Squatting is swell. Hands on hips. Slowly rise on toes. Now slowly come down to squatting position. Hold on to back of chair or similar object at first if you can not keep your balance. Repeat a few times at first, gradually increasing to ten.

Rolling will roll off those fleshy bulges at the hips. Lie flat on back. Keeping the shoulders motionless roll to the left as far as possible, then to the right.

The back roll. Lie flat on back, arms at sides, palms down. Bring both feet up and try to touch floor with toes, overhead. You're good when you can do this. Then try the bicycle exercise.

We will continue exercising for troublesome spots tomorrow. Meantime should you wish a very complete set of general and special exercises, send for my bulletin on the subject.

KING OF THE JUNGLE

by CHARLES THURLEY STONEHAM

SYNOPSIS.

Kaspa, the 4-year-old white child, found by Kali, a lioness, and raised by her together with her own lion cubs, Ruka and Dogo, is chased away from the family by Bulu, a newcomer, because he lacked the lion's claws and fangs with which to defend himself. Forced to shift for himself, he encounters a native in the woods one day who hurls a knife at him. Kaspa hits the native with the knife and kills him. Armed with this substitute for claws and fangs, Kaspa raids a herd of cattle belonging to the Bomogo natives. A hue and cry is raised as the natives with their dogs started on his trail.

CHAPTER VI.

SILENTLY he stole away down the donga, careful to avoid showing his head above its steep banks.

He had not gone more than a hundred yards before he again heard the sound of voices. Concealing himself in a bush, he looked out and saw two men approaching. They had spears and shields in their hands, and ostrich plumes nodding upon their heads. As he watched, one of the men stuck his spear into the earth and bent to examine his foot. He drew a knife from his belt and did something to his sandal, afterwards replacing the weapon in its sheath.

Instinctively Kaspa glanced down to his side; a similar article hung suspended there. He thrust his knife into it as the man had done. At once he understood its uses and the added freedom of movement he obtained by having both hands unencumbered. The men came on together, talking in low tones. Kaspa turned back along the donga, traveling upwind, toward the forest.

Suddenly he raised his head and sniffed. There were men on that side also. It was against every instinct to break cover in daylight in the face of his foes. He found a good hiding-place behind some rocks, and waited.

The two men overhauled him from behind and seemed to be passing, but suddenly one turned away from his fellow and scouted round the rocks to see what was behind them.

He saw Kaspa. His mouth opened in a wide "O" of amazement. He stood there as though frozen, staring. Kaspa charged him, growling ferociously. The native's hand went back and his spear shot out at Kaspa's chest. The lion-man warded off the blow with one arm, but the sharp steel scored into his skin as it slid under him arm.

Kaspa roared terribly as his whirling arms beat in the man's face and he sprang on over the struggling body.

At once there was an uproar all about him. The men on the plain above came rushing forward, shouting and beating their drums, the dogs yelped furiously, and the companion of the man Kaspa had killed began screeching like a monkey.

The lion-man ran down the donga at the top of his speed, taking rocks and bushes in his stride. The shouts and drum noises faded behind him and he slackened his headlong pace, but soon the barking of dogs came nearer. They were pursuing him, gaining on him. He increased his space again until a full mile separated him from the cave, but still the barking and yapping followed him. The donga was becoming choked with bush near the river. He leapt out upon the veldt and settled down to a long even stride that would run down the fastest buck in half an hour.

Up on to the veldt he sped, toward a distant line of mountains, misty in the morning air. He breathed easily and deeply; his legs were like steel springs beneath him. After a time he looked back. There was no sign of the men, but a number of scurrying forms showed dark against the grass half a mile behind him. The dogs were running mute, hot upon his trail. Kaspa laughed—an un-lionlike sound he was sometimes guilty of. He ran on, reveling in his speed and strength and in the crisp morning air. Another mile, and he paused upon an anthill, breathing deeply, and slightly quicker than at first.

Behind him the dogs still followed his scent. They had not gained upon him, but neither had they lost ground.

He turned up toward the forest and settled down to run his best. Half a mile of that steady grade made his breath come gustily from lungs that were beginning to labor.

He began to get angry, with the savage anger of the hunted lion. The dogs had gained upon him uphill; they were now giving tongue excitedly, with the quarry in full view. Kaspa put on a burst of speed over the last grassy hill and entered the shade of the big trees.

On the fringe of the forest the growth was not dense. There were scattered clumps of big trees with thick bush about them and spreading glades of tangled grass. Half a mile farther on the jungle conquered and there was no more grass, only the huge trees climbing into the sky and the holly-like shrub about their roots. Kaspa dropped into his long striding, slouching walk. He had run far enough from those yapping curs; he was a lion, and there were limits to his discretion.

In a small glade encircled by juniper trees he turned and drew his knife. The dogs came streaming out of the screen of bush, yelping and leaping with eagerness. Kaspa snarled. He was like a waterbuck at bay with the wild dogs about him. The indignity of it foused his savagery to madness.

The first wave of brown mongrels reached him and flung itself upon him. There was no feinting and jumping back on this occasion; the dogs were numerous and excited by the long chase—they wished to get to grips with the quarry and pull it down. Kaspa and his foremost assailants went to ground in a rolling snarling tangle. His speed and strength were amazing. The knife whirred and glittered. In a moment he had regained his feet, streaming with blood from a dozen wounds. Four dogs writhed and shrieked upon the ground, their bodies ripped and stabbed and broken in a frightful manner.

The second onrushing wave of slower-paced animals swerved and broke and tossed in a maze of leaping forms about the crouching lion-man. Kaspa roared and charged them. Round and about the clearing he hunted them, fierce and quick as a leopard, disregarding those that attacked him from behind, for he was past caring for wounds, but catching those he pursued with sideways springs and sweeping blows of the knife that made a shambles of the clearing within the space of a minute.

Dogs leaped at his throat; they met his lightning punches and collapsed with broken ribs and jaws. Dogs bit at his heels; he whirled and struck and the dreadful knife cut through bone and muscle and maimed where it did not kill. The last of the pack rushed howling from the scene of that slaughter, their courage turned to terror by the creature, half ape, half lion, that used the strength of the animal and the intelligence of the man against their clumsy tactics.

Kaspa stood unmolested in the clearing among a dozen dead and dying dogs. He was spattered with blood and scarred with gaping flesh wounds, but he shook his yellow mane in triumph, and the full-throated roar of the lion echoed among the trees and chilled the hearts of the Bomogo hurrying to the rescue of their dogs. A 16-year-old boy with the torso of a Hercules and the eye of a lion—truly a sight to thrill the hearts of gods and men, but to the natives who caught a glimpse of that splendid figure among the trees he was no mortal. They ran wildly back upon their comrades, babbling of devils and wood gods. From that moment the legend of the Bomogo lion god was firmly established. There was no more hunting of Kaspa.

The lion-man paid no further attention to his pursuers. With unhurried step he went off into the forest, found a stream and sat down to bathe his wounds and sharpen his knife. He was elated and fiercely proud. He had fought a good fight worthy of the stock from which he sprang, and he had now proved something of his capabilities. From time to time soft roars of triumph burst from him, mixed with strange singing noises that were certainly not of the habits of the lion. New thoughts were entering his head. He was strong and a killer; in his present mood he feared nothing. Had the natives come upon him to the number of a thousand he would have closed with them and died fighting in true lion fashion.

After a time his mind quieted he began to review the events of the day more soberly. It was apparent that the knife gave him a great advantage. In hands as powerful as his it was invincible if only it could be driven home. There was the crux of the whole matter; an opening had to be made for the decisive blow, and it depended upon his cunning and agility to make that opening. At the back of his mind was Bulu. When the big lion had driven him out of the pack he had determined to return and exact vengeance when the opportunity offered.

The knife had made that possible. Armed with the shining weapon, he could challenge the lion and kill him in fair fight, and henceforth no lion should be his master. He would rule as old Paka had ruled, by virtue of superior strength and cunning. But he must be careful how he opposed his frail body to the might of the monarchs of the wild. A sure stroke with the knife would give him victory, but he must be able to deliver it without risk of a blow or bite from his antagonist, for one such, fairly dealt, would cripple or kill him without question. As the dog's agility was greater than his own, so his speed and facility of sudden movement was greater than the lion's. He had proved that in many a mimic battle with his playmates. He remembered the tactics of the dogs, the feint, the leap and the turnings and twistings when pursued. In just such a way he could deal with Bulu, but he had an advantage which the dogs lacked. They were unable to deliver a mortal wound with one stroke at the full reach of the arm, and they could not parry a blow as he could do.

He had long since learned that the jerky blow of the lion's paw could be dodged, if expected, or warded off by raising the arm and sliding the striking member away from one so as to diminish its power. This latter method was not infallible, for so great was the strength behind the lion's blow that a certain amount of it expended itself upon its object despite his most cunning parries, but there was a way to elude this strength. It lay in guarding the blow before it had actually been dealt. He had discovered this in play with Ruka and Dogo.

The moment he sensed that the huge paw was aimed at him he had pressed his hand upon it, and the force had been expended in a push instead of a stroke, a push that could not be resisted but might be yielded to. The result had always been to throw him violently aside, but after a time he had not minded this, for he found that he did not lose his feet and was none the worse for the experience.

His method, then, would be at any cost to avoid closing with his antagonist. He must dodge and jump, seeking always an opportunity to use the knife while keeping clear of the enemy's jaws—an easy matter for one as speedy as himself; and, where unable to escape a paw-stroke, he would parry it and allow its force to assist him in jumping away.

So far he would be master of the situation, but if once Bulu was able to throw his weight upon him it would finish the contest immediately. He knew that, but it did not deter him from his purpose. He was convinced that he was Bulu's master, and was eager to put his claim to the proof.

Tomorrow he would seek the thorns and his brothers again, and woe to the big tawny-mane if he were still with them. He climbed into a big tree, stretched himself out on a bough like a leopard and fell asleep.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

THE REASON FOR PARESIS.

PROF. CHARLES P. EMERSON, president of the national committee for mental hygiene, tells us that the people of the Orient can teach us many things about the prevention of insanity.

Insanity and emotional disturbance and social and moral delinquency are so undermining us that our social fabric is in some danger of miring up.

Nearly one-fourth of our insanity is the result of syphilis. This kind of insanity impairs judgment as one of its earliest manifestations. Many a man with early insanity of this kind seems so normal that his condition is not suspected until he has wrecked his business or squandered the accumulation built up to shield his employes, make his wife comfortable and educate his children.

Orientals have more syphilis than we do, but it rarely involves the brain and spinal cord. Among the people of India paresis is very rare and locomotor ataxia is seldom encountered. It was once thought that there were several strains of the syphilis microbe, and that the one in India spared the nervous system, whereas ours did not. That idea is no longer advocated.

Another theory was that the syphilis microbe was new among the American people and, in consequence, they suffered greatly when infected by it, whereas other peoples had become more accustomed to it. That does not fit in with the view of the Columbian origin of syphilis.

Prof. Emerson said that our life of excitement and thrills laid the foundation for attack on the brain and spinal cord by this microbe once infection had taken place. The Oriental, being more placid, taking life more calmly, never being unduly optimistic or unduly cast down, did not suffer from general paresis as a result of infection.

If this contention be correct, a program of prevention should have two parts—one directed toward the repression of syphilitic infection, the other toward emotional reconstruction. Neither is a small job.

A considerable part of our insanity is the result of alcoholism. Certain of the Oriental peoples are Mohammedans and use no liquors. The others have no religious prohibition of the use of liquors, but they have the mental poise to either refrain or to drink very temperately. When an Oriental drinks to excess he rarely indulges in emotional outbreaks. His inhibitions are so firmly fixed that not even liquor can remove them.

CANKER SORES.

H. M. writes: Your recent letter on canker sores asks for prevention rather than cure. This can be accomplished by decreasing amount of food. Fasting will cure canker sores.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF January 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 11:15 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

You may suffer a disappointment on this January 27. Some long cherished hope that seemed about to be attained will slip beyond your grasp. Conditions would not seem ideal for starting on a trip of any great length. Young people particularly will have a strange feeling of loneliness even though they be in the midst of dear ones. Friendships begun on this day will not be enduring and will be generally unsatisfactory.

Born on January 27, the child should be a better than average student, taking particular interest in mathematics. These children will love games of all kinds, with preference shown for games of chance. They will not care for outdoor pleasures. These children will prove the selves most adaptable their surroundings. They are attentive and have splendid powers of concentration.

If January 27 is the date of your birth, you care not one whit for what the other fellow thinks about you. As long as your conscience does not trouble you you are content to carry on quite as you please. You are inclined to be slightly eccentric in your dress, occasionally in your speech. You are very definitely an individualist. You have a winning way about you that enables you to get just about what you want from the other person. Particularly is this true if "the other person" happens to be a member of the opposite sex.

Born on January 27, you are an entertaining and amusing person. You would do well on the stage. In business, you should prove yourself quite successful, for your ability to "get yourself across" is always with you. As a salesman or promoter you should go far. You are not possessed of the necessary qualities that would make of you an executive. You are lacking in the ability to organize. Women born on this date have a tendency to anger quickly; ever-available vocabularies and nimble tongues often lead these otherwise charming women to speak, in anger, words they would not think of uttering in calmer moments. The women are instinctive mothers and seem to know all that is necessary for the care and upbringing of children.

Successful people born on January 27:

Eli Whitney Blake, inventor.

Richard Taylor, soldier.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

For the first warm day—this lovely frock developed in a fine woollen material like a lightweight serge, in soft green. (From the Rue de la Paix.)

THE natural waistline had to go. What, has it gone? Yes, among elegant women. True, the jeune fille still marks her charming little waist with belts of varying width—but herein lies the secret and its answer.

No intelligent woman will follow any style nowadays unless it is becoming to her. And hardly any woman over 25 has a girlish waistline! Slender though nature may allow her to continue to be, thereby retaining her youthful appearance longer than does she of the well-rounded figure, the waistline will thicken—and thereby betray her, if she shows it up with a definite belting. Why, then, do so?

Ah, the clever couturieres! How well must they know woman, in order to clothe her! And the natural waistline, as well they know, is not entirely acceptable to the average feminine figure.

For a while the question was whether the belt should go higher or lower, neither one greatly exaggerated. Now it seems to have decided on the latter, in general. Although there are the empire and directoir high-waisted models, and those for the jeune fille which define her youthful waist right where nature, supposedly, put it. But the general trend is for the belt to be 3 or 4 inches below this natural line, even lower is sponsored by some couturieres.

All because it has been found that this slightly lower line is more flattering to the average figure than any other!

* * * *

There is a way to keep shoes in shape, gloves clean without frequent trips to ruinous cleaners, coats in shape—and a lot of other things that we used to leave to our maids—sometimes to our regret, more often not. And now so many of us haven't a maid, or an untrained one, so what is the result? Waste and wear and tear on our clothes, and an uncomfortable feeling of never being quite soignee. Well, I know all about it, my dear, and seemingly many of you do, too—if I can judge by the requests for information of this kind that have been coming in the mail. So I have compiled a lot of facts for taking care of our clothes and prolonging their lives three or four times, and set these facts all down in a long leaflet. Which you can have for only a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. You will find this leaflet immensely helpful—either for yourself, or to turn over to any ordinary maid—thereby making a good personal maid out of her! Do send for it before you forget.

* * * *

I liked the way the front fullness of the skirt continued on up into flat incrustations to the waist, then seemed to slip under the bodice and emerge in a scarf collar effect—so I thought you would like it, too. Many of the new spring dresses have this front fullness, in effect. But the bodice of this one was unusual, so I sketched it for you. The fullness of the upper sleeves falls softly down over the tightness of the lower sleeve. Nice?

* * * *

Modern jewelry can be either manijeweled or conceived in strass and one center stone of black or color—as I have sketched for you today. The jewels are imitations, but certainly a jeweled bird on a broache outrivals any Eastern potentate's splendor!

* * * *

Strass is the same as brilliants, diamante, or even rhinestones; rhinestones, however, being actually a natural rock crystal, not as brilliant as the strass and diamante of chemical origin.

PLAYING FOR AN EXTRA TRICK.

BUFFALO, N. Y., is a center of interest in Duplicate Bridge, the Buffalo Whist Club being a meeting-place for lovers of this form of the game.

So great has become the interest in Duplicate there that the Whist Club publishes weekly a mimeographed circular, giving the results obtained by the leaders and analyzing the bidding and play on some of the more unusual hands. An interesting hand played in a recent tournament was the following, in which the question presented to the Declarer was the method of developing his hand. In Rubber play, particularly under the new scoring, the safety of the contract is the only consideration. An extra trick is immaterial. In Duplicate, however, the extra trick looms very large in the minds of the players because it may mean the difference between a top score and a bottom score.

South—Dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A 10 8 5 ♡ Q 9 7 3 ◇ Q 9 5 ♣ 8 6
♠ K Q J 2 ♡ 4 2 ◇ 7 4 3 ♣ A Q J 7		♠ 9 7 ♡ A K ◇ K J 10 ♣ 8 2
	♠ 6 4 3 ♡ J 10 8 6 5 ◇ A 6 ♣ 10 5 2

The bidding varied slightly at the different tables, but in every case the eventual contract was three no-trump, sometimes with West the Declarer and sometimes with East. The uniformity went further, in that, whether West or East was Declarer, the Opening lead was a heart. The problem presented to the Declarer then is for which suit, spades or diamonds, he shall play. The decision, actually, is very close. Obviously the Declarer has 4 club tricks and 2 heart tricks. If the diamond suit can be developed with the loss of a single trick, then East and West can make an extra trick, whereas if the spade suit does not break favorably, and as a matter of fact it can not be expected to do so, West may have trouble in making his contract.

The proper plan then, for the Declarer, is to lead a small diamond toward the minor tenace in the Dummy hand. As the cards lie, this method of play, correctly developed, assures the making of four-odd, as, even with an Opening heart lead, North and South can not drive out the two stoppers in time to prevent their adversaries from making not only the contract, but the overtrick as well.

In Rubber Bridge the question of the play of the hand might depend upon whether or not either opponent had entered the bidding. If there was any indication that South held the Spade Ace, a play for that suit, rather than the diamond suit, might appear advisable, as, of course, the failure of the finesse in diamonds immediately imperils the contract.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

West—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ A J 8 4 ♡ 9 8 6 5 4 ◇ 10 9 5 ♣ 8
♠ 9 6 5 3 ♡ 10 7 ◇ A Q J 2 ♣ 10 9 5		♠ 2 ♡ K J 3 ◇ 8 7 6 ♣ K Q J 7 6 2
	♠ K Q 10 7 ♡ A Q 2 ◇ K 4 3 ♣ A 4 3

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

SO easily made is this fascinating little frock, yet so professional in its effect. And all because of its smart details.

The bodice with its pretty and unusual neckline is quite plain. And note the clever placement of the skirt seaming.

Softly falling silk (either plain or patterned) such as crinkly crepe is delightfully smart for this model.

Style No. 3409 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

COAD BUDGET SLASH PLAN GAINS SUPPORT

Would Close Three Normal Schools; Maryland 5-Day Week Bill Introduced.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 26.—The plan of Senator Joseph Allan Coad, of St. Mary's County, to cut the State budget an additional million dollars was nearer realization today as a graduated scale of salary reductions was discussed and the opinion was expressed that Republican senators would favor eliminating the cost of school supervisors and closing three of the normal schools.

The tentative plan of graduated salary reductions would save about $250,000 in addition to the savings made possible by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie's 10 per cent cut, Mr. Coad estimated. It has not been decided yet whether salaries below a certain sum will be entirely exempt from the slash.

No definite discussion of the cut in school costs has been engaged in by the Senate finance committee, which held meetings today both before and after the Senate session. To close all normal schools and eliminate supervisors would save about $500,000, so that a way to save two-thirds of Senator Coad's million has already been suggested.

Expenses of Schools.

A leading Republican senator is authority for the statement that the school cost cut would meet with the approval of the minority. He believes, however, that the normal school at Towson should be kept open, which would reduce the school saving by about one-half.

The 1934 appropriation for the Towson school is $269,726, while the cost of the other schools is: Frostburg, $76,015; Salisbury, $86,265, and Bowie, $49,030. The appropriation for supervisors is included in the $183,000 suggested for part payment of salaries, but this will be cut $18,300 by the governor's 10 per cent salary cut.

A bill raising the State speed limit to 60 miles per hour at night was introduced in the House of Delegates today as another amending the Colmar Manor town charter was reported favorably and placed on the second-reading calendar.

Colmar Manor Measure.

The speed law provides that the maximum legal speed shall be 60 miles per hour in open country between 9 p. m. and 5 a. m. At present the limit is 40 miles per hour all around the clock, and the law would leave this unchanged during daylight. The Colmar Manor bill was reported out by the Prince Georges County delegation, and its favorable report adopted by the House. If its present pace is maintained, it will be among the first six bills to be passed at this session.

In the Senate a bill, following closely the Black bill now pending in Congress, was introduced to etsablish the five-day week and the six-hour day. The measure would prohibit the shipment within the State or into the State of any goods manufactured by labor working more than this limit. Senator E. Milton Altfeld, of Baltimore, who introduced it, explained that it would aid economic recovery by distributing work among a greater number of men.

Charges that circulars advertising the Annapolis Roads Club had been distributed to delegates by pages in the House were made by a Baltimore delegate, who asked the speaker to rule against the practice. Hearings were held this morning by the judiciary committee of the House on Delegate Oliver Metzerott's bill to prohibit State employes from lobbying and to require the secretary of state to furnish a list of registered lobbyists. No report on the bill and resolution was made, however.

Study Old Age Pensions.

Objecting to a local Alleghany County bill on the ground that it would create a new office, Delegate Francis A. Michel succeeded in having it referred to the ways and means committee after the county delegation had reported it favorably. His motion to recommit it occasioned the first real debate of the session. Mr. Metzerott, Republican floor leader, took up the cudgels for the Republican delegation from Alleghany, pointing out that it was a purely county bill and did not affect the State. Mr. Michel, a member of the ways and means committee, said he wanted time to study it and his motion to recommit was carried.

A bill forbidding school officials to have any profitable interest in school purchases, with an innocuous clause compelling advertised bids, also was introduced in the House. The measure will affect members of the school boards and county school superintendents. The advertised bid clause applies to purchases of more than $500, but excepts contracts or purchases of books or other materials of instruction.

Another bill, establishing a commission to serve without pay to study old age pensions and recommend a system for the State also was introduced.

Veteran Fund Now Opposed by Curran

Economy League Director Would Defer Legislation to Extra Session.

Emphatic opposition to any appropriation at all for the Veterans Administration at this session of Congress was expressed in a telegram sent yesterday to Representative Joseph W. Byrns, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, by Maj. Henry H. Curran, director of the National Economy League.

Appropriations for the Veterans Administration can be made in the special session just as easily, Maj. Curran urged, adding that the present session of Congress should hold off to give President-elect Roosevelt a free hand on what he shall do about the question after he becomes President.

The President-elect, Maj. Curran said, should be given the opportunity to make his own responsible recommendations to Congress on this particular appropriation which ordinarily consumes nearly one quarter of the entire Federal budget.

Spokesmen for the Disabled American Veterans presented to the joint congressional committee yesterday further opposition from veterans organizations to suggested economies. Thomas Kirby, legislative representative of the D. A. V., and Ralph Chambers, chairman of its rehabilitation committee, objected particularly to tampering with benefits paid those injured in service.

RULES ARE SIMPLE IN PHOTO CONTEST

The Post's $10,500 Search for 51 Charming Girls Devoid of Complexity.

The complex rules and regulations usually associated with prize contests are conspicuously absent in the plan by which The Washington Post and the Chicago Tribune will select 51 girls to officiate at the opening of the Century of Progress International Exposition in Chicago next June.

A photograph that has been taken within the past 12 months and which is at least 6 by 8 inches in size is all that is necessary to become eligible to share in the distribution of $10,500 in cash prizes together with a two-week period of entertainment and pleasure in Chicago with all expenses paid.

The search for this large group of charming girls has been exclusively entrusted to The Washington Post and affiliated newspapers by the management of the Century of Progress Exposition.

The problem is not to select girls who are merely beautiful in a superficial way, but rather those who reflect the most admirable qualities of feminine charm in expression and features. Selections of the 51 girls will be made by a competent committee of judges, solely from photographs. At Chicago, however, one of the group who will go there as the guests of The Washington Post and Chicago Tribune, will be chosen as queen and in addition will be presented with $5,000.00 in cash. Two other girls will receive $3,000.00 and $2,000.00 in cash, respectively, and will be the first and second ladies-in-waiting. The remaining 48 girls will compose the queen's court of honor and will share equally in the elaborate program of entertainment.

It is necessary to carefully fill out the transmittal coupon which appears on this page today and to attach it to the back of the photograph which is to be sent to the "Queen Contest Editor, The Washington Post." The same information, however, may be written upon a separate sheet of paper, instead of on the coupon. This form also authorizes The Washington Post to publish the subject's picture in the series that will appear in The Post's Sunday Rotogragure Section for ten weeks beginning Sunday.

In this series of rotogravures The Washington Post will publish the photographs of 100 entrants in the contest and will pay $5 to each for the privilege of this publication. Although any relative or friend may enter an unmarried girl's photograph in the contest, all prizes and payment for pictures will be made only to the girl who is the subject of the picture.

The contest is open to every unmarried girl or widow, regardless of where she may live. The only girls ineligible to compete are professional stage girls or artists' models, and employes of The Washington Post and members of their families. Photographs will be accepted by The Washington Post from now until April 15, when the contest closes.

Filipinos to Honor Tomb of Sponsor

Will Lay Wreath on Grave of Former Representative Jones Today.

(Associated Press.)

A wreath will be laid today on the tomb of the late Representative William Atkinson Jones, of Virginia, a sponsor of Philippine independence, by members of the mission to Congress urging freedom of the islands.

The mission was invited to Warsaw, home and burial place of the former member of Congress, by his widow. She will entertain them at a victory luncheon celebrating enactment of the Philippine independence law.

HARD BATTLE QUELLS $6,000 ROSSLYN FIRE

Two Floors of Paper Firm's Building Are Ravaged; Three Men Escape.

Flaring up just after dusk yesterday, a stubborn fire in the Washington Waste Paper Co. building in Rosslyn, Va., resisted efforts of volunteer and Washington firemen for more than an hour before being subdued. It caused damage variously estimated from $6,000 to $10,000.

The blaze, originating in a corner of the second floor closely packed with baled waste paper, was discovered by A. Iskoff, a grocer, whose store is a block away. Webb Stevens, proprietor of the paper company, said three Negroes were at work on the second floor, but escaped without injury.

The second floor was badly damaged and considerable damage was done by the fire and water on the third floor.

Practically all apparatus in Arlington County responded to the first call, including the new rescue truck at Jefferson District. The size of the blaze necessitated, however, a call to Washington for help, and No. 5 Engine Company was hurriedly dispatched and stayed until the fire was under control.

Stevens said most of the damage was covered by insurance. The building is owned by the Washington Paper Stock Co. and is situated on Railroad street.

Town Road Chiefs To See State Men

Highway Rebates Will Be Discussed Tomorrow at Mount Rainier.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 26.—Representatives of incorporated towns in Prince Georges County will be invited to a meeting with officials of the State Roads Commission, to discuss the road rebate problem under the new road law, Delegate William P. Keys, of Mount Rainier, said here today.

The meeting is tentatively set for Saturday at 5:30 p. m., in Mount Rainier. The new law is particularly interesting to incorporated towns, which now receive part of the county funds for the upkeep of their streets. Under the new law there will be little or no county road tax, so that these former funds will not be available.

The State Roads Commission has no answer to the question of how the towns will finance their own road work in the future, it was said.

Fish Bill Urges Bonus Payments to Jobless

(Associated Press.)

Payment of the bonus to veterans who are unemployed and in need was called for in a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Fish (Republican), New York.

The payment on the bonus certificates, however, would not be in lump sums, but at the rate of $30 a month to needy veterans with dependents and $15 a month to others. Fish estimated that the cost would be $10,000,000 for six months and would drop after that.

ALEXANDRIA FREIGHT CHANGE IS PROPOSED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

It is reported that the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad Co. is making plans which will provide for the handling of only carload freight through the Alexandria freight office, which, if carried out, probably will result in a material reduction in the force employed. An application for the proposed change must, it is understood, be presented to the State corporation commission for approval before being placed in effect. Officials of the company have denied that the closing of the Alexandria office is contemplated.

There are approximately ten persons employed in the office and freight station. A number of Alexandria merchants, it is understood, will protest the proposed action.

The officers of the grand lodge of Masons of the District of Columbia accompanied the grand master, Harry Kimball, on his visit to Alexandria-Washington Lodge last night, this being the first visit of the District Masons to Alexandria for a number of years.

Among the distinguished visitors were Harry K. Green, of Clarendon, grand master of Masons in Virginia, and Dr. William Moseley Brown, grand senior warden. Addresses on the history of the Grand Lodge of the District and the period when Alexandria was a part of the District of Columbia, were delivered by J. Claude Keiper, past grand master of the District, and Charles H. Callahan, past grand master of Masons in Virginia.

Alexandria Chapter, Order of DeMolay, was organized last night at a meeting in the Scottish Rite rooms of the Masonic Temple on Cameron street. H. L. McConnell, an active member of the Grand Council of the State of Virginia, presided at the institution of the chapter. He was introduced by the venerable master of Washington Memorial Lodge of Perfection.

The Alexandria Kiwanis Club yesterday was entertained with a Scotch program arranged by Clyde C. Lamond. Scottish songs were sung under leadership of Dr. James Love. There was a concertina recital by W. B. Campbell, accompanied on the piano by Walter Cossins, and Duncan Thompson sang several selections from Highland ballads.

Plans for the Ki-Ro Revue, to be given jointly by Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs on February 9 and 10, were outlined by T. Q. Duggins, and each member was asked to assist in distribution of tickets.

A suitcase containing a quantity of women's wearing apparel was recovered yesterday in the yard of a house occupied by an Alexandria Negro by Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims, Sergts. Kaus and Padgett and Patrolman Grimm, and two Negroes are being held for investigation.

The suitcase contained two insurance policies in the name of a Baltimore woman and a letter addressed to the same person, in Lancaster County, Va. The two men held were endeavoring to dispose of the clothing when arrested.

The heavy windstorm Wednesday night unroofed the building known as Sarepta Hall in the 400 block King street, Alexandria, occupied by the Samuel Estate Stores, considerably damaging the stock on the ground floor. The damage to the roof was covered by windstorm insurance.

Several electric lighting circuits in Alexandria and the surrounding territory were out of service due to the storm, and considerable damage was caused to wires of the telephone and telegraph companies.

James Thomas, alias E. J. Thomas, charged with breaking and entering the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Woolls, mother of Judge William P. Woolls, of the Alexandria corporation court, was sentenced yesterday to serve four years in the penitentiary.

The robbery occurred last November 20. Shortly afterward Thomas was arrested in Maryland and sentenced to a term in the prison at Jesup. He was traced through the records of the Department of Justice, and upon the completion of his term in Maryland was arrested and brought to Alexandria for trial.

Seminole Tribe, No. 35, Improved Order of Red Men, of Alexandria, initiated a class of candidates last night, the newly elected captain, Marvin Hudson, being in charge of the degree team. Willard C. Merchant, newly installed sachem, presided.

Wampler Removal Hearing Due Today

Baltimore Prosecutor Will Push Charges in Income Case.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 26.—Removal proceedings against T. Morris Wampler, Washington attorney, recently indicted here for violation of the Federal income tax laws, will be held in the Capital tomorrow before Needham C. Turnage, United States commissioner.

When Mr. Wampler notified Federal authorities that he would fight removal, Simon E. Sobeloff, United States district attorney here, who secured the indictment, instructed Charles G. Page, one of his assistants, to assist the United States district attorney in Washington in presenting the case.

The defendant, who is at liberty in $10,000 bail, is charged with making false income tax returns for the years 1930 and 1931. The indictment was returned following a special three-day session of the United States grand jury.

RECOVERY OF BALL BOND TO BE RUSHED

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Preparation of the necessary papers incident to recovery of more than $500,000 under the bond of former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball is now under way, according to Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas.

He said that although the alleged shortage was discovered about a year ago, there has been no request made of the bonding company for the money. The delay, he pointed out, was due both to the fact that the audit of Ball's accounts had not yet been published, and to the desire of the State to dispose of the criminal charges against Ball before starting civil action.

While the term bond of the former treasurer was only $300,000, it was said the alleged shortages of more than $500,000 extended over more than one of Ball's four-year terms of office. Ball held the office for more than 25 years.

Mr. Douglas further stated that it has now been decided not to wait longer, and the formal demand for payment by the bond firm will be made as soon as the necessary papers are completed.

Stocks Again Lose Battle To Maintain Early Rally

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Stocks made hard work of an early rally today, and finally slid lower, trailing tobacco and steel shares downward.

Professional traders who tried to follow up yesterday's rise in the carrier shares found the market resistant. A few rail stocks, including New York Central, Union Pacific and Atchison, pulled about a point higher, the first-named being specially active. But the general list refused to follow this leadership and in the last hour all groups reacted.

Selling of the tobaccos reflected not only American Tobacco's failure to vote extra dividends, but also rumors that further wholesale cigarette price cutting was imminent. Steels grew uneasy as the time for Bethlehem's meeting approached, the U. S. Steel issues losing a point net. American Tobacco "B" was down nearly 3. Liggett & Myers "B" almost 2, and Reynolds a major fraction. For American Can, Westinghouse, Kennecott, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, American Telephone and Woolworth net declines were of minor extent. U. S. Industrial Alcohol slumped more than 2.

In rails, Delaware & Hudson traders were still mindful of yesterday's dividend omission, while speculative interest in Central was maintained by virtue of the D. & H. stock acquisition, which has attracted wide interest. Amusement stocks, most of which are in the lowest price brackets, got quietly by the Paramount-Publix bankruptcy petition; Paramount itself was active, closing ⅛ higher. Sales reached a total of 808,780 shares and the average net change was a loss of less than half a point. Kreuger & Toll certificates, soon to be stricken from the list, turned over in large volume at the familiar nominal quotations.

NEW YORK.

SUGAR—Raw was quiet and unchanged early today at 2.67 for spots. No sales were reported although it was believed a local refiner yesterday obtained two cargoes of Puerto Ricos, the price to be fixed on arrival.

Reflecting in activity in the spot market, there was a lack of interest in futures and after opening unchanged to 1 point lower there was no further change up to midday. Near months were easier under scattered liquidation and commission house selling, probably due to the easier ruling of London, and disappointment over refiners' refusal to raise their bids for raws. However, offerings were small and were absorbed at a point below the previous close

Refined was quiet and unchanged at 4.90 for fine granulated.

COFFEE—Spot quiet. Rio No. 7, 8½; Santos No. 4, 9½@9¾. Rio futures closed quiet: sales, 2,000 bags. March, *5.85; May, *5.57; July, *5.23; September, *5.03; December, *4.93. Santos futures quiet; sales, 5,000 bags. March, *8.31; May, *7.86; July, *7.51; September, *7.22; December, *7.09.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was generally cheerful with most interest being shown in foreign bonds, gilt-edged securities and gold mining shares which improved. Irish land stock improved, but Guinness Brewery issues were weaker on the election returns. The closing was steady.

Paris—After yesterday's strike, prices on the bourse opened slightly higher on favorable foreign advices. Trading was hesitant later, but the close was well oriented.

Berlin—The boerse opened moderately cheerful, but later became irregular and closed rather dull.

CURB SALES VOLUME LOWEST SINCE JULY

Prices Decline Slightly as Turnover Dwindles to 80,000 Shares.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The curb market distinguished itself today only in establishing the smallest volume of dealings since last July. Transfers totaled 80,000 shares against 90,000 Wednesday.

Save for a few issues which fluctuated widely because of thin markets, price movements were again within small fractional limits. Most of the market leaders ranged a trifle higher in the early trading, but slipped back to show small net losses at the close.

Commonwealth Edison and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were the brightest spots in the utility group, each gaining more than a point. Niagara Hudson Power yielded only a small fraction on news of the dividend cut to $1 annually from $1.20. New England Power preferred and Illinois Power & Light preferred were less firmly supported and lost more than 2 points each.

Price swings in industrial and specialty groups were decidedly mixed. Montgomery Ward "A" gained 2 in sympathy with firmness in the common shares on the big board. Neisner Brothers preferred jumped 5 on the resumption of dividend payments and Axton Fisher had a 10-point upswing, in response to a favorable 1932 earnings report. Losses of 1 to 2 points were shown by Aluminum Co of America, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad and Carrier Corporation. Celanese first preferred slipped back 5 points.

GOODS MARKETS.

Increased Cigarette Output Is Surprise to Wall Street

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Wall street security analysts were agreeably surprised at the report of cigarette production in December, but would like to know how much the showing was due to sales of the 10-cents-a-package variety.

The 10-cent brands, which became popular during the past year, have imposed a competitive element in the cigarette business which specialists in tobacco securities have found it difficult to gauge. The so-called "big four" companies recently reduced the wholesale price of their principal brands, which had been widely retailed at 15 cents a package to permit retail price reductions of a cent or two. This was presumably an answer to the 10-cent variety challenge. The retail prices mentioned here, of course, do not prevail in some parts of the country where special State taxes or other factors enter into the situation.

The Internal Revenue Bureau's figures on cigarette production for December showed a total of 7,319,117,167, an increase of 0.3 per cent over December, 1931. For the entire year 1932 production was 108,585,833,866, a decrease of 8.7 per cent from 1931. The financial community had been talking of a decrease from last year of 10 per cent or more. But these figures do not show the percentage of the cheap cigarettes.

The first company to report its earnings for 1932, which has been particularly active in producing 10-cents-a-package cigarettes, showed a striking upswing in its profits. This was Axton-Fisher Tobacco Co., which reported preliminary net earnings of $1,416,952, or more than double the $605,552 reported for 1931.

The first two of the "big four" to report showed earnings well sustained, but no such upswing. Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. had 1932 net of $23,075,212, against $23,121,382 in 1931. R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. reported 1932 net of $33,674,800 against $36,396,817 in the previous year.

Underwriters Open Meeting in Capital

Drives for Business Urged by Speakers; Virginia Agents Attend.

With the "final period of the depression" in sight, Holgar J. Johnson, general agent of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., yesterday urged embarkation on an "intensive, aggressive selling campaign" in a vigorous address before the fifteenth annual Congress of Life Underwriters of the District of Columbia and Maryland.

The meeting, held at the Shoreham Hotel and continuing all through yesterday, was arranged by the District of Columbia and Baltimore Underwriters Associations. More than 100 life insurance men from Richmond, Va., also were in attendance.

This is a period of transcendency in business, Mr. Johnson declared, and he said that instead of accepting reverses and difficult conditions, the underwriter should transcend with the times and thus keep abreast.

Another principal speaker before the congress was Oliver Thurman, vice president of the Mutual Benefit, Newark, N. J. Mr. Thurman discussed "Morale and Management." Other speakers were Robert B. Coolidge, special agent of the Aetna Life Insurance Co., Cleveland, Ohio; McClelland J. Donnelly, vice president of the Edward A. Woods Agency, Equitable Assurance Society of New York, and Louis C. Roth, of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Five-minute talks were given by John B. Clelland, jr., special agent, Penn Mutual Insurance Co., Washington, D. C.; Thomas W. Harrison, Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., Baltimore; Carl E. Heckt, Equitable Life Association, Baltimore; Paul H. Primm, the Mutual Life of New York, Washington, D. C., and Abram M. Seligman, Mutual Life Insurance Co., Baltimore, Md.

The congress was opened by John P. Lynch, president of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for January 24 were $3,279,349.53; expenditures, $4,787,146.34; balance, $359,178,360.74. Customs duties for 24 days of January were $14,451,225.30

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN UNDER RAILS' LEAD

One-Tenth Rise Is Recorded in Lighter Sale of $9,276,000.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—A moderate rally in the rails served to hold the bond market on a fairly even keel today, but signs of vitality were lacking in most categories.

Trading volume again sagged slightly, sales totaling $9,276,000, par value. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 60 domestic corporate loans held a gain of one-tenth of a point. The advance was due entirely to the carriers, as the averages for both the utilities and industrials eased fractionally.

Gains of a point or more were recorded by some liens of Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Burlington, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Reading, Southern Pacific, Texas & Pacific and Western Maryland. Great Northern and Delaware & Hudson issues were heavy, while Kentucky & Indiana Terminal 4½s lost 32¼ points on their first sale for more than a year.

The heaviest trading of the day was in U. S. Rubber 5s which advanced ⅛ of a point. Moving Picture Corporation loans were nervous coincident with filing of bankruptcy petition here against the Paramount concern. The amusement list rallied at one time, but turned back later.

The United States Government list was relatively quiet and a little irregular despite the fact that Liberty 3½s and three of the Treasuries reached new highs for 1932-33.

While Buenos Aires Province obligations lost 3 or more points, foreign bonds generally showed unimportant changes. Polish 8s gained 2¾ points and French 7½s advanced ¼. The Germans were mixed.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank today announced no change in its 2½ per cent rediscount rate.

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Republic Steel Corporation today began work on a $1,000,000 order of 14,000 tons of electrically welded 8-inch pipe for the Phillips Petroleum Corporation for a 210-mile crude oil pipeline from Oklahoma City to one of its refineries.

The order will require capacity operation of one of Republic's three electric-weld mills for a month, with corresponding activity in blast furnace, open hearth furnace, blooming mill and plate mill.

British Judge Dismisses $185,000,000 Action

London, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Justice Luxmoor today dismissed with costs suit brought by William Henry Boardman and all other holders of first preference stock of the old Grand Trunk Railway as of January, 1923, for $185,000,000 in back dividends.

The defendants are the Grand Trunk and the Canadian National Railways, which absorbed the Grand Trunk. The plaintiff was granted the right of appeal.

WHEAT VALUE GAINS DISAPPEAR AT CLOSE

Declines Result as Buying Power Wanes; Corn and Oats Down.

Chicago, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Wheat slid downward today at the last, after a laborious climb to price tops unreached heretofore in almost two weeks.

Fresh buying power gave out, despite reports of new dust storms in Kansas. One reason that brokers assigned for a let-up of purchase orders was extreme uncertainty as to what the coming session of Congress would do.

Wheat closed heavy, ¼ to ½ under yesterday's finish; corn also ¼ to ½ down; oats, ⅛ off, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Wheat Selling Increases.

Commission house selling of wheat increased to a moderate extent just before the close. The pressure appeared to come from holders who had bought recently expecting a bigger advance to follow reports of severe impairment of the crop outlook for domestic winter wheat. Upturns of prices were the rule most of the time today, but were only fractional, and met with resistance at above 48⅛ cents for the May delivery, a reminder of similar happenings a short while ago.

What little force the upward trend of wheat values did attain today was associated with advices that drought effects were rapidly extending in domestic winter crop territory. There were also reports of persistent sharp frosts in most European countries, and of snow covering deficient except in Hungary and Roumania. It was authoritatively emphasized, too, that United States supplies of wheat had been overestimated, or that domestic disappearance was greater than generally believed.

Corn and oats prices were pulled down by rains in Argentina, improving the prospect for the new Argentine corn crop.

Provisions weakened, owing to deliveries on January contracts.

Paramount-Publix In Receivership

Largest Motion Picture Company Agrees to Equity Action.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Receivers in equity were appointed today for the Paramount-Publix Corporation, largest company in the motion picture field.

The receivers named by Federal Judge William Bondy were Charles D. Hilles and Adolph Zukor. The action was taken upon the petition of the Broadway and Twentieth Properties, Inc., a California concern, which is a creditor to the extent of $29,166.

Attorneys for Paramount-Publix agreed to the receivership at a conference in Judge Bundy's chambers. In their answer they acknowledged allegations that the corporation lacked liquid assets to meet current obligations.

Mr. Zukor is president of Paramount-Publix. Hilles, an insurance executive, former chairman of the Republican national committee and the present Republican national committeeman from New York. The petitioning creditor set forth that the corporation has assets of great value, the holdings of the parent company and affiliates totalling more than $166,000,000.

In still another action Judge Bundy named the Irving Trust Co. as receiver in bankruptcy for one subsidiary, Public Enterprises, Inc. This company filed a voluntary petition setting up liabilities of $41,214,407 and assets of $23,864,076.

COTTON PRICES CUT ON SOUTHERN SALES

March Closes at 6.09 as General Market Drops 4 to 6 Points.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Except for a spurt in trading near the close, cotton was quiet again today with slight early advances followed by reactions under increased Southern selling and liquidation.

March contracts, after advancing to 6.20 on the early demand, broke to 6.09 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady, 4 to 6 points lower.

The opening was unchanged to 4 points higher on trade buying and covering, promoted by steadiness in Liverpool. Active months worked about 3 to 6 points higher, with July selling at 6.44.

March Liquidation Appears.

There appeared to be considerable March liquidation, which was absorbed by the trade. Prices broke in the late trading under Southern selling, and offerings through brokers with Japanese connections. July sold off to 6.35 and closing quotations were the lowest of the day with active months showing reactions of 9 to 11 points from the highs of the morning.

Houses, with cooperative connections were believed to be among the sellers. Houses with Liverpool connections were buyers at the opening, but sold later.

There were reports of increased spot offerings in Texas, but it was also said that a firm basis continued for cotton of desirable quality. Liverpool cables reported a featureless market there with business restricted. Exports today, 11,139, making 4,857,849 so far this season. Port receipts, 35,939. United States port stocks, 4,813,160.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT IS quite a party they are going to give Kate Smith's ample shadow down at the Metropolitan, come Friday, February 3.

I mean when Kate and her new Paramount picture, "Hello, Everybody," take possession of the Warner Brothers' F street screen a week from today, she will be surrounded on the bill almost, if not quite, exclusively by stars of radio who have transferred their talents to the screen. The Warner executives, I believe, have even gone so far as to term it "Radio Week" at the Met—which brings back to mind another "Radio Week," years ago, when the "Crandall Saturday Nighters" supplied the stage program at the then ace house of the Crandall circuit and Kate was accorded one of her first opportunities to learn that she possessed something that audiences liked and that would stop shows, regardless of surrounding attractions.

But to get back to the week of February 3, the complements of "Hello, Everybody" will include Burns and Allen in Paramount's short-reel subject, "Let's Dance;" the Mills Brothers, that sensational quartet of Negro vocalists and vocal instrumentalists—if you know what I mean, and you probably do—in "Dinah," and Abe Lyman and his band in a special Vitaphone musical novelty.

Incidentally, in "Hello, Everybody" Kate is the central figure in what Mr. La Falce describes as "a touching drama of a woman's fight for justice." The voice that has been tugging that moon over the mountain nightly to an estimated audience of millions, is given ample scope in the picture. In addition to many old favorites, Washington's "song bird of the South" sings four new numbers—"Moon Song," "Pickaninnies' Heaven," "Out in the Great Open Spaces" and "Twenty Million People."

She is supported in the picture by a cast that includes Randolph Scott, Sally Blane, Jerry Tucker, George Barbier, who was a Washington stock favorite about the time Kate was born; Charles Grapewin, the old vaudevillian of the team of Charlie Grapewin and Anna Chance; Ted Collins, her manager, and Nate Brusiloff and his orchestra, Nate also being a former Washingtonian with the heart of a clown and a nasty violin bow!

Speaking of coming attractions, Rodney Collier is going to try an interesting experiment that same week of February 4—the Rialto opens on Saturday instead of Friday, you will remember.

For that week, or whenever "Nagana," with Tala Birell and Melvyn Douglas, shall have gotten itself out of the way, the Rialto will offer a revival of what this column shall always believe was the best musical revue ever produced for the screen—Paul Whiteman's "The King of Jazz."

This, it will be recalled, was months in the making, interrupted by all manner of story trouble and once or twice, unless memory has gone haywire, completely abandoned because Whiteman refused to permit anybody to try to make a romantic actor out of him. Notwithstanding all of these delays, impediments and altercations, John Murray Anderson, when the job finally was turned over to him, succeeded in producing the most imaginative, the most beautiful and the most tuneful revue of them all.

To be sure, it came at the wrong end of the procession to score as a box-office hit—musicals were on their way out by that time, instead of in their ascendancy as would have been the case if "The King of Jazz" could have been promptly completed when it was first conceived—but it was of fine intrinsic value and applauded by every critic in the land. But old John Jeremiah Public's mind was made up!

As I say, it will be interesting, now that musicals are supposed to be in for a renaissance, to see what kind of a reception "King of Jazz" will be accorded the second time arpund. Here is one customer it has, all signed, sealed and delivered just to hear John Boles sing "Song of the Dawn" and Whiteman play Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," if for no other reason. And there are lots of other reasons, including Billy Kent and Jeanette Loff!

And while all this is going on, Charles "Buddy" Rogers will also be going on—four times a day, in person, at Loew's Fox. It will be the versatile young Mr. Rogers' first appearance here since his stage debut in the late Flo Ziegfeld's "Hot-Cha," at the National.

While I think of it, don't try to attend Loew's Columbia today before 8:30 p. m., when the Barrymores take over the screen as joint stars of "Rasputin and the Empress." The house will be closed until shortly before that hour, "Robbers' Roost" having ended its run last night.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "Strange Interlude," featuring Norma Shearer and Clark Gable, is playing havoc with the schedules of the residential theaters, as was to have been expected. Not only is the picture long, but it is essential that it be viewed from the beginning if its developments and the peculiar use of the Eugene O'Neill "asides" are to be thoroughly grasped by the spectator.

For these reasons fair warning is given that on both Sunday and Monday at the Tivoli, Fourteenth street and Park road, the first performance will begin promptly at 2 p. m., with subsequent showings at 3:55, 5:45, 7:45 and 9:40 o'clock. This is a full hour earlier than the usual first Sunday showing. The bill, incidentally, opens with the feature.

Since today's grist of items seems to concern itself almost exclusively with impending attractions at one place or another, it perhaps will not be out of keeping to emphasize the booking of Marc Connelly's "The Green Pastures" at the National, beginning Monday, February 13, and the fact that for this engagement niether mail nor phone orders will be accepted. To give every opportunity for those desirous of obtaining tickets to do so at the box-office, however, the sale of seats for "Green Pastures" will begin a full two weeks before the actual date of performance—which is by way of saying that the sale will open Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Having in mind such sales as have greeted both "Design for Living" and "Of Thee I Sing," a friendly tip would be to camp out all night if necessary to be up near the front when they spring the barrier!

Mrs. Charles Edward Russell, 2011 I street, flatters this department with the following communication:

"My Dear Mr. Bell: I am usually well in accord with your good judgment and discriminating comment on all matters theatrical and my occasional theatergoing is largely guided by your opinions.

"In the discussion raised, however, in Sunday's column, re audibility, I am much inclined to reenforce your correspondent, 'M. O.'

"Too often, and from too many locations, have I (and many others) missed much present-day stage dialogue to think that the difficulty is in some particular 'dead spot.' And my hearing is normal. One (or both) of two conclusions seems indicated:

"1. That present-day companies, being often rehearsed in small, intimate New York houses, have lost their ability to project their voices beyond a few rows.

"2. That the current vogue for 'naturalness' has perhaps resulted in losing sight of the fact that players, after all, are still addressing an audience as well as one another.

"May I respectfully suggest that here is a legitimate subject for a little field research on the part of dramatic critics, who, sitting in the first few rows, are naturally unaware of the deprivation of auditors in the hinterlands?

"Mrs. M. O.'s phrase, 'an otherwise dull play' I understand to mean merely that missing half the lines of such a composition as 'Design for Living' leaves nothing but tedium, for the play has no action, of course, except the dialogue.

Yours very sincerely,

(Signed) "THERESA RUSSELL."

There can not, naturally, be any ground for argument as to the necessity of complete audibility if a play is to be enjoyed. There can not be much argument, either, against this as a topic of legitimate research. I very much fear that such investigation will lead directly back to the lamentable fact that with the passing of "the road" and the "stock company" as Augustin Daly knew it, the training school of the seasoned actor has been almost wholly destroyed.

It is a matter that will be further considered in these dispatches at a later time, although again I feel that such lack of adequate experience is a charge that it would be difficult to sustain against the Lunts and Mr. Coward.

And that thing dancing before my eyes again can't be anything else but the deadline!

FRIDAY JANUARY 27, 1933 SPORTS

EASTERN, WARY OF UPSET, FACES ROOSEVELT FIVE

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

GENE SARAZEN advances as his crowning argument in favor of the 8-inch cup on golf greens that the larger cups would place a premium on better putting, thereby going far to guarantee that the better golfer will win.

If it is permissible to differ with the man who holds the American and British open championships, this department differs to the fullest extent of its opinion and even makes so bold as to say that the morning we wake up and find larger cups on our putting greens it will be the dawn of a new era for the average golfer who could never hope to beat the pro.

Even the pros would still face the prospect of not getting down in less than two putts from 20 or 30 feet, barring a remarkable stroke, while the average golfer, with an 8-inch cup to shoot at, would hole out in two putts from that distance with no more trouble than it takes to pull his putter from his bag.

Advantage to Better Golfer Not Apparent.

As far as I have been able to view this game of golf, the advantage of the pros on the putting greens has been their ability to get down in one putt from the troublesome distance of 8, 10 and 12 feet, which, to the average golfer, is two-putt distance.

The advantage that would accrue to the better golfer if 8-inch cups were substituted for the present 3¾-inch receptacles is not apparent to this department. Putting skill may not go hand in hand with good golf, but the good golfer is usually a good putter, at least, and larger cups which may increase his chances of holing out from a distance would probably be offset by the guarantee that the average golfer, who sometimes requires three putts, would also be able to hole out in two.

I have seen duffers on the local public links whose game from tee to green was nothing less than atrocious, putt like champions once on the carpet. The art of putting is more completely detached from the mechanics of golf than any other single stroke, and players who will never be able to learn how to groove a swing or make a respectable score off the tee and through the fairway are apt to be world-beaters once on the green.

Proposal May Serve Useful Purpose.

Sarazen's proposal, however, might serve a useful purpose if slightly modified. If, in some manner, an 8-inch brain could be inculcated in the craniums of local school officials who frowned on the use of Griffith Stadium for the interscholastic baseball series, the series might yet be saved from the great indifference that has marked it in recent years.

Baseball has been the stepchild among high school sports here for several years, and the one innovation that might revive interest in the game would be the transplanting of the series to the big league park, which Griffith so generously offered. In big league surroundings, the latent baseball talent among the high school athletes might be brought to the surface, yet there has been no acceptance of the offer.

Los Angeles Plans College Boat Race

Considers Bidding Major Crews of Coast and East to Compete.

Los Angeles, Jan. 26 (U.P.).—A move to stage national intercollegiate boat races at the Olympic rowing course, in Long Beach, was started today by college and municipal officials.

Athletic heads of University of California at Los Angeles, working with the City and County of Los Angeles and Long Beach City, consider inviting all major Eastern and Coast rowing crews which usualy enter the Poughkeepsie races, it was learned.

Invitations, it was understood, will be extended to Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Syracuse, Columbia, Navy, California and Washington.

Cancellation of the Poughkeepsie regatta this spring started the movement for a Long Beach regatta.

Sponsors hope to raise sufficient funds to pay expenses of the crews to Long Beach and return. It was estimated $35,000 would be required.

"There has been informal discussion of the plan, and we are going to try to get underwriting for it," Steve Cunningham, athletic manager of U. C. L. A., said.

Mat Referees Find Going Rough

Bortnick and Burns Manhandled as 4,000 Look on.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE sacrosanct bodies of Washington's two rassling referees, the estimable Mister Bennah Bortnick and the inviolate James Aloysius "Cyclone" Burns, were not done right by last night at the Auditorium when their boorish associates manhandled them without any regard for the sacred things of life in the mat game. To their keen embarrassment, there must have been 4,000 people in the audience when the unruly matmen inflicted bodily insult upon the two obese arbiters.

Mister Bortnick, for instance, was hit with a flying tackle right in his omniverous middle by Gino Garibaldi and after emitting a vast "Oooooof," hit the canvas with no little ease. This attack upon the sacred third man in the ring took place during Garibaldi's bout with Hans Kampfer, a 30-minute draw that for rough and ready rassling, mixed with science and disastrous holds, stood out over the rest of the night's entertainment like a boil on the end of Jimmy Durante's olfactory member.

Clinstock Manhandles Burns.

Mister Burns was roughly treated by a bad Injun, one Jim Clinstock, who sent the pious senior referee into a nose dive by the expedient of a push in the face.

Both Garibaldi and Clinstock met their just fate. Garibaldi, while he held the Kampfer ball to a draw, received a thunderous boo from the citizens at the close of the bout, while the gentlemanly German, who never so much as scowled at the referee and who, too, had been the recipient of much of Garibaldi's foul play, drew a cheer that made one look around to see if Col. Lindbergh had not by some chance wandered in by mistake.

Clinstock's punishment was meted out to him in spectacular fashion in the last bout of the night. Frank Judson, one of the most popular wrestlers ever to show here, applied the verdict. It took him 23 minutes, but it was a good and thorough one when he did come through with it. It was a sock in the jaw, delivered with his elbow and full force while he stood outside the ring. Clinstock, after bowling over Burns, had started to climb outside the ropes after Jedson. He exposed his chin—and he couldn't take it.

Savoldi Easily Downs Maxos.

Joe Savoldi, the devastating Notre Dame full back of 1930, smeared Johnny Maxos with a series of d s at Maxos' middle. It took 17 minutes. Jacques Humberto, one of the handsomest boys in the business, rattled poor old Floyd Marchall all over the play and rendered him horizontal in 23 minutes.

One of the four world's champions, Johnny Pesek, looked much too good for George Vassell and had trouble carrying him along for 21 minutes before flattening him with a crushing back drop. Pesek was in a hurry to get away, and so had only time to display about half of the hundreds of holds he knows so thoroughly. The hard-bitten old veteran, still one of the fastest men in the ring, had to rush to California to meet a shipment of greyhounds coming in from Australia. He was so interested in his duties as breeder, trainer and manager of some $40,000 worth of nationally famous dogs that he looked at the reporters vacantly when they asked him if he had had any trouble with Vassell.

"With who?" said Mr. Pesek.

Gregalach Assigned 175 in Grand National

London, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. M. A. Gemmel's big Irish steeplechaser Gregalach, winner of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree in 1929, today was assigned top weight of 175 pounds for the 1933 renewal March 24.

The American-bred and owned Troublemaker, leading United States winner, and owned by Mrs. T. H. Somerville, was highest weighted of the American entries, being assigned 160 pounds.

C. R. Taylor's Grakle, the 1931 winner, was given the second highest weight, 171 pounds, while the Coupe de Chapeau, owned by the American, John Drake, was third at 170.

No Alimony

Says Shires, Explaining Reconciliation as Cameras Click.

ART SHIRES.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—While cameras clicked away, Arthur "The Great" Shires told the world today that he and Mrs. Shires had forgotten their differences and would keep right on housekeeping.

"It's all been a big mistake," Shires said as he and Mrs. Shires spent 15 minutes posing affectionately. "No alimony for me; no sir, we'll get along okeh."

"Are you going to take Mrs. Shires along with you on the spring training this year?" he was asked.

"There you go," the self-confessed great first baseman for the Boston Braves sighed. "That's exactly what the trouble's been all over. My pal! My pal! You know as well as I do that the training rules forbid wives from accompanying their husbands."

Art had a great time during the photographing.

"Notice how I got her right arm behind me?" he grinned. "Well, that's the one that carries the wallop."

Mrs. Shires, the former Lucille Greenabaum, former University of Wisconsin coed, smiled sweetly but let her husband do all the talking.

MARYLAND U. FROSH ARE BEATEN

Central High Tops All the Way to Win, 36 to 30.

BACK in its winning stride, Central High School outroughed University of Maryland's Frosh Basket Ball Team to gain a 36-to-30 victory yesterday at College Park. The strain of its recent defeat by Eastern, after stacking up 20 consecutive victories, was still evident, but Central went about its business with mechanical precision to win.

Bill Burke and Buddy Nau, each of whom scored 10 points, led in scoring. Fred Scheele, former St. John's star, topped the Cubs with as many. Central led from the start, boasting a 19-to-13 [illegible] at the intermission. Maryland's fly in the third period brought the teams to the final quarter with Central ahead by a scant 2 points—27 to 25.

Manor Only Local Club Bidding for Golf Trials

William Parker Hall, president of the Maryland Golf Association, yesterday denied reports that the United States Golf Association would follow the recommendations of the Maryland body in selecting courses in the Middle Atlantic section for the national amateur and open championship trials.

"There is no truth in the announcement in a Baltimore paper yesterday that our association had been authorized to choose the courses for such tournaments," Mr. Hall, recently elected head of the Maryland association, last night stated.

Manor is the only other golf club in this section that has asked to hold the amateur trials, which are scheduled on August 8. The Country Club of Virginia, in Richmond, Va., put in a bid for the open test. Neither Chevy Chase nor Columbia has asked for either tournament, it is understood.

Kipke Against Grid Rule Changes

Michigan Coach Urges Three to Five Year Moratorium.

Particularly Opposes Change in Forward Pass Rules.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan 26 (U.P.).—Harry G. Kipke, coach of the Big Ten championship University of Michigan Football Team, today advocated a three to five year moratorium on changes in the football rules.

The Wolverine mentor said he is emphatically opposed to any changes in the rules governing the forward pass. He scored the suggestion of Lou Little, chairman of the rules committee, that the penalty for two successive incomplete passes be increased from 5 to 15 yards.

Defense Has Overtaken Offense.

"Defensive football has caught up with offensive football," Kipke said, "as shown by numerous low scores last season. A powerful defense finds it easy to stop a strong running attack. It takes the pass to win games.

Kipke said the threat of a 15-yard penalty for two incompleted passes would rob offensive football of a strong weapon. He predicted an increase in tie games, if passing is shackled by additional adverse rules.

Michigan's offense has been marked by strong passing attacks during the past decade. The famous Friedman-Oosterbaan combination dominated play in the Western Conference a few years ago. Harry Newman, all-American quarter back, led the Wolverine attack last year with his accurate passing.

Ny Will Face Acid Test In Wanamaker Mile

New York, Jan. 26 (U.P.).—Eric Ny, Sweden's 1,500-meter running champion, arrived today aboard the Leviathan to participate in three indoor meets here next month.

When Ny lines up for the Wanamaker mile in the Millrose games on February 4, he will be a member of a group of the fastest mile runners ever to start. All of the participants have done better than 4:15.

The record, 4:10, is held by Gene Venzke, who will be among the starters. Others Ny will meet in his debut here indoors will be Glenn Cunningham, Kansas; Carl Coan, Penn; Ray Conger, Illinois A. C., and Frank Crowley, of Manhattan.

Ny's best time for the mile—measured in an approximate meter distance—is 4:13.

Wynne Considered At Michigan State

Auburn Grid Coach Invited to East Lansing; May Succeed Crowley.

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The name of Chester "Chet" Wynne, former Notre Dame star and football coach at Auburn, was added today to the list of strong possibilities to succeed James H. Crowley at the head of Michigan State's gridiron forces.

Wynne was a visitor on the Spartan campus throughout the day, invited here by the Michigan State Athletic Council. He was introduced to President Robert S. Shaw and members of the council and was a guest at a dinner of that group tonight.

Although Michigan State authorities declined to state the significance of Wynne's visit, they said he is listed among the available men for the Spartan post. He came here by invitation, however, and had not applied for the job.

Ralph H. Young, director of athletics, appeared pleased over the prospects of obtaining Wynne's services. Possibility of the appointment being settled within a few days was seen.

Olson's Swedes Visit Eagles Here Sunday

Olson's Swedes, a roving band of gangling basket ball players who know only one game, basket ball, will be on exhibition Sunday at the George Washington University gym for the benefit of that portion of the sports public to whom semipro basket ball has a particular appeal. Helping the Swedes exhibit their stuff will be the local heroes, the Eagles, whose claim to the District pro honors goes undisputed this season, there being no other pro teams in the city proper.

Utah State Society, which turned athletic this winter and furnished some young men with basket ball suits and entered them in the Community Center League, pits its representatives against Sholl's in the preliminary.

IDEAS DIFFER AS TO BIG GOLF CUP

20 Per Cent Against 8-Inch Hole in Miami Tests.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—They tried out the 8-inch putting cups on the Riviera golf course here today and the comment afterward was as mixed as a day's catch in a Gulf Stream fishing trip.

Said Phil Perkins, former British amateur champion, who won a load of cups and other prizes in American amateur competition before turning professional:

"I'm positively against them. They'll take all the skill out of putting. It's almost a certainty they'll never be adopted as regulation size."

Miller Likes Larger Cups.

Art Miller, of Amawalk, N. Y.:

Jack Hagen, of Salisbury, Long Island, was midway in his comment.

"They'll never be successful on the present greens," he said. "In my opinion, the greens should be made much smaller if an 8-inch cup is to be used. The next thing would be to allow only one putt instead of two in figuring par for a course."

Ollie Redmond, of Schenectady, N. Y., said:

"I think 8 inches is a little too large for the cup. But I do believe that a compromise to 6 inches would meet with the approval of a big percentage of the country's golfers. The present cup is too small with the new ball."

20 Per Cent Opposed to Big Holes.

Course officials who asked players for comment as they finished a round, estimated that 20 per cent of them were downright unfavorable to the idea; others were on middle ground, while others were enthusiastic about the change.

Gene Sarazen, British and American open champion, started the 8-inch cup idea by announcing such a proposal while he was in a Santa Monica, Cal., hospital suffering an attack of influenza.

An open tournament is to be played here in early March in which the bigger cups will be used. A purse of $5,000 is planned.

Cards Offer Contract To Hawaiian Pitcher

Honolulu, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Johnny Lush, former St. Louis National League baseball player who still scouts, said he received a cable today from the Cardinal management offering a contract to Ned Nobriga, former University of Hawaii pitcher, now high school athletic director for the Island of Hawaii.

Since ending his four-year pitching career at the university, Nobriga has pitched in the Senior League here. He is 22 years old, stands six feet two inches and weighs 190 pounds.

Strange Sounding Battery for Chisox

Chicago, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Boone and Wax was the strange sounding battery signed up today by the Chicago White Sox.

Carl Boone, a 27-year-old right handed pitcher, who once hurled for Indianapolis of the American Association and had a tryout with the Cubs until he broke a finger, and Charles Wax, a catcher from the Virginia League last season, were signed up and ordered to get ready for training camp.

Hoop-La

Honors in Dixie Baseball Circles Voted to Joe Engel.

CHATTANOOGA, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Ideas, Joe Engel says, sell baseball as well as asparagus, rubber hose and hairpins. By ideas, Joe usually means anything to build up ballyhoo and draw interest to his merchandise—the Chattanooga Baseball Team.

For two years Joe has proved his contention. His Lookouts have drawn good crowds, at home and on the road, while other teams have played to small audiences.

Smartest Ballyhoo Agent In Dixie.

Engel admits the annual Babe Ruth-Jake Ruppert headline act is pretty good, but he believes he's the smartest ballyhoo agent among Southern baseball men. And no one challenges his assumption.

Folks don't really get fired up about baseball around here until Joe starts his stuff.

Engel rose to a new high last season. There was hardly a week he didn't get into print with some act or statement that brought a laugh.

There was his Negro song and dance team.

Then the canary birds in their gilded cages, singing their sweetest in harmony with the base hits.

Later, as the season drew to a close and the race got hot, Joe plastered the area with posters advertising his road show—"The Lookout Special," with the great duster mails—and at no increase in prices.

Engle Busy Thinking Up Stunts.

The depression still is hanging around, so everyone knows Joe is busy thinking up schemes to attract the paying customers and to keep red ink off his box office ledger.

The fans like ballyhoo and so Joe gives it to them. The big question now is not so much who is going to win the pennant, but what will Joe do next?

Don Brennan Tops "Int" Mound Corps

Star, Now a Yankee, Won 26 Games; Boasts 2.79 Earned Run Averge.

New York, Jan. 26 (U.P.).—Donald Brennan, whose pitching with Newark last season earned him a chance to make the staff of the world champion New York Yankees, was the International League's leading hurler in 1932.

Official averages released today credited the star right-hander with an earned run average of 2.79 per game. He took part in 42 games and finished the season with 26 victories against 8 defeats for a percentage of .765.

LABARBA 2-1 CHOICE OVER WATSON

British Feather in Acid Test Tonight at Garden.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The acid test comes for Seaman Watson, British featherweight champion, in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night to bolster or disprove his previous trial by a fistic jury.

Watson, viewed by the experts and found wanting when he sought to prove in a gymnasium his qualifications for a match with Kid Chocolate, recognized here as featherweight champion, meets Fidel La Barba, of Los Angeles, in a 12-round match.

Labarba Sub for Chocolate.

La Barba was substituted when the Cuban was refused permission to enter the United States for lack of a working permit.

The odds in favor of La Barba, who fought Chocolate to a standstill although he lost in 15 rounds here a few weeks ago, ran as high as 2 to 1 today. La Barba will be rewarded with another chance at Chocolate if he outpoints Watson as he did a previous challenger, Elky Clark, in 1926.

Mid-Atlantic Tennis Body May Name Baker

The Middle Atlantic Tennis Association will hold its annual meeting tomorrow in Baltimore for the purpose of electing new officers, passing on the application of new clubs for membership and arranging the schedule of events under its wing.

Premeeting rumors have it that Lawrence A. Baker, secretary of the U. S. L. T. A., a local lawyer, will succeed John Magee, presidential incumbent.

Washington's delegation will be composed of Winfree Johnson, president of the Washington Tennis Association, and William O. Shreve, secretary-treasurer.

Luque, Two Rookies Sign Giant Contracts

New York, Jan. 26 (U.P.).—The New York Giants, who have been receiving signed contracts at the rate of one a day for more than a week, today announced the mail man had delivered three more.

CANZONERI VS. TOWNSEND.

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, agreed today to a ten-round match in Madison Square Garden, February 3, against Billy Townsend, of Vancouver, B. C. Canzoneri's title will not be at stake. The weights were set at 140 pounds.

Series Lead In Balance Today

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

AGED Doc Upset, whose old-fashioned but potent ministrations saved the dying high school basket ball series from collapsing last Tuesday, when his prescription enabled Eastern to stop the supposedly unbeatable Central quintet, still lurks in the vicinity and the possibility that he may pay another visit to the Tech gym today when Eastern clashes with Roosevelt, has the Light Blue fidgety. Western tangles with Tech in the second game of the afternoon which probably will be about as exciting as a meeting of the Podunk Ladies' Missionary Society.

Mr. Mike Kelley, whose coaching was a prime factor in the most important victory Eastern will win this season, has been strutting about more grandly than a hen with a brood of new-born chicks. Every time the ball slipped through the basket for his boys against Central, Mr. Kelley would glare triumphantly at the half dozen limp reporters supported by the press table, and yell: "How's zat?"

Kelley Worrying Today.

The din was terrific and very often the Eastern coach had to cup both hands to his mouth to be heard above the roar. But his actions conveyed the meaning of his words to the young men who had freely predicted a Central victory by a safe margin. Mr. Kelley's taunts were ignored with a coolness that caused the thermometer to shrink perceptibly.

But Mr. Kelley is carrying the weight of some genuine, unaffected worry on his shoulders right now. Roosevelt has been the big upset team of the series since the new way of deriving profit from peach baskets was introduced to high school patrons. Today's game furnishes an ideal setting for the Roughriders. Billy Harris and Joe Sherman, the two-gun bad men from Roosevelt have given no indications of slowing up, and if it has to watch only these two Eastern will have its 10 hands full. If Huck Cavanaugh, Babe Hayman and Bob Grimm suddenly go on a rampage, it will be a real rodeo.

What's Eastern going to be doing all this time? It is our guess that Messrs. Waters, Nolan and Bayliss will be taking their pot shots at the basket and making good on many, but the question is, will they be making them as frequently as Roosevelt?

Eastern Favorite To Win.

Eastern is favored to win, but not without a fight. A victory will give the Lincoln Parkers undisputed possession of the top rung of the ladder, temporarily. Defeat will not eliminate them from title consideration, but will put them in a precarious position.

Central's defeat instilled new hope in the breasts of the Tech players, but slim hope at best. The team has a rough and treacherous path to follow and the most it can hope for is a triple tie for the title.

Coach Artie Boyd has revamped the line-up and seemingly is obtaining better results. Boyd plans to start Olverson at center, Thomas and Daly at guards, and Wheeler or Gillem and Billings at forwards.

"We were just kidding 'em in that first half," Boyd said yesterday. "I wanted to see what the rest of them had. They're not so hot! I think we will win every game in the second half by a wide margin."

FINITE, 8-YEAR-OLD GELDING, WINS HIALEAH FEATURE RACE

Veteran Cops Sprint by Length

Ormesby Second and Sisken Third After Poor Start.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—George D. Widener's veteran sprinter, Finite, 8-year-old son of The Finn, returned to his top form here today to win the Lake City purse, a dash of six furlongs for 3-year-olds and unward which topped the program.

Bobby Leishman rode out the substantially-backed gelding to win by a good length from the Belair stud's Ormesby. A. W. Abbott's Siskin ran a remarkable race after dwelling flat-footed at the start, finishing another 5 lengths behind in the show position.

Finite, paying $5.10, made the fairly good time of 1:12 4-5. Light overnight showers did no harm to the racing strip.

Finite Opens Up Big Lead.

Finite dashed right out on top and under strong urging as Finite continued smoothly. Siskin caught Hey There in the final stages. Protractor always was outrun.

Miss Corinne, receiving a heady ride from Buddy Hanford, turned in one of her best efforts to beat the heavily played Foxiana in the opening event. A length separated the pair at the wire while Dark Mist lost the place by two lengths. Mint Drift and Dark Mist vied for the early lead, but they were swallowed up when the field closed in on them entering the stretch. Miss Corinne saved ground next to the inner rail and had the better of a stretch duel with Foxiana, which raced on the outside. The winner paid $10.70 for $2.

Fifth Race Easy for Bank Shot.

Bank Shot, the favorite, galloped all the way to win the 1 1-16-mile event, fifth on the program, by three lengths, paying $2.80 for $2. Hanford merely sat still on the gallant son of Chance Play to record a double. Iredell, Buddy Ensor up, saved the place from Absolute by three lengths.

Hanford, riding in good form today, earned his third victory on the well-played Wishing Star in the next to closing number. It took all Hanford's ability, besides that of his mount, to beat the long shot, Live One, by a nose. Aicman, racing into several pockets before finding racing room, annexed the show money, a length and a half away. Live One led the pack into the final furlong and held on well, although conceding victory to Wishing Star, which paid $6.40.

Ladysman Is Named First Derby Nominee

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Ladysman, W. R. Coe's champion two-year-old last year, was the first thoroughbred nominated for the 1933 Kentucky Derby, $50,000 added, which will be run at Churchill Downs here Saturday, May 6.

Announcement of the colt's nomination was made today at the Downs. The nominations close February 1, and the complete list will be made public February 18.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: MIAMI, JANUARY 26.

Miss Corinne did right by your friend Bill today. Now I guess this filly wasn't running with a checkrein in Maryland last fall. Also had Bank Shot in the big money. Getting at least two a day, which is enough to eat on. Especially now that I don't have to feed Mike. At least, he hasn't showed up since I sent him out for a 10-to-1 shot. However, he'll probably cost me more in the long run. I'm expecting a call from some nearby sheriff any minute. On the other hand, Mike might fool me and get me a good winner. Buddy Hanford went on the warpath today and what a rider he is when in the notion. BILL.

FIRST RACE—LE BRUYERE had bad racing luck in his outing here, being crowded off his stride. However, he finished fast to take the show while beaten some three lengths for all the money. SKY HAVEN was a dependable sort in Maryland last fall. GOLD BASIS turned in a neat winning effort here and may be better than rated.

SECOND RACE—CHINESE CUSTOM, beaten a length and a half opening day, appears the safest wager in this risky field. Coucci will be ready to ride this one, which appears to have a streak of class. DARTLE and JUST HYMAN to battle it out for the place.

THIRD RACE—GENERAL A doesn't mind weight and, although this group seems about to start a you-beat-me-and-I-beat-you campaign, I believe the GENERAL will cross them up tomorrow. The big awakening will concern THE POINT—one that makes few mistakes when they crack down. BROAD MEADOWS for the show.

FOURTH RACE—Mike's XXX special, PERNICKETY, bounces right back after today's scratch and still draws the Bennings stamp of approval. Asked to carry only 90 pounds, this one has an excellent chance. Closed like a house afire the last time out. PORTER'S DREAM is the one I'm afraid of, but I'm forced to guess when the let-go will be made. FERVID for the rest.

FIFTH RACE—EVELINE F is cheap and all that, but was run into condition at New Orleans, and I understand that she will be ready tomorrow for a big day. SUN FIRE and MODERN TIMES to take care of the rest.

SIXTH RACE—TREMENDOUS ran an even race here while a favorite. Tomorrow I look for that heavy gas in the stretch, and if it materializes the race will be over as far as the winning end is concerned. POLAR BRUSH appears second best, while EVER FAIR might show something resembling true form and account for the third money.

SEVENTH RACE—DRASTIC DELIGHT developed some leg trouble at Laurel last fall and after that failed to exhibit real racing ability. But I understand that is a closed incident now. This one has worked well, and if in a racing mood will slide home at good odds. DAILY NEWS will be in the thick of the battle, with BANDERLOG close by.

Virginia to Decide School Grid Champ

Leaders Meet February 4 in Richmond; Twins to Play Tonight.

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Jan. 26.—The old question as to "who is who?" in Virginia State football circles will be decided at meeting of high school officials at Richmond on February 4.

Last season the Virginia Literary and Athletic Association decided to do away with naming champions in all sports classes, but Lane High of Charlottesville went through its entire schedule without a defeat and so entered a claim with the association to be officially proclaimed as champions.

This matter will be threshed out at this session. Officials who will attend the conference are Elliot V. Graves, T. Walton Hall, H. D. Wolfe, Henry T. Moncure and Miss Katherine P. Hoverton. These leaders represent every sector of the State.

Friday night, the Alexandria High School basket ball quint will meet Washington and Lee high tossers of Arlington County in a game to decide northern Virginia scholastic title.

The "Twins" are now clashing their best form and will be out to stop the fast-traveling Arlington five. Given hopes to have his team intact for the fray.

It is expected the largest crowd of the season will see this contest.

Grays Swamp Drakes In Community Game

Sweeping their opponents off their feet in one of the wildest basket ball games witnessed here in some time, the United Grays defeated the Calvary Drakes by a record-breaking score of 73 to 16 at Central High School last night in the Community Center League. In the other games on the schedule the Millers turned back Congress Heights, 38-12; Crescents won a 35-18 victory over First Baptist, and Mercury defeated Naval Reserves in the closest game of the evening, 26-21.

Old Line Courtmen At Navy Tomorrow

Middies Favored to Win; American U. Host to Gallaudet Team.

Not quite recovered from the shock of losing to Catholic University Wednesday night by a 29-27 score in an extra period game—after holding a prohibitive lead in the first half—Maryland University's embattled Old Line basket ball team goes up against Navy tomorrow afternoon at Annapolis. Experts rate Navy the strongest team in this vicinity.

Last year the Maryland-Navy game wasn't a contest. The Old Liner outfit was so far superior that it cast a pall over the otherwise propitious happiness of the opening of Ritchie Coliseum. This year Navy has a bunch of sharpshooters unlike anything uncovered at the Academy in almost a decade. Maryland, on the other hand, has lost most of its "names."

Tomorrow night's local collegiate sports presentation is a meeting between American U. and Gallaudet at American U.

Hitting the Headpin

"DUTCH" NEWMAN, whose pin-spilling propensities earned the lead in the opening block of the Howard Campbell Sweepstakes last week, rolled a 389 set, including a 145 game, in the Recreation League at the G street alleys last night. But he was a poor second to "Whip" Litchfield, who smashed the season's game mark with a 178 score and finished with 405, his ninth 400 set of the year.

Litchfield's work helped the leading Sol Herzog quintet whitewash Book of Washington with a high game of 643 and set of 1,834.

Occidental Hotel's 872 and Master Plumbers' 1,644 provided the high team scores in the Daylight League at Convention Hall. Mower's 148 and "Little Eddie" Eddinger's 400 set, the latter an all-time league record, bagged the individual prizes.

Ed Hayes topped the scoring in the Kilowatts League at Convention Hall, rolling 138 and 378. Commercial led the teams with 568 and 1,598.

Frank Riley broke two all-time league records for the Nation-Wide loop at Convention Hall when he scattered the wood for a 149 game and 381 set. Auth's 532 and 1,497 outdistanced the teams.

A. Mangene set the pace in the War Department League at Arcadia last night, shooting a 158 high game and 405 high set. His team, Firing Squad, carried off honors with a 585 high team game and 1,649 high team set.

Mildred Jensen's 128 game and Bess Ackman's 343 set cornered the prize market in the Ladies' Federal League at Arcadia. Agriculture romped home with the team laurels, boasting a 528 game and 1,501 set.

The I. C. C. Examiners had themselves a time of it at Columbia, where Booth rolled a 358 set and Bradford come through with a 140 game, to top the scoring. Cost rolled 525 game and 1,559 set, to account for the team awards.

Ganna was outstanding in the Interior Department loop at Columbia, upsetting 150 pins for high game and following through for a 364 set. Pension rolled a 558 game and Secretary a 1,554 set.

Michigan, which rolled 603 for an all-time record in the Intercollegiate League last week, took the champion Maryland quintet into camp last night, winning the odd game. Frank Borden, of Lehigh, rolled high game, 144, and Muskoe Garnett, of V. P. I., high set, 380. Princeton was best in the team division with its 831 and 1,535.

DERBY HORSE IS GOAL OF GILBERT

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Johnny Gilbert, a modest Syrian youth with an ambition to ride the winner of the Kentucky Derby, has visions of booting a son of the mighty Man o' War to victory in the $50,000 classic, at Churchill Downs, May 6.

If he should be lucky enough to win the prized three-year-old stake, the 18-year-old boy from the mining regions of southeast Kansas would like to round out the year 1933 by again heading the jockey list. Last year he ored with 212 of his mounts.

Not Sure of Riddle Mount In Derby.

Johnny is not even sure that Samuel Riddle, who purchased his contract last fall, will give him a mount in the derby but he's hoping. If not aboard one of Riddle's horses, Gilbert hopes to don another's silks. He's not going to leave any stone unturned in an effort to get a good horse.

The master of the Glen Riddle Farms has two promising colts eligible for the mile and a quarter jaunt —War Glory and War Stripes. Of the two offspring of the famous Superhorse, War Glory is the more likely candidate. He qualified with an easy triumph in the Walden Handicap over one and one-sixteenth miles at Pimlico in November.

"Let me have a horse with a chance," said young Gilbert, "and I'll be in the thick of the battle."

Colored Super Five Downs Eagles, 45-39

In a fast game that was rough in spots, Conway's Super Five, a colored aggregation staging its first appearance here, defeated the Aero Eagles last night in the New Masonic Auditorium, 45-39, leading all the way. "Rap" Wheatley, former Morgan College guard, held "Joe" Sweeney scoreless until the final quarter of play, and "Tubba" Farrell likewise was able to locate the basket but twice during the play.

In the preliminary, the Red Sox railroad five defeated the Arrows, 28-27.

ALEXANDRIA RING CARD FILLED

Six-Rounder and Two Fours Added to Tuesday List.

ONE six-rounder and two four-round matches yesterday were completed by Promoter Frankie Mann as the supporting cast for the main bout between Les Kennedy and Marty Gallagher and the semiwind-up between Bob Tow and Herman Weiner, next Thursday at Portner's Arena, in Alexandria.

Willie Essinger, determined 130-pounder, of Washington, and Buck Taylor, of Baltimore, will head the preliminary list, while Marino Marini and Charlie Parker, of Baltimore, will battle in one four and Cary Wright and Sailor Leonard will meet in the other four-rounder.

Three of the heavyweights on n t week's program went through snappy workouts yesterday, while the fourth, Weiner, of Baltimore, failed to turn in for gym work, due to an injured hand. Gallagher stepped through his paces at Frankie Mann's gym, while the rugged Montanan, Kennedy, and Bob Tow, the Birmingham giant, shaped up at Portner's.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

BECAUSE it is possible, with the aid of radio, to fly mail planes at night, the night air-mail service is to be expanded greatly.

"There are a number of places where the service can be improved," Postmaster General Brown said at the hearings on the Treasury-Postoffice appropriation bill. "There are some places in the South where it ought to be improved, but it cannot be until you get the facilities for night flying. But they are coming along pretty fast.

"As fast as it is safe for a pilot to fly at night, the night service should be put on because that is when the mails move. Very great progress has been made in the last two years in moving the mail in that way. Pilots fly now when they are not able to see the ground for hours, which was utterly impossible before the use of the radio beam."

The Metropolitan Opera annual Wagner matinee cycle, beginning with Richard Wagner's music legend, "Der Ring des Niebelungen," will be inaugurated over a national network, including WRC, at 3:15 o'clock today, when a portion of "Das Rheingold" is broadcast.

A portion of the second and the complete third and fourth acts will be broadcast. Arthur Bodanzky will conduct and the cast will be as follows: Wotan, Friedrich Schorr, barytone; Donner, Arthur Anderson, basso; Froh, Hans Clemens, tenor; Loge, Rudolf Laubenthal, tenor; Alberich, Gustav Schutzendorf, barytone; Mime, Marek Windheim, tenor; Fasolt, Siegfried Tappolet, basso; Fafner, James Wolfe, basso; Fricka, Doris Doe, contralto; Freia, Dorothee Manski, soprano; Erda, Maria Olszewska, contralto; the Rhine-maidens—Woglinde, Editha Fleischer, soprano; Wellgunde, Rose Bampton, contralto, and Flosshilde, Doris Doe, contralto.

Babe Ruth, baseball's "Sultan of Swat," will reveal his "inside story" to Edwin C. Hill in the premiere broadcast of a new half-hour series over WJSV at 9:30 o'clock tonight. Nat Shilkret will provide "dramatic transitions in music" between various scenes. The program will also mark the return to the Columbia network of Nelson Eddy, young concert barytone.

IT is all in a day's work for the microphone to pick up and pass on the voice of president or king. Kreisler and Paderewski may be caught in its snares one of these days, but there is one person it will never capture. He is Rudolph, the Silent, who in every-day life is Rudolph Forster. He is just completing his thirty-fifth year as assistant presidential secretary in the White House executive offices.

Rudolph has been at the elbow of every President since the days of McKinley. He has known the innermost thoughts, almost, of McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. What a wealth of anecdotes Forster could relate.

A sphinx, compared with Rudolph, would be talkative, loud and noisy. It is, therefore, beyond the wildest speculation that he will ever yield to the lure of the microphone. However, should he ever be persuaded to talk over the air, Rudolph would be the prize radio capture of the century.

"The Earthquake," the story of a blast, in which over a million pounds of explosives were set off by the English, will be told by K-7 during the dramatization over WRC at 9 o'clock tonight. The blast, which was so great that it was felt across the channel in London, blew up the top of Messines Ridge, which had been consistently held by the Germans.

Dr. Walter Damrosch will have 600 guests when he conducts his weekly Music Appreciation Hour on WRC this morning. The entire membership of the music committee of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs will be present in the Times Square studio to witness the broadcast.

AN actual ring battle in the studio between two Chicago boxers will be staged for audiences of the "First Nighter" drama over the WJZ network at 9 o'clock tonight.

Because the third act of the play, "The Final Bout," which the "First Nighter" will present calls for a long fight scene, the Chicago production staff decided to make it real. The ring, fighters, referee and radio announcer for the fight all will be real.

Dave Barry, who refereed the Dempsey-Tunney fight, will referee the match. Hal Totten, sports announcer, will describe the studio contest. The thud of gloves, shuffling feet and clank of water pails are to provide background for the drama by a regular "First Nighter" cast, with June Meredith, Don Ameche, Cliff Soubier and Carlton Brickert.

Several new programs, originating in the studios of WCAU, Philadelphia, will be heard weekly, starting January 30, over the Columbia chain, including WJSV. They are the Savitt String Quartet, Mondays, 3:15 p. m.; Blanch Calloway's Orchestra, Mondays and Fridays, 1 p. m.; Vincent Travers' Orchestra, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 1 p. m.; Bud Shay's Dance Band, Wednesdays and Saturdays, 12 o'clock noon; Ben Greenblatt, the "Original Piano Rambler," Tuesday mornings at 11:45 a. m., and the "Five Melody Monarchs," a troupe of instrumentalists and vocalists, Friday afternoons at 2:45 o'clock.

IT'S the usual thing for a radio performer to request that he be given additional air periods. But when a broadcaster asks that his weekly schedule be decreased considerably—that's news. George Hall has just asked that he be allowed to drop six of the eleven programs he has been doing over the Columbia network. . . . The "Hollywood-on-the-Air" program will be heard on Fridays, instead of Thursdays, beginning tonight, 12:30 a. m. . . . Dramatizations of highspots in Sinclair Lewis' new book, "Ann Vickers," will be heard in March of Time (WJSV, 8:30 p. m.). . . . Another March of Time reenactment will be concerned with the last performance of Antonio Scotti at the Metropolitan Opera. . . . Al Jolson will broadcast from the studios of WIOD, Miami, tonight. He is vacationing except for his air appearances. . . . Zona Gale, author of "Miss Lulu Bett," Pulitzer Prize play, will announce her formula for good writing when she speaks over WRC at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

A high falsetto tenor was warbling in the offices of WJSV. "Good heavens," screamed some one, "who is that?"

An investigation showed the night host of WJSV singing into a telephone. "Are you serenading your girl friend?" asked the investigator. The night host made haste to explain that a fan had called and wanted to know the theme song of a particular orchestra. Said host couldn't remember the title—but he obliged her by singing it.

Bob White
The Old Philosopher
SAYS:

Question—I am on the outs with my mother-in-law. This has caused us a great deal of worry, for my husband is true to me and still feels the call of loyalty to his mother. What is the way out?

Answer—There is only one way out and that is a better understanding between you and the woman who went down to the door of death that your man whom you love might have his being. Look at it in this way first and you will find you have made a big move toward breaking down the barrier between you two. Then remember the years of sacrifice of that little mother, the work, worry and watchful care of his boyhood days. Think on these things and your heart will soften. Go on with your thinking for a minute. Remember you—a stranger, likely from another part of the world, enter the scene and smash as it were a beautiful picture of family life. You, who until a year or so back were an unknown quantity, steal into this home and to the mother, rob her of the one on whom her heart is set. Is it not to be expected that a little jealous feeling may enter? If she shows an interest for his well-being beyond her own doors, do not feel that she thinks you incapable. Think and know that it is but the expression of mother love.

A day will come in the not distant future when this mother will not be with you. Do not allow the few remaining years to be embittered. Go, break the silence, heal the wound, and let a love that is bigger than jealously enfold you.

Bob White, the old philosopher, will answer an outstanding question each week day on this page. He is heard twice daily over WMAL at 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

MORTGAGE UPRISING SPREADING IN WEST

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Massed protest against farm mortgage foreclosures spread beyond sectional limits today, echoing from Idaho to Ohio.

The day's developments in brief:

At Nampa, Idaho, the United Farmers League threatened to get out "a six shooter and four red-blooded men" to force the Legislature to enact mortgage relief laws;

Wood County, Ohio, farmers assembled to block a foreclosure and did so by removing a finance company bidder from the vicinity of the auction platform;

Gov. Tom Berry, of South Dakota, urged mortgage holders to refrain from foreclosure "wherever possible;"

At Le Mars, Iowa, Plymouth County farmers, "pioneers" in the forcible prevention of foreclosure sales, stopped a foreclosure of the home of Dr. G. W. Cunningham, to whom many of them said they owed dental bills;

Directors of the National Farmers Holiday Association, meeting at Des Moines, placed its influence behind "all organized efforts, local, county or State," whether in the name of the association or not, to protect farm property from foreclosure and to obtain cost of production for farm products;

Wisconsin authorities brought charges of rioting against 11 farmers as the result of a recent forced sale at Jefferson, where cattle and farm equipment was auctioned off at top bids of several cents and then returned to the original owner;

Gov. Clyde L. Herring, of Iowa, assured a group of Wapello County farmers of his support in delaying farm mortgage sales.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

STAR witness in a case that involved his own ownership, a parrot belonging to Vincent Swiderski took the stand in a Monroe, Mich., court and gave testimony that many humans would have trouble with. He identified three children that he had not seen for six years.

The case came to court after Mr. Swiderski saw a parrot which he thought was his, lost six years before. The new possessors disputed the claim, but the parrot settled it to the satisfaction of the court when he called out "Gladys, Leo, Joe," to the Swiderski children.

Concerned with such things in his official duties at Washington, D. C., it was only natural that Santiago Iglesias, Puerto Rico's resident commissioner in the United States Congress, should have the subjects of liberty, justice and equality uppermost in his mind. He went a bit further, however, and named his daughters each after an important attribute to modern civilization. The daughters are named: Liberty, America, Justice, Fraternity, Equality, Peace, Light, Victory.

Half a century ago the old high-wheeled bicycle was the last word in economical transportation. M. H. Hill, then a young man of 23, rode one of them. Today he still is a cycling enthusiast, and still rides his old high-wheeler.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TECHNOCRACY CASABIANCA.

(Columbia College and its group of engineers associated with Howard Scott, technocracy pioneer, have severed relations with him and dropped technocracy as such.—News item.)

* * * *

THE boy stood on the burning deck
When all but him had fled;
He read a note pinned on the wreck—
"So long!" was all it said.

Yet beautiful and bright he stood,
As ergs fell all about;
He soothed his pain best he could
And dodged another clout.

Without his buddies' word;
His buddies, huddled far below,
His voice no longer heard.

He called aloud, "Oh, Rauten—strauch!
Say if my task is done!"
Another bottle hit him—Ouch!
It came from Henderson. .

"Speak, Jones!" he desperately cried,
"If I may yet be gone!"
And but the booming shots replied
As fast the flames rolled on.

Upon his brow he felt their breath
And as he wavered there
He seemed to sense the movement's death
In still yet brave despair.

Oh, man! that deck was getting hot,
And plainly he could see;
It was no time for Howard Scott
To measure energy.

Then came a burst of thunder sound . . .
The boy—oh, where was he?
Ask of the winds that thrash around
And sweep Technocracy!

With joules and ergs and graphs he fell,
And sank with a feeble cough,
As from his pals there came a yell,
"Columbia signing off!"

CARELESS.

The Columbia professors want a new name for Technocracy. And, as emphasized in one of Ring Lardner's songs, they "mean a last name."

AND NOW . . .

Of course when the Columbia boys took over Technocracy they didn't know it was loaded.

ADVICE TO AN ALLIGATOR.

Alligator in the jungle,
Do not your existence bungle!
You won't have much time for sport—
Don't be lazy but cavort;
In the water, splash and bellow,
While you may be merry, fellow,
All too soon will you decease,
And be skinned for a valise.

Robbery Suspect Arrested in House

Owners Away From Home, Police See Man and Seize Him.

A colored man identifying himself as Lester C. Jackson, 21, with no fixed address, was held by Eighth Precinct police for investigation last night, following his apprehension by Policemen A. G. Keene and G. D. Wyant in the home of Harry Hoskinson at 3410 Garfield street northwest, vice president of the Sanitary Grocery Co., Inc.

Seeing a window in the house open and knowing the family were away from home, the policemen stopped their patrol car to investigate.

They said they found the man descending from the second floor with considerable loot. They suspect that the man may be connected with several housebreakings in that section of the city.

Woman and Her Mother Painfully Hurt by Auto

Miss Ella F. Jennings, 43, and her mother, Mrs. Hattie L. Jennings, 953 Shepherd street northwest, suffered cuts and bruises last night when their car was struck by a hit-and-run driver at Thirteenth and T streets northwest. They were treated at Garfield Hospital.

A short time after the accident was reported, Sergt. J. R. Leach, of the Tenth Precinct, arrested Arthur Evans, 1520 L street northwest, in connection with the crash.

Youth Shoots Himself In Foot in Practicing

That he is only an amateur marksman, it would be hard for Joseph Lucas, 17, 1905 Twelfth street southeast, to deny.

While engaged in a little target practice yesterday near Riggs road and Pennsylvania avenue southeast he accidentally shot himself through the right foot with a .22-caliber rifle.

Ice and Rum

Bring Arrest of 3 Men; Too Many Chunks Delivered to House.

Water is necessary in making whisky, but having it delivered frozen in large chunks several times a day is bound to arouse suspicion in the minds of neighbors.

Neighbors told Eleventh Precinct police about a little unpretentious house near Eighteenth and Minnesota avenue southeast, that used an unusual amount of ice. The police paid the house a visit yesterday and said they found 600 gallons of rye liquor, a 250 gallon still running full steam. They arrested two white men and a colored man, all of whom were taken to the station and charged with possession of liquor and materials for its manufacture.

Those arrested gave their names as Harry I. Hilton, 22, of 1311 Seventh street northwest; Harry A. Dove, 52, of 225 Anacostia road northeast, and Wallace J. Curtis, colored, 28, of 515 Fifty-seventh street northeast.

LUSK CHALLENGES DRYS TO VOTE HERE ON BEER MEASURE

Would Have District Referendum on Black Bill to Legalize Brewing.

Drys protesting enactment of the Black beer-for-revenue bill yesterday were challenged to submit the measure to the people of the District in a city-wide referendum at concluding hearings before the House District Judiciary subcommittee.

The challenge was made by Rufus S. Lusk, national legislative officer of the Crusaders and coauthor of the Black bill. He said he was "perfectly willing that Congress should authorize a referendum to be held not later than April 1."

No action was taken yesterday on his proposal. The subcommittee is expected to report the beer bill favorably to the full committee at the next meeting of the body.

Three Questions Framed.

Mr. Lusk said he would submit these three questions in the proposed referendum:

1. Shall the Sheppard bone-dry act be repealed?

2. Pending the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, shall the sale of beer be legalized in the District?

3. Shall Congress adopt a modern, reasonable system of liquor control suitable for the District of Columbia to become effective if and when the eighteenth amendment is repealed?

Although yesterday's hearings were set aside for the wets to conclude their case, Bishop James Cannon, jr., filed copies of resolutions opposing the Black bill, adopted at a mass meeting of local drys.

Cites State Vote Results.

Besides Mr. Lusk, testifying for the bill yesterday were former Gov. Robert Cooper of South Carolina, representing the Abner Drury Brewing Co., in Washington, and F. W. Buck, representing the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction League. John J. Dunnigan, Democratic leader of the New York State Senate, who expects to sponsor a New York beer bill in his State Legislature, attended.

Mr. Lusk, in suggesting a local referendum, pointed out that 12 States held referendums last year, and all voted to overthrow prohibition.

"I challenge every professional and volunteer dry in this audience, in this city, indeed, in the United States, to accept this proposition," he said.

"If none accept it, it is an admission on their part that they know public sentiment in the Nation's Capital is opposed to prohibition, or else they must admit that they are unwilling for the people of the Nation's Capital to be heard on a question so vitally affecting every citizen of Washington."

Two Holdup Men Get $25 at Filling Station

Two robbers held up and robbed a gasoline filling station at New Jersey and Florida avenues northwest late last night.

While one of them held Charles H. Clarkson, night manager, at bay, the other rifled the cash drawer of about $25. They are believed to have escaped on foot.

Woman Sues District For $10,000 in Fall

Alleging she fell into a ditch while she was crossing Belt road near Fessenden street northwest, last July, Ella Nora Winstead, of 4620 Forty-third street northwest, yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court against the District of Columbia for $10,000 damages.

Man Is Arrested; Says It's Mistake

Found in Girl's Room by Her Brother, Suspect Blames Drink.

A man identifying himself as John Tartatglia, 29, and giving his address as 1415 Jenifer street northwest, was arrested last night following an alleged attempt to loot the room of Miss Dorothy Peterson, 1745 N street northwest.

The man was said to have been found in the room by the girl's brother, Bradley Peterson. He and Charles Baugh, who lives at the same address, held the man until police arrived.

When taken to the Third Precinct station, the man is said to have told police that it was all a mistake, explaining that he was drunk and he did not know where he was.

RECEIVING SERVICE MEDAL

ACCORD DUE TODAY IN POWER RATE CUT

Pact Admitting Authority of P. U. C. in Fixing Scale Reported Agreed To.

An agreement between the Public Utilities Commission and the Potomac Electric Power Co. for the termination of litigation subsequent to a reduction in electric rates appeared imminent at the conclusion of another conference late yesterday afternoon.

"Excellent progress has been made," Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, said, "and it is hoped that an agreement will be reached at another conference, to be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning."

Negotiations were resumed yesterday afternoon, following preliminary parleys between People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel. Mr. Bride also conferred with S. R. Bowen, counsel for the power company.

While no information was revealed as to the nature of the "progress" reported by Gen. Patrick, indications were that a document which clearly admits the authority of the commission to fix rates has been tentatively agreed to and that only the approval of power company officials is necessary. As was the case during negotiations last week, Mr. Bowen can not enter into any arrangement without consulting his colleagues.

The near-reconciliation between the commission and the people's counsel was brought about by Mr. Bride, who has been trying to smooth over differences since last week. He has also conferred with Mr. Bowen several times in an effort to bring him in accord.

If an agreement is reached today, it is believed that it will carry the safeguard of the commission's authority to fix rates independently, as set forth in Justice Luhring's recent decision in District Supreme Court, in accordance with the insistence of Mr. Keech and Mr. Bride. If the power company refuses to recognize this right, there will probably be no compromise.

Suspect Pleads Guilty To Accepting Race Bet

Charged with having accepted a racing bet of $1 from Policeman C. R. Blick, Ezra W. Soules, 31 years old, yesterday entered a plea of guilty when he was brought before Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court. Sentence will be pronounced February 3.

According to Assistant United States Attorney Frank Adams, Soules was charged with having violated a special section of the code which covers street betting. The penalty is a maximum fine of $500 and 90 days in jail.

CLUB GIVES MEDAL TO MISS MERRICK

Head of Christ Child Society Is Paid High Honor by Cosmopolitan Group.

An outstanding act of civic service, performed during the year 1932, was rewarded yesterday by presentation of the Cosmopolitan Club Distinguished Service Medal to Miss Mary Virginia Merrick, founder and president of the Christ Child Society.

The medal, awarded annually by the club, was presented at ceremonies at Carlton Hotel. Miss Merrick, an invalid since childhood, was unable to attend and the presentation was made to Mrs. Charles P. Neill, national vice president of the society, acting as her proxy.

A pioneer in child welfare work, Miss Merrick's gift to Washington of the Christ Child Settlement House at 608 Massachusetts avenue northeast, was basis for the award. Her untiring efforts in overcoming a physical handicap to launch work recognized throughout the country were lauded by Dr. J. Rozier Biggs, chairman of the Cosmopolitan Club medal committee.

Visit at Her Home.

Following exercises at the hotel, a small committee went to Miss Merrick's home at 2 East Melrose street, Chevy Chase, Md., where the medal was presented to her.

Dr. Biggs, in presenting the medal, pointed to Miss Merrick's work in founding the Christ Child Society and her labors in promoting child welfare work. He told how, crippled by a fall from a fence during her childhood and forced to live in a wheel chair from that time on, Miss Merrick, instead of yielding to her injury, thought only of how to aid others.

With a small group of friends, Dr. Biggs related, she started making layettes for poor children, and from this beginning built up the Christ Child Society to its present status, with branches in 33 cities.

Mrs. Neill paid tribute to Miss Merrick as an efficient organizer and inspiring leader in the work which she started.

"Some years ago," Mrs. Neill said, "Miss Merrick received the Laetaire Medal, conferred every year by the University of Notre Dame on the lay man or woman who has done extraordinary work in any field of uplifting endeavor."

Others Are Present.

The exercises were broadcast from station WMAL.

Policemen Find Plaintiff on Street in Tears; Man Held for Jury.

Unable to raise a $5,000 bond that United States Commissioner Needham ordered him to post, Homer B. Shropshire, 20 years old, yesterday was committed to the District Jail to await the action of the District grand jury, which is investigating a charge he violated the Mann act.

In a hearing before the Commissioner, Shropshire was accused by Miss Dorothy L. Pollard, 22 years old, of inducing her to come here from her Virginia home. She said that once she arrived here, Shropshire began beating her, and instructed her how to "pick up men" and take them to an apartment.

Says Youth Found Her.

Policemen J. E. Bennett and L. R. LeFoe, of the Traffic Bureau, arrested Shropshire after they had questioned Miss Pollard, whom they found crying on the street. She told them that three weeks after she had come here, she was taken back to her home, and, she testified, she came back here on a bus the day before Christmas.

One week after her return, she declared, the youth found her and got her to take an apartment near Twelfth and M streets northwest. She said that she had turned over about $66 to the man.

Agents of the Department of Justice are investigating other charges against Shropshire. Police said they believed they had located other women who had complaints to make against him.

Shropshire was arrested by police in an apartment on the third floor of 1117 Vermont avenue northwest. Due to a typographical error this appeared as 1107 Vermont avenue in yesterday's paper.

Others Are Released.

First Precinct police last night said they were holding three men and a woman whose activities are being investigated by the Department of Justice in connection with a case similar to Shropshire's. Those arrested are John A. Connelly, 33, 903 M street northwest; Loretta C. Connelly, 24, same address; Henry Davis, 27, 613 New Jersey avenue northwest, and Benjamin Girson, 31, of 216 Eleventh street northwest.

James Henry Melcher, who was taken into custody by the Department of Justice for questioning in the case, was released last night, police said. Alice V. Border and Lena Melcher, who were taken into custody at the same time, were also freed.

Razor Blade Used In Suicide Attempt

Woman Found With Wrists Slashed Sent to Gallinger Hospital.

Mrs. Joane Kwapiszewska, 38 years old, of 1600 New Hampshire avenue northwest, yesterday attempted to end her life by cutting both wrists with a razor blade in the bathroom of her home.

Her sister, Mrs. Mary Ramos, also of the New Hamphsire avenue address, found the woman lying on the bathroom floor bleeding profusely. Dr. Wade Atkinson, of 1402 M street northwest, was summoned and gave the woman first aid.

She was removed to Emergency Hospital, treated and then sent to Gallinger Municipal Hospital for mental observation. The only motive that could be ascertained for her action was her statement that she "just did not want to live."

Grant's Assistant Goes to West Point

Capt. Haring Expected to Succeed Lieut. Butler in Capital Post.

First Lieut. F. B. Butler, executive assistant to Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, is to be transferred to the Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., it was learned yesterday.

Although no official announcement of the transfer has been made, it was reported that Lieut. Butler will be an aid to the commandant of the academy.

Capt. Ellis E. Haring, another officer of the Engineering Corps of the Army, is expected to succeed Lieut. Butler as executive assistant to Col. Grant.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

The accident total for yesterday numbered 44, with 26 resulting in injuries. This is the greatest number in one day recorded since the first of the year.

The bad weather may have been to blame. Many motorists apparently do not realize they should be more careful in inclement weather.

Is there any more reason why a motorist should drive along trusting to luck than for a ship's captain to run through fog and rain trusting that no ship gets in the way?

Deaths	8	3
Injuries	279	249
Accidents	587	507

HASTY NOTE HOLDS ESTATE'S DISPOSAL

Suicide's Husband Files Plea to Cancel Old Will Leaving $88,000.

A penciled memorandum, written by Mrs. Elizabeth Licarione, who committed suicide last December 15, may dispose of her estate, which is valued at $88,000, if a petition of her husband, Thomas Licarione, is accepted by the District Supreme Court.

The husband claimed that the memorandum was written by his wife on the day of her death and plainly shows that she intended to revoke a previous will and name him the principal beneficiary. In the previous will Mr. Licarione is given only a share fixed for him by law as her husband.

Through Attorneys E. A. and R. W. McMahon, the husband said that his wife intended to reshape her will, but had not the time. He asks that the prior will be declared void and the penciled memorandum held valid. The wife is survived by three brothers in New York, and by a child that would be 32 years old, if now alive. The child, it was said, has not been heard from for many years.

The estate is made up of $800 in personal property and $88,000 in real estate.

$10,000 Bail Fixed In Robbery of Safe

Three Men Held to Grand Jury in Palais Royal Warehouse Theft.

Three men charged with robbing the safe of the Palais Royal Department Store warehouse at First and L streets northeast of $360 were ordered held under bonds of $10,000 each yesterday when they were arraigned in Police Court. They are Thomas P. Hankins, Daniel Adams and Grant Brunson, the latter two being colored.

Police charged that Hankins, who had worked for the department store for four years, planned the robbery and induced the two colored men to carry out his plans. The trio were bound over for the action of the grand jury on charges of housebreaking and larceny.

Joseph P. Ashford, night watchman at the warehouse, said that he was bound and gagged and left trussed up while the safe was smashed with sledge hammers last Saturday.

Woman Badly Burned In Cooker Lid Accident

Mrs. Adella Luscomb, 30, of 2018 Benning road northeast, an employe of a downtown department store, was severely burned about her face and arms late yesterday when the lid on a pressure cooker in which she was cooking a ham blew off.

She was treated at Casualty Hospital.

LARGE CROWD SEES DRAMA GUILD PLAY AT WARDMAN PARK

Fast Life Among Austrian Royalty Is Portrayed to Enthusiastic Guests.

Fast life among the Austrian royalty just before the outbreak of the World War was portrayed to a large and enthusiastic audience at the Wardman Park Theater last night when the Drama Guild of Washington presented "Olympia," a play by Ferenc Molnar.

The Princess Eugenie Plata-Ettingen, played by Grace Peters Johnson, pays her annual visit to a fashionable Austrian watering place, accompanied by her daughter, Olympia. Princess Orsolini, played by Virginia Barclay Wilson. Also in the party are Count Albert (Denis E. Connell) and Countess Lina (Carolina McKinley).

The daughter has fallen in love with Capt. Kovacs, of the Imperial Hungarian Hussards (Paul Bradbury Walter). The latter, however, after the Princess has mocked him as peasant, poses as a famous crook and has the village police brought in.

Climax Is Plight.

The story reaches its climax in the second act when the captain overcomes the Princess and flies with her into a moonlit park. The mother observes the action with a wink of satisfaction, hoping that through the affair a worse scandal may be avoided.

Sophisticated Young Widow.

Royal Arch Gunnison is comical as a dumb Austrian policeman, but the characterization appeared overdrawn.

The play as a whole although bravely done, strikes the reviewer as being an unsuitable selection and miscast. It proves again that the scintillating dialogue and intriguing situations of Mr. Molnar have an irrepressible fascination for the amateur theatrical organization.

Constance Connor Brown is the director of the play which will be repeated tonight. The setting and staging are the work of Robert M. Wick. Harry B. Hambleton and a corps of assistants.

$100,000 HELD NEED FOR JEWISH RELIEF

Social Service Agency Must Cut Budget in Spite of Increasing Demands.

Although petitions for relief are increasing daily, the Jewish Social Service Agency will be forced to operate on a reduced budget during 1933, it was announced last night at the annual meeting at the Jewish Community Center.

Due to ever-increasing demands on the Community Chest, appropriations to the Jewish Relief Agency, a parent organization, will be reduced considerably. Officers of the Jewish organization will meet Monday with officers of Community Chest to determine the 1933 allotment.

Last year the organization spent $78,120.22 on relief. Of this amount $6,000 was raised within the membership of the organization. It is estimated that $100,000 is needed to cover the field adequately in 1933.

Following the adoption of a constitution and by-laws, it was voted to change the name of the organization from the United Hebrew Relief Society to the Jewish Social Service Agency.

Suspect Reveals Details of Slaying

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered George McKinley Pitmond, colored, 34, of Baltimore, held for the grand jury in the case of William Simms, 65-year-old colored watchman, who was murdered last Sunday at the Dickey Bros. feed store, Kenilworth avenue and Benning road northeast. Joe Goodman, alias Joe Smith, who actually committed the crime, according to Pitmond, is still at large, but was ordered apprehended and held for the grand jury.

Pitmond told the jury that he and Goodman had planned to rob another place, but later decided on the feed store.

Man's Insurers Sue After Treasury Fall

A fall into an excavation in the Treasury Building last March resulted yesterday in a suit for $50,000 being filed against the contracting firm of Brady Bros. a partnership made up of John H. and Joseph M. Brady. The suit, filed in District Supreme Court, charged that John M. Babson, of 930 H street northwest, was catapulted into the excavation when a board covering the hole broke while he was walking on it.

Babson was paid $1,091.62 for his injuries from an insurance company that covered his employer, and the insurance firm filed the suit yesterday to recoup its loss and to obtain for Babson any sum in excess of the payment already made.
